The Pacific Conquered
Death At Sixteen
The Biggest Diamond

ONE MORE STEP toward real flying, another important conquest of the air.

The first air "clipper ship" for regular flight, back and forth across the Pacific ocean, is on its way from San Francisco to Manila, not quite 8,000 miles.

Stops will be at Honolulu, Midway island, Wake island, Guam, where the United States should have the greatest submarine and air base in the world and then Manila, which Uncle Sam has obligingly abandoned to Japan.

Later trans-Pacific mail service will be extended to China, if there is any "China" left by that time.

MILITARY OBSERVERS representing various nations in Ethiopia believe that, even with fifty nations to one against Italy, the war will not last long.

Latest news tells of Italians sending 20,000 Ethiopian warriors under Ras Seyoum scattering over the mountains, bombing Ethiopian positions in the mountains 8,000 feet high.

Haile Selassie thinks nothing would make him arrange a settlement now, but a few dozen airplanes persistently visiting his lodgings may seem to him more important than fifty nations content with their starvation of Italy program, showing no inclination to do any fighting.

JOHN S. CIEMIENGO, 16, sentenced to die next January in the electric chair, helped George H. Hildebrand, 26, to rob and murder an old poultry farmer.

Sixteen seems rather young for an electric chair candidate, but the judge and jury felt that by disposing of the young murderer now they would avoid robberies and murders in the future. Recent history of youthful criminals makes that probable.

ROBBERY AND MURDER having become an important profession and a highly profitable industry the public attitude toward capital punishment is changing.

Those that twenty-five years ago would have been horrified at sending a boy of sixteen to the electric chair are inclined now to "get them young and get rid of them."

It is as useful to kill a young rattlesnake as an old rattlesnake.

THE GREAT Jonker diamond, biggest uncut stone on earth, is to be cut into smaller pieces, since no one rich enough to buy it now would wear so big a diamond.

It might have been sold to a Russian czar, Turkish sultan or Ethiopian emperor for use in a crown, "to increase majesty." But czars, and sultans have vanished, Ethiopia's ruler is short of cash.

THE BIG DIAMOND will be cut into small pieces and sell for about $1,500,000. The largest "piece" will weigh 100 carats, the rest from ten to fifty carats, interesting opportunity for deserving Hollywood stars.

IF YOU CAN conveniently and properly acquire a reasonable supply of American paper dollars do so. Do not be disturbed by a temporary 59 cent or lower value or the absence of a gold basis.

Washington announces proudly that in the last four months England and France have sent six hundred million dollars worth of gold to this country, much of it invested in the Wall Street "baby boom" that Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan considers rather a bad sign.

Your government now holds ten thousand million dollars in gold, which makes Uncle Sam the greatest of all misers and gold hoarders in history.

All that yellow metal is back of your green dollars.

TEACHERS OPPOSE POLITICALIZATION OF STATE SCHOOLS

ALEXANDRIA, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The annual convention of the Louisiana Teachers association was concluded here today with the installation of officers and the adoption of resolutions.

One resolution adopted asked for repeal of the recently-passed state law which it was charged politicalized the public schools. This law gives the state budget committee power to pass upon the qualification of school teachers.

Another resolution expressed deep regret over the death this week of Dr. A. B. Dinwiddie, president of Tulane university, and declared that in his death the cause of education had lost a true friend.

Spencer Phillips, principal of the Pelican high school, was installed as president. Mr. Phillips expressed the hope that the teachers would abandon any differences existing and face the future with an united front.

Miss Myrtle Rodgers, of Monroe, was installed as vice-president.

CHIEF OF MINERS RESIGNS OFFICE IN LABOR GROUP

John L. Lewis Quits Vice-Presidency Of American Federation

ACTION CLIMAXES FIGHT FOR MASS ORGANIZATION

Had Sought To Form Unions By Industry Rather Than By Craft

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—(AP)—After a year of self-styled "looking out the window" in the American Federation of Labor's executive council, John L. Lewis decided today to wage his industrial unionism battle from the outside and resigned as a federation vice president.

The heavy-set chief of the United Mine Workers addressed a one-sentence letter of resignation to President William Green and left the capital.

There was no doubt in labor circles, however, that the resignation was another step in Lewis' long fight to force the federation to organize mass production workers by industry rather than by craft. That is, he would have workers in the steel industry in a single union, rather than the machinists and other groups in separate organizations.

That fight has become increasingly intense since the federation's Cincinnati convention of 1932. Feeling ran so high at the Atlantic City, N. J., convention last month that Lewis and William Hutcheson, president of the carpenters and one of the craft union

MOVE TO BAN WAR COTTON IS HINTED

Determination Seen To Keep U. S. Supplies From Prolonging Conflict

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The administration today cut off one source of Italian scrap iron amid increasing indications of a determination to keep American supplies from prolonging the Italo-Ethiopian war.

Secretary Hull, in fact, hinted at a possible effort to prevent shipments of American cotton to the war zone, and asserted at the same time that any question of essential war materials shipped in abnormal quantities would be given prompt attention.

But how far the administration intends to go in its campaign of financial as well as moral pressure, as in the case of the shipping board's reminder to its debtors yesterday, was not immediately disclosed.

Available methods of preventing cotton shipments became a subject of speculation. Hull did not say what he had in mind beyond leaving in response to questions a vague suggestion that the possibility was under consideration.

Newspapermen at once sought to learn from administration agricultural chiefs what, if any steps, were contemplated to halt cotton or food shipments. They met with little success.

Cully A. Cobb, chief of the AAA cotton section, hinted at the probability that the 4,450,000 bales of cot-

MARKET SPURRED BY SHARP RALLY

News From Capital Increases Trading; Friday Losses Recovered

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(AP)—A roaring bull market in stocks develcped today as news from Washington spurred traders and investors to seek issues they had unloaded in yesterday's shakeout.

Gains of $1 to $5 a share were scattered throughout the list with the heaviest buying appearing just before the close. The ticker tape fell behind floor transactions in the first hour and again lagged several minutes in the last-minute rush. The market more than recovered its losses of Friday.

Brokers attributed the sharp rally principally to the overnight headlined statement of Chairman Eccles of the federal reserve board to the effect that the government body could not, even if desired, interfere with the rise in stock prices because the movement was being conducted on a cash basis and not on bank credit.

Interest was centered on the Eccles thought that securities "are being bought out of the abundant investment funds in behalf of corporations and individuals, and out of funds being sent to this country by foreigners who wish to invest here because they believe that this is the safest and most profitable use of their money."

In addition to this stimulus from the chief reserve authority, it was noted that business, on the whole, is continuing to forge ahead and that heavy industry is picking up rapidly.

The fast pace set by the two-hour stock market proceedings resulted in total transfers of 1,819,130 shares, the largest Saturday volume since Feb. 10, 1934. The Associated Press average of 60 selected issues advanced $1.10 to $56. Both the rail and utility composite went into new high territory for the year or longer.

The rails turned strong in the final dash and were quickly followed by the utilities. The announcement of the Commonwealth & Southern that it would refuse to register with the securities and exchange commission came after the close, but was generally expected.

Wheat rallied more than a cent a

LOONEY ASKS ALLEN TO CONSENT TO BE FAIR IN ELECTION

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Frank J. Looney, Shreveport attorney and candidate for the unexpired term in the United States senate, today asked in an open letter to his opponent, Gov. O. K. Allen, that he "consent to be fair" and agree that election commissioners be chosen as they have always been selected before.

HAWAII RECEIVES MAIL BY AIRSHIP

Harbor Rings With Cheers Of People As Giant Plane Comes Down

HONOLULU, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The silver-winger China clipper brought America's first Pacific air mail to Hawaii today, into a harbor ringing with the cheers of a "melting pot" population.

The huge air queen, with two tons of letters in her hold, alighted smoothly on Pearl Harbor at 10:19 a. m. (3:49 p. m. Eastern standard time). The arrival was a bit late because she bucked headwinds hundreds of miles and had to veer southward.

The 2,400-mile first leg of the inaugural trip from Alameda, Calif., to Manila, thus required 21 hours and 2 minutes.

In veering southward, the crew of the thundering clipper got a glimpse of Mauna Loa volcano in eruption 200 miles east of here. They sighted the volcano smoke 170 miles away.

Six army and navy planes swarmed about Diamond Head, landmark of Honolulu harbor, to greet the history-making ship.

The white-clad royal Hawaiian band played "The Song of the Islands"—customary greeting for incoming liners as Captain E. C. Musick and his crew of eight stepped ashore.

Mainlanders, Japanese, Chinese and native Hawaiians joined in mighty

BEACH FOOTPRINTS GIVE FRESH HOPE FOR LOST AVIATOR

SINGAPORE, Straits Settlements, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Reports that footprints were seen in the sand of Sayer island, off the west coast of Siam, brought fresh hopes today that the missing Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith might still be alive.

Captain Huseey, captain of a plane which flew over that area after a steamer reported seeing flares rising from the island, said:

"I searched all six Sayer islands and am certain there was nothing on four of them, but I cannot be sure about the others which were covered with jungle growth.

"I flew low over the beach of one of these islands and clearly saw footprints in the sand."

HAWKS ENDS TOUR

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Frank Hawks, speed flier, landed at Newark airport late today, completing a 25,000-mile aerial tour in behalf of the Will Rogers memorial fund. The journey took him to more than 100 cities.

APPOINTMENTS OF PASTORS SLATED

Methodist Conference To Close Today With Naming Of Ministers

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Admission of ministers on trial and the conferring of the orders of deacons and elders marked the final business session of the 90th annual Louisiana conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, here today. The conference will close tomorrow with announcement of appointments of ministers.

Elders orders were conferred on Allen Walter Townsend, Jr., Gretna; David Tarver, Morgan City; John Fletcher Wilson, Logansport; Joe Brown Love, Baton Rouge, and Roland William Faulk and J. B. Harper, of New Orleans.

Dr. Eugene B. Hawk, dean of the school of theology of Southern Methodist university, spoke tonight at a session commemorating the 400th anniversary of the first complete Bible printed in English. Rev. J. J. Morgan, Dallas, Texas, district secretary of the American Bible society, directed the evening session.

"This is the first time for centuries that the Bible has had to meet non-Christian philosophy, represented by the communist and nationalist movement," Dr. Hawk said. "I feel that it can meet conditions today if it is properly interpreted. The non-Christian movements are against the unity of God and the brotherhood of man."

L. E. Douglas and James C. Whitaker of the Ruston district and James C. Simpson of Shreveport were admitted on trial. James Cain, Shreveport, and Alfred D. St. Amant, Houma,

REFINERY WORKERS PREPARED TO QUIT JOBS ON MONDAY

HOUSTON, Nov. 23.—(AP)—With Harvey Freming, international president of the Oil Field and Refinery Workers en route from Washington to direct negotiations, more than 750 workers of the Shell refinery at Deer Park were ready today for a walkout in a wage and working condition controversy.

Roy B. Sessons, international representative, in Houston for several weeks supervising preliminary negotiations, said today the workers were ready to walk off their jobs at 4 p. m. Monday unless the company assured them that negotiations will start at once and be carried through to consummation.

Sessions said that a proposed contract had been submitted to Shell officials at a conference October 12, at which time company representatives had asked that they be given until November 20 in which to make a decision.

MERCURY DROPS TO 28 DEGREES ON SATURDAY

Wintry winds that sent the thermometer down to 28 degrees early yesterday, the coldest reading of the season in Monroe, are due to give way before rising temperatures predicted in an Associated Press report, which indicated a rise in the mercury today, with increasing cloudiness Monday bringing warmer weather.

In anticipation of a cold spell, Monroe motorists were filling automobile radiators with anti-freeze solutions, and overcoats were much in evidence in the streets yesterday.

FRENCH, BRITISH TALK ARMS PACT WITH NAZI CHIEF

Possibility Of Agreement Discussed As Step Toward Understanding

NATIONS HOPE TO REACH ACCORD ON WAR FORCES

Germany's Increasing Difficulties Are Seen As Help To Proposal

PARIS, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Diplomatic circles said tonight the possibility of a three-cornered arms agreement as a step toward a Franco-German understanding has been discussed by French and British diplomats with Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

The recent talks of the French ambassador, Andre Francois-Poncet, with the German leader, and the calls which Sir Eric Phipps, the British ambassador, has made on Hitler have resulted, it was said, in a preliminary plan.

Through this tentative formula, the three nations hoped to reach accords regarding land and air forces similar to the existing Anglo-German naval agreements, these quarters stated.

Diplomatic circles expressed the opinion that Germany's increasing economic difficulties will force Hitler to make a sharp cut in his rearmament program, and will make him view favorably a limitation agreement.

Joachim von Ribbentrop, Hitler's confidential representative, is expected to come to Paris soon for talks with Premier Laval.

France's whole foreign policy is felt to be at stake in the present situation. Laval must decide whether to adopt a limited policy extending only to the protection of her own frontiers—which an accord with Hitler probably would mean—or to continue attempting to keep Germany weak and to extend her eastern alliances to hamper Germany.

Great Britain, diplomatic sources said, is behind the move to reconcile France and Germany. They are convinced England, with troubles confronting her in the Mediterranean, wants to be sure of no trouble on the Rhine.

THOUSANDS FLOCK TO SEE HOT LAVA

Red Streams From Mauna Loa Become Civic Asset As Tourists Gather

HILO, Hawaii, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Red hot lava from Mauna Loa, potential menace yesterday to this city of 20,000, became a civic asset today.

Thousands of tourists flocked here to see the volcanic spectacle as lava continued gushing from the ancient crater at a speed of 10 to 15 miles an hour.

Throughout the night the molten mass poured from several fountains high up the historic old slope of the volcano, 40 miles from Hilo.

The cooling of lava belched up yesterday in the first few hours of the eruption—one of the island's most spectacular in years—slowed the downward creep of the hot rock as it reached more level ground.

Activity in the crater seemed unabated, however.

MYSTERY TOT

A chain of mysterious circumstances that trailed the abandonment in Memphis, Tenn., a month ago of this brown-haired, blue-eyed, 3-year-old baby, who calls herself "Colleen" and chatters about Texas, led authorities to believe she had been kidnaped. After a carnival girl, 14, left the baby in a hospital and vanished, three different groups claimed the child, and disappeared rapidly when investigation began.

BORAH MAY ASK FOR PRESIDENCY

Senator Says He Would Veto Such Bills As Anti-Lynch Measure

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Senator Borah bluntly asserted today that should he receive the "unexpected and great honor" of being president, he would veto as unconstitutional such legislation as the Costigan-Wagner anti-lynching bill.

His stand was given in a letter to the National Association for the Advancement of Colored people. It replied to one sounding his views, as a presidential possibility, toward the anti-lynching bill he has opposed in the senate.

The Idaho Republican's quick response to the challenge, and his wording of it, furthered the growing belief in Washington that he will get into the presidential race. But it was unusually outspoken for a presidential possibility.

Walter White, signing the association's letter as its secretary, said he was writing "on behalf of twelve million American negroes and of many white Americans who are deeply concerned with the alarming increase in lynchings in the United States." He warned that negro votes hold the balance of power in many pivotal states.

Borah replied he had opposed the Costigan-Wagner measure because he had no doubt it violated the constitution, and added:

"That being my view then and now, I shall vote against such measures as long as I am a member of the senate, and should the unexpected and great honor come to me of being president of the United States and such a bill should reach me, under my oath and in the light of my convictions, I would unhesitatingly veto it.

"I do not enter a discussion of what in my judgment is the utter futility of these measures aside from the constitutional question. Neither do I take time to again express, as I have often expressed it by word and act, my horror of lynching, further than

FASCIST STUDENTS TEAR FLAGS FROM PHYSICIANS' AUTO

United States Ambassador, Says Probe Of Incident May Bring Action

OIL PROBLEM MAY STAND IN WAY OF PEACE PLANS

Paris Hears That Embargo On Product Would Mean War With Duce

ROME, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The United States considered making representations to Italy tonight because of a demonstration against two physicians and their wives in which American flags were torn from an automobile.

The embassy is investigating the complaint of Dr. and Mrs. Frederick P. Moersch and Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Bollman of the Mayo institute, Rochester, Minn., that the two women were menaced by riotous Fascist students when they were in the university town Padua.

Their automobile had English license plates, believed responsible for the demonstration. American flags were ripped from the car, the embassy reported, and the automobile was damaged but "state police quieted the mob."

"If a further investigation warrants," said Breckinridge Long, the United States ambassador, "we will make representations to the Italian government."

As Italian flames of patriotism are fanned, more anti-foreign feeling is generated, especially against Great Britain, which Italy feels is responsible for sanctions.

Americans, mistaken for Englishmen, were involved in another incident last week. Four singers from New York were beaten because they failed to salute a passing funeral procession for a Blackshirt.

As a result of the incident at Padua, the American party cut short their tour of Italy and left for France. Mrs. Agnes Moersch and Mrs. Mildred Bollman explained they were in the parked car while their husbands were making hotel reservations.

They said they were terrorized by the Fascist students but were not harmed and it was an hour and a half before police cleared the crowd and their husbands were able to reach them.

OIL ISSUE RAISES IMPORTANT QUESTIONS

(By Associated Press)

Oil made more slippery Saturday the pathway to Italo-Ethiopian peace.

A move to deny Italy this commodity, vital for warfare, raised unofficially these questions: Will Italy quit the league if an oil embargo is applied?; Will Europe go to war again?

Paris heard unofficially that Premier Mussolini warned France an oil embargo would mean war. The Paris newspaper L'Oeuvre said this message was given to Premier laval Friday by Vittorio Cerruti, the Italian ambassador.

BURGLARY SUSPECT CAUGHT ENTERING SIXTH STREET HOME

W. J. Morgan, 39, who claims he lives in Seattle, Wash., was reputedly caught in the act of entering the home of Joe Gonzalez, 215 Sixth street, early yesterday morning.

The intruder was captured by Mrs. Gonzalez and held until the arrival of Police Officers H. E. Webb and H. T. Ward, who took the man into custody.

Morgan, who said he had been in Monroe only three days, was found in possession of two skeleton keys, one Phinney-Walker automobile clock, three fountain pens, file and other miscellaneous articles.

Police Superintendent L. V. Tarver, who questioned Morgan, expressed the belief that the man might be the individual who recently has been pilfering from parked automobiles, and Mr. Tarver states that if any of the articles found in Morgan's possession are recognized by the owners, he would like them to report at police headquarters.

MARIHUANA IS SEIZED BY POLICE AT ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Marihuana valued at $1,000 and said by police to be in sufficient quantity to make 10,000 cigarettes was seized by detectives here today when they raided the second floor of a building in the downtown section of New Orleans.

A man who gave his name as Robert Williams, 33, the purported owner of a soft drink establishment in the building, and a man booked as William Cayce, Jr., 30, were held at the third precinct police station and charged with violation of the state marihuana law.

Police List Names Of Five Who Saw Shooting Of Coach

LAKE CHARLES, La., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Police today listed the names of five witnesses, three girls and two boys, to the shooting yesterday of R. S. Killen, coach of the Lake Charles high school football team, and Rufus A. Russell, brooding father of a tackle on the team last year who had been dismissed from the squad for an infraction of the rules.

Russell went to the high school yesterday afternoon and called the coach out of a "pep" meeting in the school auditorium into the hallway of the building where Russell fired one shot into the coach's body and then sent another bullet into his own jaw.

Both of the wounded men were taken to the hospital in critical condition, but today physicians gave each a chance to recover.

The bullet that struck Killen entered the heart region and lodged near the eleventh rib. The one which Russell fired into his jaw lodged back of the frontal sinus.

Russell's son, Clifford, the player, it was reported, was whipped by teammates after he had violated training rules and his father became incensed and blamed the coach for the reputed punishment.

Sam Iles, chief of police, posted a guard at the hospital room of Russell and withheld the filing of charges until the outcome of the wounds of the two men is determined.

Russell, a cabinet maker for a local company, resided here with his wife and two sons, Clifford and Robert. Clifford did not play football this year because he was ineligible but Robert is a drummer in the high school band.

Yesterday E. V. Gangwer, superintendent of the plant where Russell works, said Russell left his work with the assertion that he was going to the high school to pay for repairs to a drum which he said his son, Robert, damaged on a football trip to Baton Rouge.

F. W. (Bill) Hafer, a taxi driver, said he carried Russell to the high

First Cold Snap Emphasizes Importance Of Good Fellows

GOOD FELLOWS FUND

Previously acknowledged ...$36.00

The first cold snap of the winter season yesterday gave new emphasis to the needs of little children in many homes of Monroe and West Monroe, ill-prepared to withstand the rigors of bitter weather.

To children warmly clad and fortified by nourishing food, yesterday's weather was a joyous experience. To them the crisp cold air and bright sunny skies afforded exhilaration and set cheeks glowing and eyes sparkling. But not so amongst those children who had to face the weather with thin garments, broken shoes, and with little or no food to warm their bodies. Think of those children in homes that are mere shacks, where there is no money to buy fuel, and where there are none of the comforts that are ordinarily a part of the most modestly equipped households.

There are many, many such homes in the Twin Cities—along certain sections of the river front, in the desolate back areas, off the main traveled streets—and one of the heart-rending things about it is that those homes have little children, who, through no fault of their own, are the chief sufferers from poverty and privation. If you don't believe there is such suffering in these two prosperous communities, take an hour or two today and make an investigation for yourself. You will be appalled.

What sort of a Christmas is in store for those little children? What an opportunity to display some of the Yuletide spirit by helping to bring a little cheer into the lives of these unfortunates! That's what the Good Fellows fund is for—to make it possible for the underprivileged children to wear warm clothing, to give them nourishing meals at the holiday season, and to make their drab lives a little brighter and happier.

You may not be able to do much, but you can do your little bit, how-

Gains of $1 to $5 a share were scattered throughout the list with the heaviest buying appearing just before the close. The ticker tape fell behind floor transactions in the first hour and again lagged several minutes in the last-minute rush. The market more than recovered its losses of Friday.

Brokers attributed the sharp rally principally to the overnight headlined statement of Chairman Eccles of the federal reserve board to the effect that the government body could not, even if desired, interfere with the rise in stock prices because the movement was being conducted on a cash basis and not on bank credit.

Interest was centered on the Eccles thought that securities "are being bought out of the abundant investment funds in behalf of corporations and individuals, and out of funds being sent to this country by foreigners who wish to invest here because they believe that this is the safest and most profitable use of their money."

In addition to this stimulus from the chief reserve authority, it was noted that business, on the whole, is continuing to forge ahead and that heavy industry is picking up rapidly.

The fast pace set by the two-hour stock market proceedings resulted in total transfers of 1,819,130 shares, the largest Saturday volume since Feb. 10, 1934. The Associated Press average of 60 selected issues advanced $1.10 to $56. Both the rail and utility composite went into new high territory for the year or longer.

The rails turned strong in the final dash and were quickly followed by the utilities. The announcement of the Commonwealth & Southern that it would refuse to register with the securities and exchange commission came after the close, but was generally expected.

Wheat rallied more than a cent a

LOONEY ASKS ALLEN TO CONSENT TO BE FAIR IN ELECTION

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Frank J. Looney, Shreveport attorney and candidate for the unexpired term in the United States senate, today asked in an open letter to his opponent, Gov. O. K. Allen, that he "consent to be fair" and agree that election commissioners be chosen as they have always been selected before.

HAWAII RECEIVES MAIL BY AIRSHIP

Harbor Rings With Cheers Of People As Giant Plane Comes Down

HONOLULU, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The silver-winger China clipper brought America's first Pacific air mail to Hawaii today, into a harbor ringing with the cheers of a "melting pot" population.

The huge air queen, with two tons of letters in her hold, alighted smoothly on Pearl Harbor at 10:19 a. m. (3:49 p. m. Eastern standard time). The arrival was a bit late because she bucked headwinds hundreds of miles and had to veer southward.

The 2,400-mile first leg of the inaugural trip from Alameda, Calif., to Manila, thus required 21 hours and 2 minutes.

In veering southward, the crew of the thundering clipper got a glimpse of Mauna Loa volcano in eruption 200 miles east of here. They sighted the volcano smoke 170 miles away.

Six army and navy planes swarmed about Diamond Head, landmark of Honolulu harbor, to greet the history-making ship.

The white-clad royal Hawaiian band played "The Song of the Islands"—customary greeting for incoming liners as Captain E. C. Musick and his crew of eight stepped ashore.

Mainlanders, Japanese, Chinese and native Hawaiians joined in mighty

BEACH FOOTPRINTS GIVE FRESH HOPE FOR LOST AVIATOR

SINGAPORE, Straits Settlements, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Reports that footprints were seen in the sand of Sayer island, off the west coast of Siam, brought fresh hopes today that the missing Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith might still be alive.

Captain Huseey, captain of a plane which flew over that area after a steamer reported seeing flares rising from the island, said:

"I searched all six Sayer islands and am certain there was nothing on four of them, but I cannot be sure about the others which were covered with jungle growth.

"I flew low over the beach of one of these islands and clearly saw footprints in the sand."

HAWKS ENDS TOUR

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Frank Hawks, speed flier, landed at Newark airport late today, completing a 25,000-mile aerial tour in behalf of the Will Rogers memorial fund. The journey took him to more than 100 cities.

APPOINTMENTS OF PASTORS SLATED

Methodist Conference To Close Today With Naming Of Ministers

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Admission of ministers on trial and the conferring of the orders of deacons and elders marked the final business session of the 90th annual Louisiana conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, here today. The conference will close tomorrow with announcement of appointments of ministers.

Elders orders were conferred on Allen Walter Townsend, Jr., Gretna; David Tarver, Morgan City; John Fletcher Wilson, Logansport; Joe Brown Love, Baton Rouge, and Roland William Faulk and J. B. Harper, of New Orleans.

Dr. Eugene B. Hawk, dean of the school of theology of Southern Methodist university, spoke tonight at a session commemorating the 400th anniversary of the first complete Bible printed in English. Rev. J. J. Morgan, Dallas, Texas, district secretary of the American Bible society, directed the evening session.

"This is the first time for centuries that the Bible has had to meet non-Christian philosophy, represented by the communist and nationalist movement," Dr. Hawk said. "I feel that it can meet conditions today if it is properly interpreted. The non-Christian movements are against the unity of God and the brotherhood of man."

L. E. Douglas and James C. Whitaker of the Ruston district and James C. Simpson of Shreveport were admitted on trial. James Cain, Shreveport, and Alfred D. St. Amant, Houma,

REFINERY WORKERS PREPARED TO QUIT JOBS ON MONDAY

HOUSTON, Nov. 23.—(AP)—With Harvey Freming, international president of the Oil Field and Refinery Workers en route from Washington to direct negotiations, more than 750 workers of the Shell refinery at Deer Park were ready today for a walkout in a wage and working condition controversy.

Roy B. Sessons, international representative, in Houston for several weeks supervising preliminary negotiations, said today the workers were ready to walk off their jobs at 4 p. m. Monday unless the company assured them that negotiations will start at once and be carried through to consummation.

Sessions said that a proposed contract had been submitted to Shell officials at a conference October 12, at which time company representatives had asked that they be given until November 20 in which to make a decision.

MERCURY DROPS TO 28 DEGREES ON SATURDAY

Wintry winds that sent the thermometer down to 28 degrees early yesterday, the coldest reading of the season in Monroe, are due to give way before rising temperatures predicted in an Associated Press report, which indicated a rise in the mercury today, with increasing cloudiness Monday bringing warmer weather.

In anticipation of a cold spell, Monroe motorists were filling automobile radiators with anti-freeze solutions, and overcoats were much in evidence in the streets yesterday.

FRENCH, BRITISH TALK ARMS PACT WITH NAZI CHIEF

Possibility Of Agreement Discussed As Step Toward Understanding

NATIONS HOPE TO REACH ACCORD ON WAR FORCES

Germany's Increasing Difficulties Are Seen As Help To Proposal

PARIS, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Diplomatic circles said tonight the possibility of a three-cornered arms agreement as a step toward a Franco-German understanding has been discussed by French and British diplomats with Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

The recent talks of the French ambassador, Andre Francois-Poncet, with the German leader, and the calls which Sir Eric Phipps, the British ambassador, has made on Hitler have resulted, it was said, in a preliminary plan.

Through this tentative formula, the three nations hoped to reach accords regarding land and air forces similar to the existing Anglo-German naval agreements, these quarters stated.

Diplomatic circles expressed the opinion that Germany's increasing economic difficulties will force Hitler to make a sharp cut in his rearmament program, and will make him view favorably a limitation agreement.

Joachim von Ribbentrop, Hitler's confidential representative, is expected to come to Paris soon for talks with Premier Laval.

France's whole foreign policy is felt to be at stake in the present situation. Laval must decide whether to adopt a limited policy extending only to the protection of her own frontiers—which an accord with Hitler probably would mean—or to continue attempting to keep Germany weak and to extend her eastern alliances to hamper Germany.

Great Britain, diplomatic sources said, is behind the move to reconcile France and Germany. They are convinced England, with troubles confronting her in the Mediterranean, wants to be sure of no trouble on the Rhine.

THOUSANDS FLOCK TO SEE HOT LAVA

Red Streams From Mauna Loa Become Civic Asset As Tourists Gather

HILO, Hawaii, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Red hot lava from Mauna Loa, potential menace yesterday to this city of 20,000, became a civic asset today.

Thousands of tourists flocked here to see the volcanic spectacle as lava continued gushing from the ancient crater at a speed of 10 to 15 miles an hour.

Throughout the night the molten mass poured from several fountains high up the historic old slope of the volcano, 40 miles from Hilo.

The cooling of lava belched up yesterday in the first few hours of the eruption—one of the island's most spectacular in years—slowed the downward creep of the hot rock as it reached more level ground.

Activity in the crater seemed unabated, however.

MYSTERY TOT

A chain of mysterious circumstances that trailed the abandonment in Memphis, Tenn., a month ago of this brown-haired, blue-eyed, 3-year-old baby, who calls herself "Colleen" and chatters about Texas, led authorities to believe she had been kidnaped. After a carnival girl, 14, left the baby in a hospital and vanished, three different groups claimed the child, and disappeared rapidly when investigation began.

BORAH MAY ASK FOR PRESIDENCY

Senator Says He Would Veto Such Bills As Anti-Lynch Measure

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Senator Borah bluntly asserted today that should he receive the "unexpected and great honor" of being president, he would veto as unconstitutional such leglislation as the Costigan-Wagner anti-lynching bill.

His stand was given in a letter to the National Association for the Advancement of Colored people. It replied to one sounding his views, as a presidential possibility, toward the anti-lynching bill he has opposed in the senate.

The Idaho Republican's quick response to the challenge, and his wording of it, furthered the growing belief in Washington that he will get into the presidential race. But it was unusually outspoken for a presidential possibility.

Walter White, signing the association's letter as its secretary, said he was writing "on behalf of twelve million American negroes and of many white Americans who are deeply concerned with the alarming increase in lynchings in the United States." He warned that negro votes hold the balance of power in many pivotal states.

Borah replied he had opposed the Costigan-Wagner measure because he had no doubt it violated the constitution, and added:

"That being my view then and now, I shall vote against such measures as long as I am a member of the senate, and should the unexpected and great honor come to me of being president of the United States and such a bill should reach me, under my oath and in the light of my convictions, I would unhesitatingly veto it.

"I do not enter a discussion of what in my judgment is the utter futility of these measures aside from the constitutional question. Neither do I take time to again express, as I have often expressed it by word and act, my horror of lynching, further than

United States Ambassador Says Probe Of Incident May Bring Action

Paris Hears That Embargo On Product Would Mean War With Duce

ROME, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The United States considered making representations to Italy tonight because of a demonstration against two physicians and their wives in which American flags were torn from an automobile.

The embassy is investigating the complaint of Dr. and Mrs. Frederick P. Moersch and Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Ballman of the Mayo institute, Rochester, Minn., that the two women were menaced by riotous Fascist students when they were in the university town Padua.

Their automobile had English license plates, believed responsible for the demonstration. American flags were ripped from the car, the embassy reported, and the automobile was damaged but "state police quieted the mob."

"If a further investigation warrants," said Breckinridge Long, the United States ambassador, "we will make representations to the Italian government."

As Italian flames of patriotism are fanned, more anti-foreign feeling is generated, especially against Great Britain, which Italy feels is responsible for sanctions.

Americans, mistaken for Englishmen, were involved in another incident last week. Four singers from New York were beaten because they failed to salute a passing funeral procession for a Blackshirt.

As a result of the incident at Padua, the American party cut short their tour of Italy and left for France. Mrs. Agnes Moersch and Mrs. Mildred Bollman explained they were in the parked car while their husbands were making hotel reservations.

They said they were terrorized by the Fascist students but were not harmed and it was an hour and a half before police cleared the crowd and their husbands were able to reach them.

OIL ISSUE RAISES IMPORTANT QUESTIONS

(By Associated Press)

Oil made more slippery Saturday the pathway to Italo-Ethiopian peace.

A move to deny Italy this commodity, vital for warfare, raised unofficially these questions: Will Italy quit the league if an oil embargo is applied?; Will Europe go to war again?

Paris heard unofficially that Premier Mussolini warned France an oil embargo would mean war. The Paris newspaper L'Oeuvre said this message was given to Premier laval Friday by Vittorio Cerruti, the Italian ambassador.

BURGLARY SUSPECT CAUGHT ENTERING SIXTH STREET HOME

W. J. Morgan, 39, who claims he lives in Seattle, Wash., was reputedly caught in the act of entering the home of Joe Gonzalez, 215 Sixth street, early yesterday morning.

The intruder was captured by Mr. Gonzalez and held until the arrival of Police Officers H. E. Webb and H. T. Ward, who took the man into custody.

Morgan, who said he had been in Monroe only three days, was found in possession of two skeleton keys, one Phinney-Walker automobile clock, three fountain pens, file and other miscellaneous articles.

Police Superintendent L. V. Tarver, who questioned Morgan, expressed the belief that the man might be the individual who recently has been pilfering from parked automobiles, and Mr. Tarver states that if any of the articles found in Morgan's possession are recognized by the owners, he would like them to report at police headquarters.

TEACHERS OPPOSE POLITICALIZATION OF STATE SCHOOLS

ALEXANDRIA, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The annual convention of the Louisiana Teachers association was concluded here today with the installation of officers and the adoption of resolutions.

One resolution adopted asked for repeal of the recently-passed state law which it was charged politicalized the public schools. This law gives the state budget committee power to pass upon the qualification of school teachers.

Another resolution expressed deep regret over the death this week of Dr. A. B. Dinwiddie, president of Tulane university, and declared that in his death the cause of education had lost a true friend.

Spencer Phillips, principal of the Pelican high school, was installed as president. Mr. Phillips expressed the hope that the teachers would abandon any differences existing and face the future with an united front.

Miss Myrtle Rodgers, of Monroe, was installed as vice-president,

Police List Names Of Five Who Saw Shooting Of Coach

LAKE CHARLES, La., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Police today listed the names of five witnesses, three girls and two boys, to the shooting yesterday of R. S. Killen, coach of the Lake Charles high school football team, and Rufus A. Russell, brooding father of a tackle on the team last year who had been dismissed from the squad for an infraction of the rules.

Russell went to the high school yesterday afternoon and called the coach out of a "pep" meeting in the school auditorium into the hallway of the building where Russell fired one shot into the coach's body and then sent another bullet into his own jaw.

Both of the wounded men were taken to the hospital in critical condition, but today physicians gave each a chance to recover.

The bullet that struck Killen entered the heart region and lodged near the eleventh rib. The one which Russell fired into his jaw lodged back of the frontal sinus.

Russell's son, Clifford, the player, it was reported, was whipped by teammates after he had violated training rules and his father became incensed and blamed the coach for the reputed punishment.

Sam Iles, chief of police, posted a guard at the hospital room of Russell and withheld the filing of charges until the outcome of the wounds of the two men is determined.

Russell, a cabinet maker for a local company, resided here with his wife and two sons, Clifford and Robert. Clifford did not play football this year because he was ineligible but Robert is a drummer in the high school band.

Yesterday E. V. Gangwer, superintendent of the plant where Russell works, said Russell left his work with the assertion that he was going to the high school to pay for repairs to a drum which he said his son, Robert, damaged on a football trip to Baton Rouge.

F. W. (Bill) Hafer, a taxi driver, said he carried Russell to the high

First Cold Snap Emphasizes Importance Of Good Fellows

GOOD FELLOWS FUND

Previously acknowledged .. $36.00

The first cold snap of the winter season yesterday gave new emphasis to the needs of little children in many homes of Monroe and West Monroe, ill-prepared to withstand the rigors of bitter weather.

To children warmly clad and fortified by nourishing food, yesterday's weather was a joyous experience. To them the crisp cold air and bright sunny skies afforded exhilaration and set cheeks glowing and eyes sparkling. But not so amongst those children who had to face the weather with thin garments, broken shoes, and with little or no food to warm their bodies. Think of those children in homes that are mere shacks, where there is no money to buy fuel, and where there are none of the comforts that are ordinarily a part of the most modestly equipped households.

There are many, many such homes in the Twin Cities—along certain sections of the river front, in the desolate back areas, off the main traveled streets—and one of the heart-rending things about it is that those homes have little children, who, through no fault of their own, are the chief sufferers from poverty and privation. If you don't believe there is such suffering in these two prosperous communities, take an hour or two today and make an investigation for yourself. You will be appalled.

What sort of a Christmas is in store for those little children? What an opportunity to display some of the Yuletide spirit by helping to bring a little cheer into the lives of these unfortunates! That's what the Good Fellows fund is for—to make it possible for the underprivileged children to wear warm clothing, to give them nourishing meals at the holiday season, and to make their drab lives a little brighter and happier.

You may not be able to do much, but you can do your little bit, how-

MARIHUANA IS SEIZED BY POLICE AT ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Marihuana valued at $1,000 and said by police to be in sufficient quantity to make 10,000 cigarettes was seized by detectives here today when they raided the second floor of a building in the downtown section of New Orleans.

A man who gave his name as Robert Williams, 33, the purported owner of a soft drink establishment in the building, and a man booked as William Cayce, Jr., 30, were held at the third precinct police station and charged with violation of the state marihuana law.

SALINE IS HOST TO LARGE CROWD

Other speakers were Pierce Cline, president of Centenary college, and Paul McBride, president of the Shreveport Chamber of Commerce.

Entertainment features comprised an all day basketball tournament with teams from many towns along the new electric line participating. A motion picture show was also held and at noon there was a picnic lunch.

Towns and communities served by the new line are, besides Saline, Freyburg, Lawhon, Jamestown, Castro, Alberta, Roytown and Ashland.

500 ACRES TO BE PUT IN WATERMELON CROP

The Indian Village Watermelon association will devote 500 acres to the growing of this crop in 1936, it was decided at a special meeting and barbecue held in the western part of the parish near that community.

The same plan will be followed again next year as was the case the past summer with Cartwright on the Tremont and Gulf railroad, designated as shipping point. Growers bring their melons to this point where they are purchased for cash by buyers.

Last season one buyer alone J. W. Strickland, of Hope, Ark., paid more than $4,000 for melons, labor and expenses.

The average net sum realized from the crop is said to have been about $40 an acre.

COLORED LIGHTS GIVE HOLIDAY AIR TO MONROE

The myriad of gaily colored lights that gave the downtown section of Monroe a festive holiday aspect at this time last year were again lighted Saturday night. They will be lighted every night until the holiday season is over.

The lights replace the usual street lighting and are red, white and green. They are placed in DeSiard street from the old traffic bridge to Five Points and on North Grand, Walnut, North Second North Third and North Fourth streets from DeSiard to a point across the tracks of the Illinois Central railroad. Also similar lights are arranged on South Grand, St. John and Jackson streets south from DeSiard street several blocks.

The lighting scheme is made possible through the cooperation of the city of Monroe and the retail merchants' division of the Chamber of Commerce.

HODGE GIVEN REPRIEVE; FREED FROM LOCAL JAIL

After serving five months and 20 days of an 18-month sentence in the Ouachita parish jail, subject to road duty, Byron Hodge, young Calhoun man, Saturday afternoon had been released under a reprieve granted by Governor O. K. Allen.

Hodge worked a brief part of his term with the parish prison camp road crew. He escaped custody twice and served the latter period of his term in the jail, where he was employed in the fingerprint department.

His sentence was imposed after a district court jury found him guilty of larceny of automobile casings.

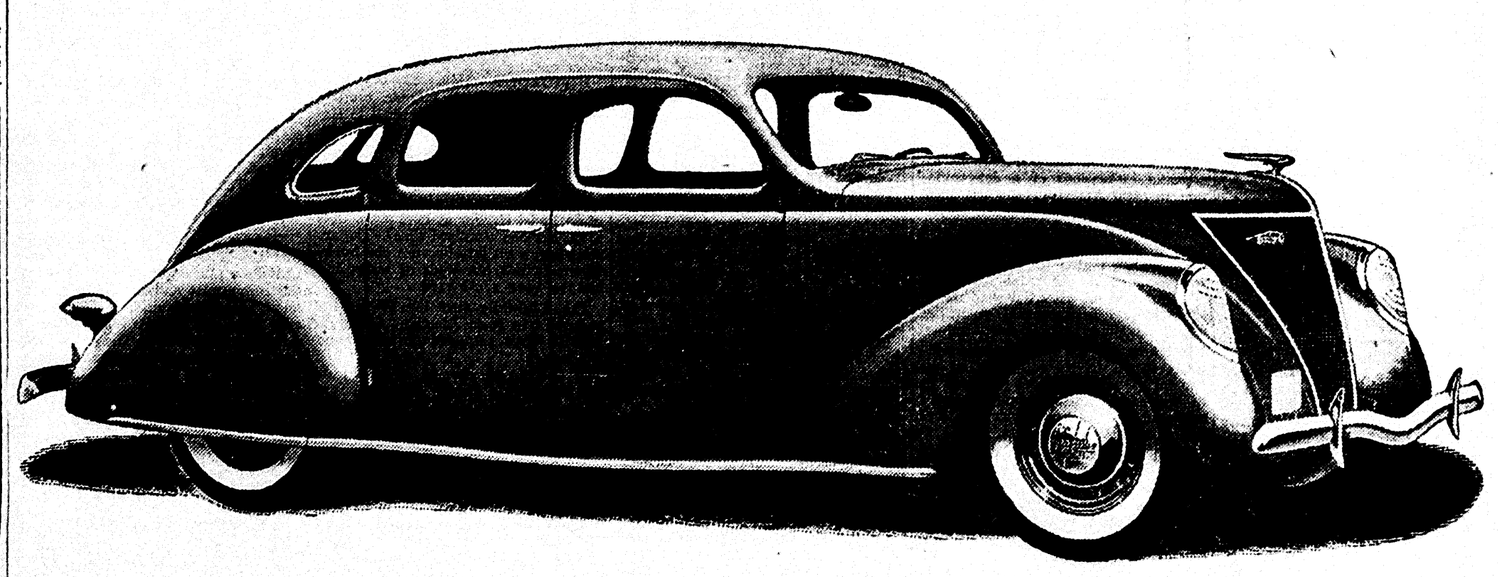
LINCOLN
ZEPHYR



The new twelve-cylinder car that brings Ford and Lincoln standards of value to the medium-price field

The Lincoln Motor Company presents to this city the LINCOLN-ZEPHYR — an authentically modern motor car.

It has a 12-cylinder motor, a motor of the V-type, proved so efficient in Lincoln and Ford cars. This engine develops 110 horsepower. The wheelbase is 122 inches. The springbase is 133 inches. The bore and stroke is 2¾ inches by 3¾ inches. The roomy body accommodates six people and luggage.

The LINCOLN-ZEPHYR is, above all things, a new car, new in idea, performance, appearance. But it does share the background of experience, the creative engineering skill that have developed the Ford and the Lincoln cars. It is built in its own specially equipped division of the famous Lincoln precision plant. Workmen trained for years in building the Lincoln bring to it methods and precision they have learned so well. It reflects the Ford skill in organizing production that combines quantity with quality, that gives value at a price. Only thus could a car of such power, size and beauty be offered for so little. Only thus could it represent in the medium-price field as genuine a value as the Lincoln and Ford cars in theirs.

As you inspect the LINCOLN-ZEPHYR for the first time, you will be impressed by the sweeping beauty of its every line. It employs fully the principles of aero-dynamic design. Streamlines flow not only from end to end, but from side to side. But grace of line, in this case, does more than express a style trend. It reflects principles of design and construction as new as the car itself.

Steel trusses make possible the bridge, the airplane fuselage, the Marconi tower—structures of light weight but great strength. Steel trusses underlie the flowing curves of this new car. Body and frame are one, welded together. Here is a steel bridge . . . the body . . . a rigid structure, supported at two points, front and rear springs. Roof and roof-members, with floor and floor-members, carry the stresses.

The first result of this new construction, obviously, is great safety under all conditions.

Great comfort follows inevitably. The center of gravity is low; passengers step directly onto the floor of the car; and the weight of all passengers is poised between the axles. There is no "back-seat" ride.

Soft transverse springs minimize the "up-and-down" motion, the jounces, the bumps of the road that rob riding of comfort. We have no hesitancy in saying that this car, with its smooth V-12 power, offers a new rhythm of motoring. The gliding ride results naturally from its design.

Plan to spend at least an hour at the exhibit. A new understanding of the motor car awaits you. Arrange for a demonstration. Performance is as refreshing as appearance.

SALINE IS HOST TO LARGE CROWD

Inauguration Of First Light And Power In Towns Is Observed

Several thousand persons, including a large delegation from Monroe and West Monroe, were present at Saline, Bienville parish, Saturday to attend an all-day celebration to observe the turning on of the new light system of the Louisiana Power and Light company.

Harvey C. Couch, president of the power and light company, was the chief speaker. He told the assemblage of the benefits to a community derived from the installation of modern electric systems.

Other speakers were Pierce Cline, president of Centenary college, and Paul McBride, president of the Shreveport Chamber of Commerce.

Entertainment features comprised an all day basketball tournament with teams from many towns along the new electric line participating. A motion picture show was also held and at noon there was a picnic lunch.

Towns and communities served by the new line are, besides Saline, Freyburg, Lawhon, Jamestown, Castro, Alberta, Roytown and Ashland.

500 ACRES TO BE PUT IN WATERMELON CROP

The Indian Village Watermelon association will devote 500 acres to the growing of this crop in 1936, it was decided at a special meeting and barbecue held in the western part of the parish near that community.

The same plan will be followed again next year as was the case the past summer with Cartwright on the Tremont and Gulf railroad, designated as shipping point. Growers bring their melons to this point where they are purchased for cash by buyers.

Last season one buyer alone J. W. Strickland, of Hope, Ark., paid more than $4,000 for melons, labor and expenses.

The average net sum realized from the crop is said to have been about $40 an acre.

COLORED LIGHTS GIVE HOLIDAY AIR TO MONROE

The myriad of gaily colored lights that gave the downtown section of Monroe a festive holiday aspect at this time last year were again lighted Saturday night. They will be lighted every night until the holiday season is over.

The lights replace the usual street lighting and are red, white and green. They are placed in DeSiard street from the old traffic bridge to Five Points and on North Grand, Walnut, North Second North Third and North Fourth streets from DeSiard to a point across the tracks of the Illinois Central railroad. Also similar lights are arranged on South Grand, St. John and Jackson streets south from DeSiard street several blocks.

The lighting scheme is made possible through the cooperation of the city of Monroe and the retail merchants' division of the Chamber of Commerce.

Hodge worked a brief part of his term with the parish prison camp road crew. He escaped custody twice and served the latter period of his term in the jail, where he was employed in the fingerprint department.

His sentence was imposed after a district court jury found him guilty of larceny of automobile casings.

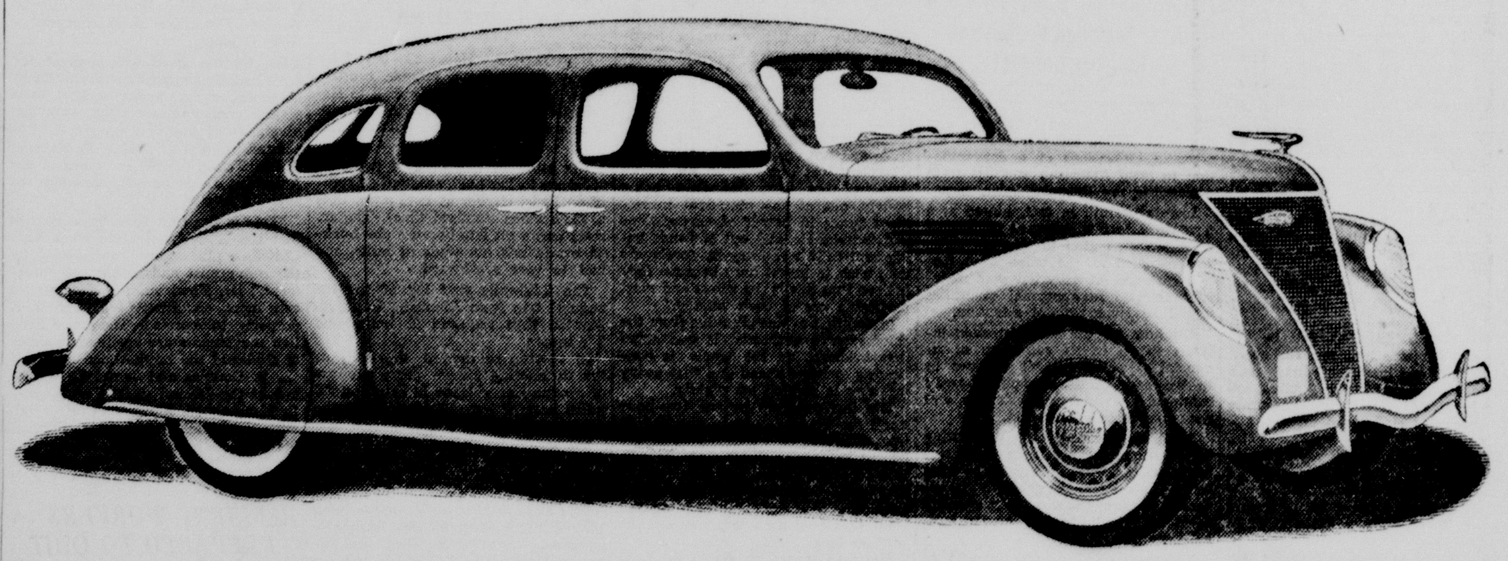
LINCOLN ZEPHYR



The new twelve-cylinder car that brings Ford and Lincoln standards of value to the medium-price field

The Lincoln Motor Company presents to this city the LINCOLN-ZEPHYR — an authentically modern motor car.

It has a 12-cylinder motor, a motor of the V-type, proved so efficient in Lincoln and Ford cars. This engine develops 110 horsepower. The wheelbase is 122 inches. The springbase is 133 inches. The bore and stroke is 2¾ inches by 3¾ inches. The roomy body accommodates six people and luggage.

The LINCOLN-ZEPHYR is, above all things, a new car, new in idea, performance, appearance. But it does share the background of experience, the creative engineering skill that have developed the Ford and the Lincoln cars. It is built in its own specially equipped division of the famous Lincoln precision plant. Workmen trained for years in building the Lincoln bring to it methods and precision they have learned so well. It reflects the Ford skill in organizing production that combines quantity with quality, that gives value at a price. Only thus could a car of such power, size and beauty be offered for so little. Only thus could it represent in the medium-price field as genuine a value as the Lincoln and Ford cars in theirs.

As you inspect the LINCOLN-ZEPHYR for the first time, you will be impressed by the sweeping beauty of its every line. It employs fully the principles of aero-dynamic design. Streamlines flow not only from end to end, but from side to side. But grace of line, in this case, does more than express a style trend. It reflects principles of design and construction as new as the car itself.

Steel trusses make possible the bridge, the airplane fuselage, the Marconi tower—structures of light weight but great strength. Steel trusses underlie the flowing curves of this new car. Body and frame are one, welded together. Here is a steel bridge . . . the body . . . a rigid structure, supported at two points, front and rear springs. Roof and roof-members, with floor and floor-members, carry the stresses.

The first result of this new construction, obviously, is great safety under all conditions.

Great comfort follows inevitably. The center of gravity is low; passengers step directly onto the floor of the car; and the weight of all passengers is poised between the axles. There is no "back-seat" ride.

Soft transverse springs minimize the "up-and-down" motion, the jounces, the bumps of the road that rob riding of comfort. We have no hesitancy in saying that this car, with its smooth V-12 power, offers a new rhythm of motoring. The gliding ride results naturally from its design.

Plan to spend at least an hour at the exhibit. A new understanding of the motor car awaits you. Arrange for a demonstration. Performance is as refreshing as appearance.

Well May Extend Field Near Shreveport Three Miles In As Many Days

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 23.—(AP)—After tubing had been successfully run in Grady Vaughn's Comegys No. 1 north outpost of the Rodessa field, operators announced late tonight they would make a test of the well about midnight in an attempt to increase the flow of oil.

The well was completed Wednesday night after casing had been perforated because of insufficient bottom hole pressure. Since then it has been making about 15 barrels an hour through the casing with 25,000,000 cubic feet of gas. Operators believe that the pressure of the gas will be lessened through use of the tubing and that oil will be forced up in larger quantities.

Successful completion of the Comegys No. 1 as a giant oiler will mean that the Rodessa field has been extended its third mile in as many days. R. B. Norton's Foscue No. 1 section 20-13-16 was washed in early this morning making enestimated 25,000 barrels per day and extending the field about one mile west near the Cass county, Texas line, where oil fever is now running high.

Friday afternoon Norton's Tyson No. 1, section 13-23-16 was brought in producing about 65 barrels per hour through a half inch choke on casing and extending the field about a mile to the east.

Bottom casing in the Foscue well is set at 5,956 feet and total depth is 6,004 feet. It is the first oil well to be completed west of the Young Discovery well and production is coming from the Dees sand and oolitic lime. Depth of the Tyson oiler is 6,032 feet.

EXPLODING STAR SUPPORTS THEORY

Gives Strength To Scientist's Contention That Universe Is Bursting

By John Lear
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
(Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press)

WILLIAMS BAY, Wis., Nov. 23—Nova Hercules—the star that rose from oblivion to the season's celestial sensation last winter—burst forth today with the most direct evidence yet discovered in support of the theory that the universe is exploding.

Its testimony was recorded by the 40-inch telescope at Yerkes observatory of the University of Chicago and transcribed by Prof. George Van Biesbroeck, Observatory Director Dr. Otto Struve disclosed in an exclusive interview.

The star was first observed in the western sky last December as a brilliant upstart in the heavenly galaxy.

In July, it was found to have split into two parts.

By nightly observations since then, Dr. Struve said, Professor Van Biesbroeck has determined that the two parts have been speeding away from each other at the rate of 300 miles a second.

These findings, the director explained, are evidence that the reason for Nova Hercules' sudden burst into prominence was that the star had burst, or erupted, throwing off two clouds of gas or nebulous matter, in opposite directoins.

The discovery, he said, tends to destroy two old theories:

1. That Nova, or new stars—those that blaze up suddenly—were formed of a star surrounded by a shell of gas.

2. That the universe was originally formed by the gradual integration of matter.

The two nebular masses thrown off by Nova Hercules were only a small part of the original star, but spectograph studies show it was their light, not that of the star, which pushed the Nova from a mere speck on astronomical maps to a body of the first magnitude.

As the gas clouds move farther and farther apart and scatter their particles through space, the star will become dimmer and finally return to its normal dullness, Dr. Struve said.

This lessening of brilliance is already under way, the Nova having dropped to the seventh magnitude, two and a half times fainter than the human eye can see.

HAWAII RECEIVES MAIL BY AIRSHIP

cheers. The fliers were greeted by name. They were known to many Hawaii residents because of their pioneering flights over the new ocean air route.

Governor Joseph Poindexter greeted the fliers officially and the band played Aloha.

Figuratively the big plane made the long ocean flight without half trying. The fliers said they kept its big motors down to half throttle, using only 40 to 50 per cent of her power.

The plane fought head winds of 18 to 25 miles an hour, making its average ground speed between 115 and 125 miles an hour. Pan-American Airways officials said this was a very good showing.

The China clipper will continue on westward tomorrow to Midway Islands, 1,323 miles west; the following day to Wake Island, another 1,191 miles; thence to Guam, 1,536 miles, and finally to Manila, 1,700 miles more.

On the fifth day out of Alameda the clipper will have completed the first transpacific air mail flight.

As the big craft rested here, a sister ship, the Philippine clipper, flew from Mexico to Alameda to enter transpacific service. Soon another, the Hawaii clipper, will join the undertaking.

Eventually the air line will be extended from Manila to Macao, Portuguese settlement on the China coast near Canton. There the American air line will connect with others extending to the capitals of Europe and to points in Asia and Africa.

JUDGE DISMISSES BIG COURT SUIT

Action Against 35 Defendants In $7,019,259.98 Case Is Thrown Out

SHREVEPORT, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Suit for $7,019,259.98 brought in the United States district court for western Louisiana at Shreveport against 35 defendants who were directors of the Insurance Securities company, Inc., in liquidation, was dismissed by Federal Judge Ben C. Dawkins.

The suit was instituted against the directors of the securities company by partners and former customers of Curtis and Sanger, Boston investment firm. The petitioners charged that directors of the insurance company holding corporation on or before July 9, 1925, entered "into a combination, confederation or conspiracy."

At the time the alleged conspiracy was formed, the petitioners, who included Edward H. Baker and Duncan F. Thayer of Massachusetts, charged that the Union Indemnity company, "controlled and principally owned by the conspirators, was failing."

Defendants named by the suit were Mrs. Norma Brownell, wife of Harry E. Chalstrom, a resident of New Orleans; Mrs. Claire Brownell, wife of W. V. Garnier, Morehouse parish; Charles Russell Brownell, St. Mary parish; William W. Bouden, James P. Butler, Charles I. Denechaud, Ward J. Fitzgibbons, A. D. Geohegan, Theodore Grunewald, Rudolf S. Hecht, James C. Henriques, J. Floyd Hodge, Sam Israel, Eldon S. Lazarus, Charles Leftwich, Robert Newman, Morris Newman, all of New Orleans; Mrs. Harold Newman, William Pierce O'Neal, Shepard F. Perrin, Fred W. Salmen, George H. Terriberry, Felix P. Vaccaro, Louis A. Well, all of New Orleans; Rodney P. Woods, Lutcher; W. Irvin Moss, Arthur S. Huey, Paul H. Saunders, Blaise S. d'Antoni, Byron C. McClellan, John Legier, Carmelo d'Antonio and S. Sanford Levy, all residents of New Orleans.

Judge Dawkins, in dismissing the suit, stated that "after due consideration of the law applicable thereto, I am of the opinion that the exception of jurisdiction (entered by some of the New Orleans residents) should be sustained. I also think the exception of misjoinder filed by Mrs. Claire Brownell Garnier (Morehouse parish) should be sustained. Proper decree should be entered."

BORAH MAY ASK FOR PRESIDENCY

to say that if the federal government is to deal with the subject, it can only do so by an amendment to the constitution of the United States."

Borah did not suggest that he would not be a candidate. In fact he said he would let the association's assumption "that I am a candidate for the presidency" stand "for the purpose of this letter."

Earlier the Borah movement received further impetus when Representative Lemke, Republican, North Dakota, who supported President Roosevelt in 1932, said the Idaho senator was "the only candidate so far prominently mentioned who could get the support of the farmers of the west for the Republican nomination."

Lemke's statement, capping an hour's conference with Borah, was regarded significantly. So was an announcement that the senator would open a drive for liberalizing the Republican party in a nation-wide broadcast December 7.

This will be the first of a series of speeches by Borah in the eastern and middle western states before the opening of congress in January. His friends expect him to challenge the established leadership of the party in these addresses.

The Association for the Advancement of Colored people, in its letter to Borah, said he held "the somewhat dubious honor of having been the executioner of two distinctly hopeful opportunities" for stamping out lynching.

Expressing his views on the unconstitutionality of such measures as the Costigan-Wagner bill, Borah said:

"Whatever may happen in the future politics of this country, so far as my position on the question presented by these measures is concerned, it will not be changed or even modified.

WILLIAMS BAY, Wis., Nov. 23.—Nova Hercules—the star that rose from oblivion to the season's celestial sensation last winter—burst forth today with the most direct evidence yet discovered in support of the theory that the universe is exploding.

Its testimony was recorded by the 40-inch telescope at Yerkes observatory of the University of Chicago and transcribed by Prof. George Van Biesbroeck, Observatory Director Dr. Otto Struve disclosed in an exclusive interview.

The star was first observed in the western sky last December as a brilliant upstart in the heavenly galaxy.

In July, it was found to have split into two parts.

By nightly observations since then, Dr. Struve said, Professor Van Biesbroeck has determined that the two parts have been speeding away from each other at the rate of 300 miles a second.

These findings, the director explained, are evidence that the reason for Nova Hercules' sudden burst into prominence was that the star had burst, or erupted, throwing off two clouds of gas or nebulous matter, in opposite directoins.

The discovery, he said, tends to destroy two old theories:

1. That Nova, or new stars—those that blaze up suddenly—were formed of a star surrounded by a shell of gas.

2. That the universe was originally formed by the gradual integration of matter.

The two nebular masses thrown off by Nova Hercules were only a small part of the original star, but spectograph studies show it was their light, not that of the star, which pushed the Nova from a mere speck on astronomical maps to a body of the first magnitude.

As the gas clouds move farther and farther apart and scatter their particles through space, the star will become dimmer and finally return to its normal dullness, Dr. Struve said.

This lessening of brilliance is already under way, the Nova having dropped to the seventh magnitude, two and a half times fainter than the human eye can see.

HAWAII RECEIVES MAIL BY AIRSHIP

cheers. The fliers were greeted by name. They were known to many Hawaii residents because of their pioneering flights over the new ocean air route.

Governor Joseph Poindexter greeted the fliers officially and the band played Aloha.

Figuratively the big plane made the long ocean flight without half trying. The fliers said they kept its big motors down to half throttle, using only 40 to 50 per cent of her power.

The plane fought head winds of 18 to 25 miles an hour, making its average ground speed between 115 and 125 miles an hour. Pan-American Airways officials said this was a very good showing.

The China clipper will continue on westward tomorrow to Midway Islands, 1,323 miles west; the following day to Wake Island, another 1,191 miles; thence to Guam, 1,536 miles, and finally to Manila, 1,700 miles more.

On the fifth day out of Alameda the clipper will have completed the first transpacific air mail flight.

As the big craft rested here, a sister ship, the Philippine clipper, flew from Mexico to Alameda to enter transpacific service. Soon another, the Hawaii clipper, will join the undertaking.

Eventually the air line will be extended from Manila to Macao, Portuguese settlement on the China coast near Canton. There the American air line will connect with others extending to the capitals of Europe and to points in Asia and Africa.

JUDGE DISMISSES BIG COURT SUIT

Action Against 35 Defendants In $7,019,259.98 Case Is Thrown Out

SHREVEPORT, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Suit for $7,019,259.98 brought in the United States district court for western Louisiana at Shreveport against 35 defendants who were directors of the Insurance Securities company, Inc., in liquidation, was dismissed by Federal Judge Ben C. Dawkins.

The suit was instituted against the directors of the securities company by partners and former customers of Curtis and Sanger, Boston investment firm. The petitioners charged that directors of the insurance company holding corporation on or before July 9, 1925, entered "into a combination, confederation or conspiracy."

At the time the alleged conspiracy was formed, the petitioners, who included Edward H. Baker and Duncan F. Thayer of Massachusetts, charged that the Union Indemnity company, "controlled and principally owned by the conspirators, was failing."

Defendants named by the suit were Mrs. Norma Brownell, wife of Harry E. Chalstrom, a resident of New Orleans; Mrs. Claire Brownell, wife of W. V. Garnier, Morehouse parish; Charles Russell Brownell, St. Mary parish; William W. Bouden, James P. Butler, Charles I. Denechaud, Ward J. Fitzgibbons, A. D. Geohegan, Theodore Grunewald, Rudolf S. Hecht, James C. Henriques, J. Floyd Hodge, Sam Israel, Eldon S. Lazarus, Charles Leftwich, Robert Newman, Morris Newman, all of New Orleans; Mrs. Harold Newman, William Pierce O'Neal, Shepard F. Perrin, Fred W. Salmen, George H. Terriberry, Felix P. Vaccaro, Louis A. Weil, all of New Orleans; Rodney P. Woods, Lutcher; W. Irvin Moss, Arthur S. Huey, Paul H. Saunders, Blaise S. d'Antoni, Byron C. McClellan, John Legier, Carmelo d'Antonio and S. Sanford Levy, all residents of New Orleans.

Judge Dawkins, in dismissing the suit, stated that "after due consideration of the law applicable thereto, I am of the opinion that the exception of jurisdiction (entered by some of the New Orleans residents) should be sustained. I also think the exception of misjoinder filed by Mrs. Claire Brownell Garnier (Morehouse parish) should be sustained. Proper decree should be entered."

BORAH MAY ASK FOR PRESIDENCY

to say that if the federal government is to deal with the subject, it can only do so by an amendment to the constitution of the United States."

Borah did not suggest that he would not be a candidate. In fact he said he would let the association's assumption "that I am a candidate for the presidency" stand "for the purpose of this letter."

Earlier the Borah movement received further impetus when Representative Lemke, Republican, North Dakota, who supported President Roosevelt in 1932, said the Idaho senator was "the only candidate so far prominently mentioned who could get the support of the farmers of the west for the Republican nomination."

Lemke's statement, capping an hour's conference with Borah, was regarded significantly. So was an announcement that the senator would open a drive for liberalizing the Republican party in a nation-wide broadcast December 7.

This will be the first of a series of speeches by Borah in the eastern and middle western states before the opening of congress in January. His friends expect him to challenge the established leadership of the party in these addresses.

The Association for the Advancement of Colored people, in its letter to Borah, said he held "the somewhat dubious honor of having been the executioner of two distinctly hopeful opportunities" for stamping out lynching.

Expressing his views on the unconstitutionality of such measures as the Costigan-Wagner bill, Borah said:

"Whatever may happen in the future politics of this country, so far as my position on the question presented by these measures is concerned, it will not be changed or even modified.

Betraying A Child's Trust

"But you told me I could."

The wail was from a furious child.

"Well, you can some other time."

The usual scene followed, with the sobbing child banished to bed for being so "naughty" and making a fuss.

Yet, after all, the child was within its rights, the parent guilty of one of those seemingly small sins which have such a far-reaching effect. For a child is such a literal-minded little creature, trusting and believing the word of those representing authority. A promise made lightly and broken early does something to that belief and trust that can never be eradicated.

A reader, sending a letter on this subject, recalls the incident of a very young child who made a clever little pun before an old family friend that she adored. It amused him tremendously.

"I am going to bring you some candy for that," he cried; "this very evening when I come by."

He never thought of it again, but the child waited hopefully all day long, and when the promise was broken her faith was destroyed. He never was able to restore the old confidence and love between them, much to his bewilderment.

The doctor or dentist may say, "This won't hurt," to the trusting youngster, and proceeds to do things that he knows are going to hurt very much, never realizing he's planted a fixation of dread and suspicion which no amount of persuasion can remove.

Never lie to your child or make promises you do not intend to keep. It is better to be chary of promises than to fail in keeping them. While children have to find out sometime that people don't mean everything they say, there is plenty of time to make this discovery when they are older, when their disappointment may not make so deep a character impression, and when enough reasoning power has developed to keep them from doubting the whole world. It is one lesson they shouldn't learn at home!

A child's psychology is a simple affair. Things are or they aren't. And the natural subconscious reaction to broken promises made by mother or dad is that, if they lie about one thing, they will about others. A sense of injustice grows when protests against those broken promises only bring punishment, and contempt follows with the coming of years. In the end such a parent has ruined something sacred and lovely between the child and himself, or herself. A feeling of staunch dependability in the parent can never be experienced unless it is earned. Betraying trust is a poor way to begin.

CHRISTMAS SUGGESTION

Christmas is not too far away to begin planning for it. Many of the churches have already begun to lay plans for the proper observance of Christ's natal day. There is so much about Christmas coming up with thoughts of it that, if one were to write, he easily could cover many pages and scarcely know it—and yet, half of this sweetest story would remain untold.

What a happy thing it would be this year to pick out somebody you know who ordinarily will not have a happy Christmas—somebody, whose life is not all "roses and sunshine"; somebody, whose story has been written with the pen rust of disappointment and despairing difficulties; somebody, whose soul has been pinched and his heart choked by the circumstances of fate, over which he or she had no control but who remains firm in the conviction that there still is a Santa Claus, even though Santa disappeared out of his or her life in childhood forever.

Let us begin now to think of some one to make happy this Christmas—some one who is undoubtedly overlooked in the mad, glad rush. Perhaps this some one may be rich or well-to-do financially; it does not matter, whether rich or poor, make it a point this year to remember some of those unfortunate, unhappy victims, around whose lives fate seems to have hung a pall.

PLAN AGAINST FUTURE

In Secretary Ickes' proposal for establishment of a permanent federal agency to carry on low-cost hauling and slum clearance work there is something worthy of extended consideration.

Whether we are at this moment finally emerging from the depression or not we shall have more depressions in the future; and a large-scale housing program would seem to be as straightforward a way of reducing unemployment and stimulating the durable goods industries as any that has been suggested.

If a permanent bureau existed when a depression began, fully equipped with powers, plans and money to launch a nation-wide building program, it ought to be possible to nip a depression in the bud. Mr. Ickes' idea should get the earnest attention of the next congress.

But alas! the poor cotton tenant would be just as poor if he tried to be a doctor or lawyer or merchant.

More Truth Than Poetry

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

IF ONLY DREAMS CAME TRUE

Bob wants to own an elephant,
A great gallumping elephant,
  On which to ride
  With pomp and pride
Here, there and to and fro.
He'd like to have it bend its knee
In deference to you and me,
  And hear men shout
  Bob's praises out
Wherever he might go.

He'd like to own a tiger, too—
No mangy tiger from a zoo—
  But one who's wreath
  Of wicked teeth
Would terrify the crowd;
This feral beast he soon would tame,
And make it answer to its name,
  And when in rage
  It paced its cage,
Young Bob would sure be proud.

But tigers, I am told, will eat
Each morning fifty pounds of meat;
  And, when comes night
  Their appetite
Is harder still to sate;
And since I haven't got a cent
To pay the grocer or the rent
  This coming year,
  I sadly fear
That Bob will have to wait.

SUGGESTION

One way to end wars would be to pay those who take part in them, to stop killing each other.

Japan, At Least, Gains

By BRUCE CATTON

Whether Signor Mussolini ever succeeds in getting his shoulder firmly under the white man's burden in Africa, he at least seems certain to give the Japanese a powerful boost in their drive across Asia.

This isn't at all what the Italian dictator set out to do, but the Japanese are great people for making hay while the sun shines; and the Italo-Ethiopian war constitutes, from the Japanese standpoint, one of the most noble outpourings of sunshine that has been seen since the World war.

The cables from China have been carrying significant little dispatches of late. Step by step, the Japanese have been edging forward in their plan to bite off another chunk of the world's most ancient nation.

The latest news is a flat prediction that a vast area of north China will go the way of Manchukuo within a month.

Now all this, as Nathaniel Peffer points out in the current issue of Asia Magazine, is a direct result of Mussolini's drive on Ethiopia.

The European nations don't want to see Japan subjugate China. Robbing the Chinese is a game traditionally reserved for whites. But Mussolini has given Europe something to think about much closer home.

The merry old game of robbing the African has always been a closed game, too, and when an outsider begins to muscle in on it, the players have no eyes for anything that may happen somewhere else.

This constitutes opportunity for Japan, and the Japanese have never yet been known to miss an opportunity when it was offered to them.

But the opportunity is even wider than that. Suppose that the league does finally work out a peaceful solution of the Ethiopian tangle. Every suggestion yet made for such a solution calls for the surrender by Ethiopia to Italy of much wealth in the way of land and resources.

The holdup, in other words, is to be stopped by having the victim hand over his watch and half of his bankroll, anyway.

The moral lesson in any such settlement as that would never be lost on Tokio. It would be definite proof that the way for a needy nation to get what it wants is to take a couple of hand grenades and go calling on the fellow across the street.

Obviously, if an aggressor is to be bought off by a tender of the loot he was after in the first place, the effort to restrain international banditry has collapsed utterly.

Mussolini may never conquer the Ethiopians, but he is making Japanese conquest of China a great deal easier and more certain. And Mr. Peffer, veteran observer of Oriental trends, remarks dryly:

"If I were a Japanese general, I should light incense before the Duce's portrait in one of the more furioso presentiments he loves so well."

New Deal In Washington

WASHINGTON.—If the roar of the baloney-grinders would die down for just a moment, we might be able to hear ourselves think what those off-year election results really mean.

Unfortunately, the baloney-grinders are in full whir and there'll be no stopping them for the next 12 months. You might be justified in saying that the really underlyingest significance of the elections was that they formally opened what is generally known as the "campaign year," along with toot-toots from Governor Landon, Senator Vandenberg, and Colonel Knox.

The Republicans and Democrats won a glorious victory, as you already know. The chief value of this victory is the extent to which it will be used to whoop up campaign contributions, stimulate party spirit, and encourage all hands to organize for the great Armageddon of November, 1936.

What the elections actually proved, Chairman Fletcher and Chairman Farley notwithstanding, was approximately what every politician already knew.

Roosevelt has slipped—measurably, but not far enough to satisfy Republicans nor far enough to put the Democrats in a panic.

F. R. Still On Top

No one should try to deduce too much from the New York assembly election, the Kentucky gubernatorial election, or the Philadelphia mayoralty election.

But it seems a fair guess to say that if the presidential election were to be held at this time, Roosevelt would win over any Republican candidate. Almost any politician would privately agree on that.

The only essential change in the political picture since the New Deal congressional landslide of 1934 has been a large growth in popular skepticism as to the soundness and success of the New Deal program, accompanied by an increase of apathy as to Mr. Roosevelt himself.

That has bucked up Republican morale enormously, persuaded potential big campaign contributors that they won't necessarily be throwing their money down the drain pipe, and worried Democrats into the belief that at least they have a fight on their hands.

Signals Are Different

Essentially again, Roosevelt is still the nation's outstanding popular leader. To date, no Republican leader is seriously threatening his position. That is, according to available signs.

Which means, as matters stand, that Republican victory must be predicated upon a revulsion of feeling against the New Deal which will be furious enough to carry any fairly good opponent over the top. A protest vote, in other words, similar to—though not necessarily equaling—those which cast out the Democrats in 1920 and the Republicans in 1932.

Such a turn of the tide is quite possible, but it is worth remembering that the warning signals of the 1918 and 1930 congressional elections were violent, whereas the 1934 congressional elections were a New Deal cleanup and the balloting of 1935 has been little more than a molehill for partisans to magnify.

Both Sides Hopeful

The question is whether the reaction against Roosevelt can be intensified and accelerated in the next year or whether the Democrats can hold it to present proportions while Uncle Frank undertakes to smile and croon the boys and girls back to their previous state of adoration.

Republicans insist publicly they are riding a rising tide of resentment and Democrats like to think the Roosevelt popularity reached its low mark last summer and is now climbing back.

Roosevelt and Farley bit off more than they could chew in seeking to tighten Democratic control of the New York assembly and a Democratic mayor in Philadelphia.

Kentucky, where a blatantly New Deal candidate was elected governor by a whooping majority against a Republican supported by Democratic Gov. Ruby Laffoon and other Democratic conservatives, probably produced the most significant result.

Watch New York

Pennsylvania leaves the question whether control of the Philadelphia election machinery plus normal Republicanism can be offset next year by Democratic control of the state government and the pro-New Deal efforts of John Lewis and the United Mine Workers.

Meanwhile, watch Farley and Tammany and Mayor LaGuardia of New York. Roosevelt and LaGuardia are close. They would like to have LaGuardia run for reelection on the Democratic ticket in 1937.

Tammany, which emphatically reasserted its strength, will demand its own candidate in 1937 if it is to support Roosevelt in 1936.

Incidentally, in case you didn't know it, it was Mrs. Roosevelt who really carried Hyde Park for the new Democratic town supervisor, Elmer van Wagenen, whose opponent ran on an anti-Eleanor platform.

Lights Of New York

By George Ross

NEW YORK.—From a columnist's notebook: It took Broadway's most diminutive showman, Billy Rose, to produce "Jumbo," the biggest show in town.

And the medal for the best diction is awarded to Radio Announcer Alois Havrilla, a Czechoslovakian immigrant who didn't speak a word of English until he was five.

I see by the papers that a park is to be named for Joyce Kilmer, the soldier-poet of the poem to "Trees," also that another park will be fashioned from the estate of the late bullet-ridden gambler, Arnold Rothstein, which will not bear his name. And yet, the gambler's inamorata once told your correspondent that he preferred gardening to any sport. Which is not a startling revelation when you consider that the late "Dutch" Schultz was an ardent opera fan.

The Mark Twain centennial has brought back many recollections of the great author's sage sayings. And one septuagenarian recalled the other evening how the late Mr. Twain remained abed on a day he expected reporters to interview him. "But won't it be embarrassing for the newspapermen?" he was asked. "Well, if it should be," Mark Twain replied, "we can invite them all to lie down in the bed beside me."

Haunted Words

I could cheat some day and have the Associated Ghost Writers of 11 W. 42nd street (fiction, speeches and daily articles written while you wait) do this stint. After-dinner speakers have been known to use the service.

One general characteristic about most great comic men I've never failed to note is that off-stage or away from their typewriters, they seem pretty glum. George S. Kaufman, who's written hilarious farces, has a serious mien, and the late Thorne Smith, among the few authors who could actually make book readers laugh aloud, infrequently cracked a smile. And if you saw Ed Wynn sauntering by himself toward Lindy's on upper Broadway, you would probably break down and weep for his sake.

After going thus far through life in the belief that there were only three Pickens Sisters, comes the revelation that there is a fourth. Just as beautiful as the others and in equally good voice, but she prefers to handle the business management for the trio.

Well, New York now has sandwich-women. No drug store cowgirls, but Park avenue debutantes who have been parading the midtown streets with signs on their backs ballyhoing the Poetry ball for impoverished rhymsters.

That reminds me to jot a note about the majetsic looking fellow with the Prince Albert coat, the wide-brimmed hat, curled mustache and goatee who was carrying signs on Broadway for a new play about the south. I went up to inquire of the colonel the part of the country below the Mason-Dixon line he came from. "Pleez, meester," he said in a pure Sicilian accent, "me no spika good Engleesh."

The gray haired man who waited at the stagedoor for Paul Whiteman the other night was the bandleader's father who, at last, has sold his 175-acre farm in Denver to join his son in the east. Paul's been trying to persuade him to do it, for years.

Dusting Off Stars

They were discussing the fate, over at the corner table, of movie stars in the old silent days. And they remembered that Anita Stewart, a screen siren before celluloids talked, is now married to George Peabody Converse, the banker, and has taken up fiction writing, seriously. . . . Mrs. McQuiller issued the following statement which will assist amateur landscape gardeners in their work:

Plant your cuttings at a 45 degree angle, leaving one bud above the ground. Keep moist at all times.

"All flower beds which have not been replanted should be cleared of all dead and decaying flowers and weeds, then spaded up, so that frost may assist in destroying insects and diseases. The beds can be covered with a layer of well-rotted stable manure.

"Jonquils, narcissi, daffodils and hyacinths may still be planted. Tulips should be taken out of cold storage and planted now. Pansy plants should be placed in permanent beds not later than the end of December if a long season of bloom is desired.

"December and January are the best months for pruning broad leaf evergreens and summer and fall shrubs. Do not prune spring flowering shrubs, such as bridal wreath, weigela, flowering quince and forsythia at this time, or you will cut off much of the blooms. Spring flowering shrubs bloom on the wood made the season before, so they should be pruned after they bloom in the spring.

Betraying A Child's Trust

"But you told me I could."
The wail was from a furious child.
"Well, you can some other time."

The usual scene followed, with the sobbing child banished to bed for being so "naughty" and making a fuss.

Yet, after all, the child was within its rights, the parent guilty of one of those seemingly small sins which have such a far-reaching effect. For a child is such a literal-minded little creature, trusting and believing the word of those representing authority. A promise made lightly and broken early does something to that belief and trust that can never be eradicated.

A reader, sending a letter on this subject, recalls the incident of a very young child who made a clever little pun before an old family friend that she adored. It amused him tremendously.

"I am going to bring you some candy for that," he cried; "this very evening when I come by."

He never thought of it again, but the child waited hopefully all day long, and when the promise was broken her faith was destroyed. He never was able to restore the old confidence and love between them, much to his bewilderment.

The doctor or dentist may say, "This won't hurt," to the trusting youngster, and proceeds to do things that he knows are going to hurt very much, never realizing he's planted a fixation of dread and suspicion which no amount of persuasion can remove.

Never lie to your child or make promises you do not intend to keep. It is better to be chary of promises than to fail in keeping them. While children have to find out sometime that people don't mean everything they say, there is plenty of time to make this discovery when they are older, when their disappointment may not make so deep a character impression, and when enough reasoning power has developed to keep them from doubting the whole world. It is one lesson they shouldn't learn at home!

A child's psychology is a simple affair. Things are or they aren't. And the natural subconscious reaction to broken promises made by mother or dad is that, if they lie about one thing, they will about others. A sense of injustice grows when protests against those broken promises only bring punishment, and contempt follows with the coming of years. In the end such a parent has ruined something sacred and lovely between the child and himself, or herself. A feeling of staunch dependability in the parent can never be experienced unless it is earned. Betraying trust is a poor way to begin.

CHRISTMAS SUGGESTION

Christmas is not too far away to begin planning for it. Many of the churches have already begun to lay plans for the proper observance of Christ's natal day. There is so much about Christmas coming up with thoughts of it that, if one were to write, he easily could cover many pages and scarcely know it—and yet, half of this sweetest story would remain untold.

What a happy thing it would be this year to pick out somebody you know who ordinarily will not have a happy Christmas—somebody, whose life is not all "roses and sunshine"; somebody, whose story has been written with the pen rust of disappointment and despairing difficulties; somebody, whose soul has been pinched and his heart choked by the circumstances of fate, over which he or she had no control but who remains firm in the conviction that there still is a Santa Claus, even though Santa disappeared out of his or her life in childhood forever.

Let us begin now to think of some one to make happy this Christmas—some one who is undoubtedly overlooked in the mad, glad rush. Perhaps this some one may be rich or well-to-do financially; it does not matter, whether rich or poor, make it a point this year to remember some of those unfortunate, unhappy victims, around whose lives fate seems to have hung a pall.

PLAN AGAINST FUTURE

In Secretary Ickes' proposal for establishment of a permanent federal agency to carry on low-cost hauling and slum clearance work there is something worthy of extended consideration.

Whether we are at this moment finally emerging from the depression or not we shall have more depressions in the future; and a large-scale housing program would seem to be as straightforward a way of reducing unemployment and stimulating the durable goods industries as any that has been suggested.

If a permanent bureau existed when a depression began, fully equipped with powers, plans and money to launch a nation-wide building program, it ought to be possible to nip a depression in the bud. Mr. Ickes' idea should get the earnest attention of the next congress.

But alas! the poor cotton tenant would be just as poor if he tried to be a doctor or lawyer or merchant.

More Truth Than Poetry

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

IF ONLY DREAMS CAME TRUE

Bob wants to own an elephant,
A great gallumping elephant,
  On which to ride
  With pomp and pride
Here, there and to and fro.
He'd like to have it bend its knee
In deference to you and me,
  And hear men shout
  Bob's praises out
Wherever he might go.

He'd like to own a tiger, too—
No mangy tiger from a zoo—
  But one who's wreath
  Of wicked teeth
Would terrify the crowd;
This feral beast he soon would tame,
And make it answer to its name,
  And when in rage
  It paced its cage,
Young Bob would sure be proud.

But tigers, I am told, will eat
Each morning fifty pounds of meat;
  And, when comes night
  Their appetite
Is harder still to sate;
And since I haven't got a cent
To pay the grocer or the rent
  This coming year,
  I sadly fear
That Bob will have to wait.

Japan, At Least, Gains

By BRUCE CATTON

Whether Signor Mussolini ever succeeds in getting his shoulder firmly under the white man's burden in Africa, he at least seems certain to give the Japanese a powerful boost in their drive across Asia.

This isn't at all what the Italian dictator set out to do, but the Japanese are great people for making hay while the sun shines; and the Italo-Ethiopian war constitutes, from the Japanese standpoint, one of the most noble outpourings of sunshine that has been seen since the World war.

The cables from China have been carrying significant little dispatches of late. Step by step, the Japanese have been edging forward in their plan to bite off another chunk of the world's most ancient nation.

The latest news is a flat prediction that a vast area of north China will go the way of Manchukuo within a month.

Now all this, as Nathaniel Peffer points out in the current issue of Asia Magazine, is a direct result of Mussolini's drive on Ethiopia.

The European nations don't want to see Japan subjugate China. Robbing the Chinese is a game traditionally reserved for whites. But Mussolini has given Europe something to think about much closer home.

The merry old game of robbing the African has always been a closed game, too, and when an outsider begins to muscle in on it, the players have no eyes for anything that may happen somewhere else.

This constitutes opportunity for Japan, and the Japanese have never yet been known to miss an opportunity when it was offered to them.

But the opportunity is even wider than that. Suppose that the league does finally work out a peaceful solution of the Ethiopian tangle. Every suggestion yet made for such a solution calls for the surrender by Ethiopia to Italy of much wealth in the way of land and resources.

The holdup, in other words, is to be stopped by having the victim hand over his watch and half of his bankroll, anyway.

The moral lesson in any such settlement as that would never be lost on Tokio. It would be definite proof that the way for a needy nation to get what it wants is to take a couple of hand grenades and go calling on the fellow across the street.

Obviously, if an aggressor is to be bought off by a tender of the loot he was after in the first place, the effort to restrain international banditry has collapsed utterly.

Mussolini may never conquer the Ethiopians, but he is making Japanese conquest of China a great deal easier and more certain. And Mr. Peffer, veteran observer of Oriental trends, remarks dryly:

"If I were a Japanese general, I should light incense before the Duce's portrait in one of the more furioso presentiments he loves so well."

New Deal In Washington

WASHINGTON.—If the roar of the baloney-grinders would die down for just a moment, we might be able to hear ourselves think what those off-year election results really mean.

Unfortunately, the baloney-grinders are in full whir and there'll be no stopping them for the next 12 months. You might be justified in saying that the really underlyingest significance of the elections was that they formally opened what is generally known as the "campaign year," along with toot-toots from Governor Landon, Senator Vandenberg, and Colonel Knox.

The Republicans and Democrats won a glorious victory, as you already know. The chief value of this victory is the extent to which it will be used to whoop up campaign contributions, stimulate party spirit, and encourage all hands to organize for the great Armageddon of November, 1936.

What the elections actually proved, Chairman Fletcher and Chairman Farley notwithstanding, was approximately what every politician already knew.

Roosevelt has slipped—measurably, but not far enough to satisfy Republicans nor far enough to put the Democrats in a panic.

F. R. Still On Top

No one should try to deduce too much from the New York assembly election, the Kentucky gubernatorial election, or the Philadelphia mayoralty election.

But it seems a fair guess to say that if the presidential election were to be held at this time, Roosevelt would win over any Republican candidate. Almost any politician would privately agree on that.

The only essential change in the political picture since the New Deal congressional landslide of 1934 has been a large growth in popular skepticism as to the soundness and success of the New Deal program, accompanied by an increase of apathy as to Mr. Roosevelt himself.

That has bucked up Republican morale enormously, persuaded potential big campaign contributors that they won't necessarily be throwing their money down the drain pipe, and worried Democrats into the belief that at least they have a fight on their hands.

Signals Are Different

Essentially again, Roosevelt is still the nation's outstanding popular leader. To date, no Republican leader is seriously threatening his position. That is, according to available signs.

Which means, as matters stand, that Republican victory must be predicated upon a revulsion of feeling against the New Deal which will be furious enough to carry any fairly good opponent over the top. A protest vote, in other words, similar to—though not necessarily equaling—those which cast out the Democrats in 1920 and the Republicans in 1932.

Such a turn of the tide is quite possible, but it is worth remembering that the warning signals of the 1918 and 1930 congressional elections were violent, whereas the 1934 congressional elections were a New Deal cleanup and the balloting of 1935 has been little more than a molehill for partisans to magnify.

Both Sides Hopeful

The question is whether the reaction against Roosevelt can be intensified and accelerated in the next year or whether the Democrats can hold it to present proportions while Uncle Frank undertakes to smile and croon the boys and girls back to their previous state of adoration.

Republicans insist publicly they are riding a rising tide of resentment and Democrats like to think the Roosevelt popularity reached its low mark last summer and is now climbing back.

Roosevelt and Farley bit off more than they could chew in seeking to tighten Democratic control of the New York assembly and a Democratic mayor in Philadelphia.

Kentucky, where a blatantly New Deal candidate was elected governor by a whooping majority against a Republican supported by Democratic Gov. Ruby Laffoon and other Democratic conservatives, probably produced the most significant result.

Watch New York

Pennsylvania leaves the question whether control of the Philadelphia election machinery plus normal Republicanism can be offset next year by Democratic control of the state government and the pro-New Deal efforts of John Lewis and the United Mine Workers.

Meanwhile, watch Farley and Tammany and Mayor LaGuardia of New York. Roosevelt and LaGuardia are close. They would like to have LaGuardia run for reelection on the Democratic ticket in 1937.

Tammany, which emphatically reasserted its strength, will demand its own candidate in 1937 if it is to support Roosevelt in 1936.

Incidentally, in case you didn't know it, it was Mrs. Roosevelt who really carried Hyde Park for the new Democratic town supervisor, Elmer van Wagenen, whose opponent ran on an anti-Eleanor platform.

I see by the papers that a park is to be named for Joyce Kilmer, the soldier-poet of the poem to "Trees," also that another park will be fashioned from the estate of the late bullet-ridden gambler, Arnold Rothstein, which will not bear his name. And yet, the gambler's inamorata once told your correspondent that he preferred gardening to any sport. Which is not a startling revelation when you consider that the late "Dutch" Schultz was an ardent opera fan.

The Mark Twain centennial has brought back many recollections of the great author's sage sayings. And one septuagenarian recalled the other evening how the late Mr. Twain remained abed on a day he expected reporters to interview him. Haunted Words

I could cheat some day and have the Associated Ghost Writers of 11 W. 42nd street (fiction, speeches and daily articles written while you wait) do this stint. After-dinner speakers have been known to use the service.

One general characteristic about most great comic men I've never failed to note is that off-stage or away from their typewriters, they seem pretty glum. George S. Kaufman, who's written hilarious farces, has a serious mien, and the late Thorne Smith, among the few authors who could actually make book readers laugh aloud, infrequently cracked a smile. And if you saw Ed Wynn sauntering by himself toward Lindy's on upper Broadway, you would probably break down and weep for his sake.

After going thus far through life in the belief that there were only three Pickens Sisters, comes the revelation that there is a fourth. Just as beautiful as the others and in equally good voice, but she prefers to handle the business management for the trio.

Well, New York now has sandwich-women. No drug store cowgirls, but Park avenue debutantes who have been parading the midtown streets with signs on their backs ballyhoing the Poetry ball for impoverished rhymsters.

That reminds me to jot a note about the majetsic looking fellow with the Prince Albert coat, the wide-brimmed hat, curled mustache and goatee who was carrying signs on Broadway for a new play about the south. I went up to inquire of the colonel the part of the country below the Mason-Dixon line he came from. "Pleez, meester," he said in a pure Sicilian accent, "me no spika good Engleesh."

The gray haired man who waited at the stagedoor for Paul Whiteman the other night was the bandleader's father who, at last, has sold his 175-acre farm in Denver to join his son in the east. Paul's been trying to persuade him to do it, for years.

week to consider adding oil, coal, iron and steel to the list of products now barred to warring Fascism. Britain's support of such an embargo was indicated.

France, fearful of the result, is believed opposed to adding oil to the sanctionist list.

Italy's large air force, its navy and its tanks, are dependent upon oil brought in from the outside. An oil blockade would be a telling blow to her "colonial adventure" in Africa.

Fascist officials did not disguise their concern when informed that Secretary Ickes had called upon American oil exporters not to ship to Italy.

But in Ethiopia, government officials were jubilant. They said an oil embargo would be the greatest economic help nations of the world could give her.

A spokesman for Il Duce said it was "premature" to discuss whether Italy would leave the league in the face of an oil embargo. But there was speculation about it in Rome.

On the war front, Italy claimed new successes. The situation:

Rome—Officials said Italy controlled all of Ogaden province, bringing territory Italy claims to control in Ethiopia to approximately three-sevenths of the country's total area.

Asmara—An Ethiopian force attempting to cross the Takkaze river into Italian-occupied territory was driven back, reportedly with a heavy loss of life.

PARIS, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Italy was reported unofficially today to have warned France that an oil embargo against her means war.

Genevieve Tabouis, a political observer who is close to the government, said in the newspaper L'Oeuvre that Vittorio Cerruti, the Italian ambassador, disclosed this fascist attitude in a talk with Premier Pierre Laval yesterday.

(The league's committee of 18 will meet next week to consider the feasibility of fixing a date for an embargo upon shipments to Italy of oil, coal, iron and steel. Authoritative London quarters said the British government would support such an embargo if the league approves it. Emperor Haile Selassie said if an appeal of the American government against oil shipments to Italy is respected, it would be the most serious economic blow that could be given fascism.)

Quarters usually well-informed represented Laval as being opposed to an oil embargo, fearful that it would shatter all hopes of peace.

France is not an oil exporting nation and does not produce enough coal for her own needs. Protests against sanctions are growing in French business circles.

Ambassador Cerruti called upon Laval again today but officials said he was merely keeping contact and that "nothing new" had arisen.

L'Oeuvre said an unofficial representative of Premier Mussolini is sounding out France as to whether she would really support Britain in the Mediterranean if the British fleet is attacked while enforcing sanctions.

Marquis Alberto Theodoli was said to have come here in an effort to secure information on this question. Il Duce was said after Theodoli reported to have let Britain understand there apparently was a wide gap between French and British views.

leaders, engaged in a fist fight on the convention floor.

The executive council is made up of Green, Frank Morrison, secretary-treasurer of the federation, and the 15 vice presidents. It decides most matters of federation policy, subject to approval or reversal by the annual convention.

Lewis, David Dubinsky, president of the Ladies Garment Workers, and George L. Berry, president of the printing pressmen, were the only three members voting for industrial unionism in the many disputes on that issue that the council faced last winter and spring. Berry resigned last month after President Roosevelt made him industrial recovery coordinator, and now Lewis' resignation leaves only Dubinsky to present the industrial unionists' case in disputes to come.

Labor men here generally were of the opinion that Lewis' move did not signify that the United Mine Workers or any of their industrial union allies intended to leave the federation—for the present at least.

There have been repeated rumors that Lewis had secession in the back of his mind for many months, but he has declined to discuss them. It is known that the garment unions are emphatically opposed to leaving the A. F. of L.

Some interpreted the resignation to mean that Lewis felt he could wage a more vigorous fight against the craft union action if he were outside the council they control. He often has described his position in the council as "looking out the window."

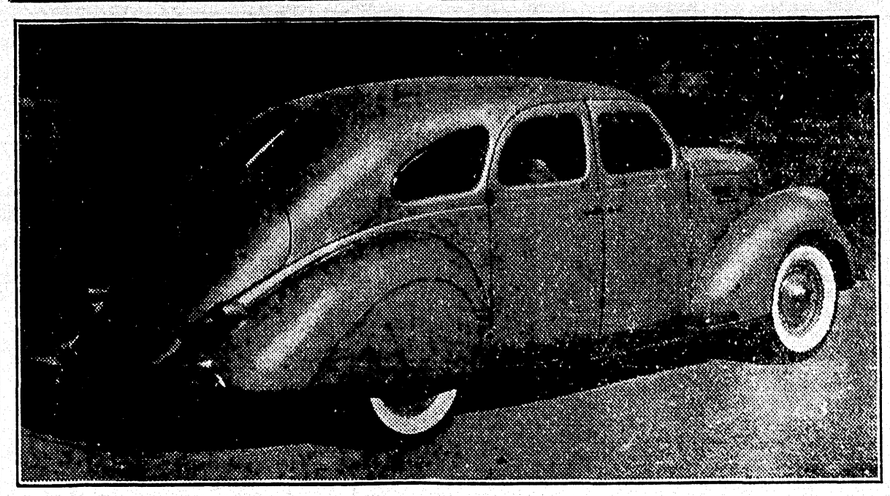
The New Lincoln-Zephyr V-12 on Display



The new Lincoln Zephyr will be on display at the Milner-Fuller company's show rooms, 212 Walnut street, on Wednesday of this week.

THREE-QUARTER rear view of the new V-12 Lincoln-Zephyr, product of the combined resources of the Ford and Lincoln organizations and newest entry in the medium-price field, is illustrated in this four-door sedan type. It is the most completely streamlined car ever put into production. Its design is decidedly advanced, having no orthodox chassis or chassis frame. The car comprises a "bridge truss" body of extraordinary strength, in which the engine is mounted and to which the running gear is attached. The Lincoln-built 12-cylinder engine develops 110 horsepower. Wheelbase is 122 inches, springbase 133 inches. Centerpoise spring suspension with record low center of gravity gives unusual riding comfort.

ton controlled by the government under the 12-cent cotton loan plan would not enter into the war export problem in the immediate future.

"Cotton under 12-cent loans will not be available for sale to any one until after February 1, unless the price rises to a point equalling the amount of the loan plus interest," Cobb said. "This would require an increase of about a cent and a half a pound.

"Until that time, or until a decision is made to dispose of the cotton, we have other and more pressing problems than the ultimate purchaser of the 4,450,000 bales."

On the food shipment question, officials said that if any farmers cooperative marketing associations would be concerned with the question of exports to the warring nations it would be those in grain or cotton cooperatives.

FASCIST STUDENTS TEAR FLAGS FROM PHYSICIANS' AUTO

week to consider adding oil, coal, iron and steel to the list of products now barred to warring Fascism. Britain's support of such an embargo was indicated.

France, fearful of the result, is believed opposed to adding oil to the sanctionist list.

Italy's large air force, its navy and its tanks, are dependent upon oil brought in from the outside. An oil blockade would be a telling blow to her "colonial adventure" in Africa.

Fascist officials did not disguise their concern when informed that Secretary Ickes had called upon American oil exporters not to ship to Italy.

But in Ethiopia, government officials were jubilant. They said an oil embargo would be the greatest economic help nations of the world could give her.

A spokesman for Il Duce said it was "premature" to discuss whether Italy would leave the league in the face of an oil embargo. But there was speculation about it in Rome.

On the war front, Italy claimed new successes. The situation:

Rome—Officials said Italy controlled all of Ogaden province, bringing territory Italy claims to control in Ethiopia to approximately three-sevenths of the country's total area.

Asmara—An Ethiopian force attempting to cross the Takkaze river into Italian-occupied territory was driven back, reportedly with a heavy loss of life.

PARIS, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Italy was reported unofficially today to have warned France that an oil embargo against her means war.

Genevieve Tabouis, a political observer who is close to the government, said in the newspaper L'Oeuvre that Vittorio Cerruti, the Italian ambassador, disclosed this fascist attitude in a talk with Premier Pierre Laval yesterday.

(The league's committee of 18 will meet next week to consider the feasibility of fixing a date for an embargo upon shipments to Italy of oil, coal, iron and steel. Authoritative London quarters said the British government would support such an embargo if the league approves it. Emperor Haile Selassie said if an appeal of the American government against oil shipments to Italy is respected, it would be the most serious economic blow that could be given fascism.)

Quarters usually well-informed represented Laval as being opposed to an oil embargo, fearful that it would shatter all hopes of peace.

France is not an oil exporting nation and does not produce enough coal for her own needs. Protests against sanctions are growing in French business circles.

Ambassador Cerruti called upon Laval again today but officials said he was merely keeping contact and that "nothing new" had arisen.

L'Oeuvre said an unofficial representative of Premier Mussolini is sounding out France as to whether she would really support Britain in the Mediterranean if the British fleet is attacked while enforcing sanctions.

Marquis Alberto Theodoli was said to have come here in an effort to secure information on this question. Il Duce was said after Theodoli reported to have let Britain understand there apparently was a wide gap between French and British views.

CHIEF OF MINERS RESIGNS OFFICE IN LABOR GROUP

leaders, engaged in a fist fight on the convention floor.

The executive council is made up of Green, Frank Morrison, secretary-treasurer of the federation, and the 15 vice presidents. It decides most matters of federation policy, subject to approval or reversal by the annual convention.

Lewis, David Dubinsky, president of the Ladies Garment Workers, and George L. Berry, president of the printing pressmen, were the only three members voting for industrial unionism in the many disputes on that issue that the council faced last winter and spring. Berry resigned last month after President Roosevelt made him industrial recovery coordinator, and now Lewis' resignation leaves only Dubinsky to present the industrial unionists' case in disputes to come.

Labor men here generally were of the opinion that Lewis' move did not signify that the United Mine Workers or any of their industrial union allies intended to leave the federation—for the present at least.

There have been repeated rumors that Lewis had secession in the back of his mind for many months, but he has declined to discuss them. It is known that the garment unions are emphatically opposed to leaving the A. F. of L.

FRUIT CAKES ARE MADE AT BAKERY

3,000 Baked By Visiting Specialist; Many More Are Produced

Under the personal direction of J. B. Rule, baking specialist of many years experience and now head of the baking laboratory of a large confectionery and bakery supply house at New Orleans, 3,000 de luxe fruit cakes recently were baked at the City bakery, 320 North Fourth street.

The 3,000 cakes were made in an initial move toward meeting the annual Thanksgiving and Christmas demand for the City Bakery's fruit cakes in the Twin Cities and northeast Louisiana.

Mr. Rule returned to his work at New Orleans after baking the 3,000 cakes, but the foreman of the local bakery's cake and pastry department is continuing to bake more fruit cakes according to the methods with which he became thoroughly familiar during two weeks working association with Mr. Rule.

Officials of the City Bakery were highly pleased when their efforts to secure Mr. Rule's services were successful. They are pleased, no less, with the results of his work in their baking plant.

Mr. Rule was for 17 years chief production manager of the American Bakery corporation, an organization operating bakeries in many large cities along the Atlantic seaboard and in the south. He is considered one of the outstanding baking specialists of the nation.

Anticipating that the seasonal demand for its fruit cakes will reach extensive proportions, the City Bakery purchased large quantities of materials for its fruit cakes at substantial reductions over the prices for small purchases of the materials, and is therefore able to place the high quality De Luxe cakes on the market at 50 cents per pound. The cakes are made in one, two, three and five-pound sizes.

SHERIFF PUSHES PROBE OF BOMBING OF AUTO

LOXLEY, Ala., Nov. 23.—(AP)—The Baldwin county sheriff's office tonight said "we expect something by Monday" in the investigation of the automobile explosion near here Thursday afternoon which took the life of Mrs. M. O. Clark and injured her daughter, Miss Myrtice Clark, and Milton J. Whitfield, all of Wewahitchka, Fla.

The Baldwin county officers would not disclose any information they may have obtained, but declared: "We are not letting our investigation drop." Sheriff M. H. Wilkins believes a crudely constructed time bomb was fastened beneath the automobile in which the trio were riding from Wewahitchka to New Orleans.

No arrests had been made tonight.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Ponder announce the birth of a son, Robert Louis, at 7:50 p. m. Friday at the Vaughan-Wright-Bendel clinic.

City Briefs

The Christmas bazaar sponsored by the women of the First Methodist church will be held on Friday and Saturday, December 6 and 7, in some downtown building which has not yet been designated. Dinners will be served on both days and supper on Saturday night, and there will be a variety of gifts for sale, consisting mostly of hand work, and an added attraction will be the fish pond which both children and adults can enjoy.

The public schools of the city will close on Wednesday for the Thanksgiving vacation, and will reopen on Monday, December 2. The Northeast Center of Louisiana State university will also observe similar dates.

Members of L. B. Faulk post, American Legion, are busily engaged in planning for the banquet to be given the Ruston post on the night of December 2 at the home here. The locals lost in a membership contest and were forced to provide a dinner for the winners.

Approximately 250 school teachers from the parish and city school systems returned home from Alexandria and the Louisiana Teachers' association annual convention on Friday night and Saturday. The convention was said to be one of the most successful ever held. Local interest attached to the event in that Miss Myrtle E. Rodgers, principal of the Georgia Tucker school, was elected vice-president by a large majority vote.

J. D. Porter, former Monroe insurance man, who removed to Detroit, Mich., early in the year, has returned with his family and will again make his home here. His son, Alden Porter, is now married and is working in the plant of the Ford Motor company in Detroit. His wife was formerly Miss Olivia Sheppert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Sheppert, of Monroe. Their marriage took place in Detroit last June.

The Camp Fire girls will visit a brick-making plant located near Sicard on Friday afternoon. They will make the trip in a city bus that will leave the Central Grammar school at 1:30 p. m. They will be in charge of Mr. F. B. Neely, Camp Fire executive.

A union Thanksgiving service will be preached on Thursday at the First Methodist church by Rabbi F. K. Hirsch. Downtown churches such as the First Presbyterian, First Baptist, First Christian and Temple B'Nai Israel, will participate with the members of the First Methodist church. An invitation is extended to all other church congregations to attend this service.

The Y's Men's club will meet at the Monroe Recreation center, 129 1-2 DeSiard street, on Tuesday instead of on Wednesday night. This is due to the fact that Thanksgiving day comes on Thursday and many members desire to leave the city in advance of that date.

Norris White, student of Southwestern Junior college at Summit, Miss., is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs Dixie White, of West Monroe. Young White is a member of the college football team.

The Sons of the American Legion will meet at the Legion home, Forsythe park, at 2:30 p. m. today.

FRUIT CAKES ARE MADE AT BAKERY

3,000 Baked By Visiting Specialist; Many More Are Produced

Under the personal direction of J. B. Rule, baking specialist of many years experience and now head of the baking laboratory of a large confectionery and bakery supply house at New Orleans, 3,000 de luxe fruit cakes recently were baked at the City bakery, 320 North Fourth street.

The 3,000 cakes were made in an initial move toward meeting the annual Thanksgiving and Christmas demand for the City Bakery's fruit cakes in the Twin Cities and northeast Louisiana.

Mr. Rule returned to his work at New Orleans after baking the 3,000 cakes, but the foreman of the local bakery's cake and pastry department is continuing to bake more fruit cakes according to the methods with which he became thoroughly familiar during two weeks working association with Mr. Rule.

Officials of the City Bakery were highly pleased when their efforts to secure Mr. Rule's services were successful. They are pleased, no less, with the results of his work in their baking plant.

Mr. Rule was for 17 years chief production manager of the American Bakery corporation, an organization operating bakeries in many large cities along the Atlantic seaboard and in the south. He is considered one of the outstanding baking specialists of the nation.

Anticipating that the seasonal demand for its fruit cakes will reach extensive proportions, the City Bakery purchased large quantities of materials for its fruit cakes at substantial reductions over the prices for small purchases of the materials, and is therefore able to place the high quality De Luxe cakes on the market at 50 cents per pound. The cakes are made in one, two, three and five-pound sizes.

SHERIFF PUSHES PROBE OF BOMBING OF AUTO

LOXLEY, Ala., Nov. 23.—(AP)—The Baldwin county sheriff's office tonight said "we expect something by Monday" in the investigation of the automobile explosion near here Thursday afternoon which took the life of Mrs. M. O. Clark and injured her daughter, Miss Myrtice Clark, and Milton J. Whitfield, all of Wewahitchka, Fla.

The Baldwin county officers would not disclose any information they may have obtained, but declared: "We are not letting our investigation drop." Sheriff M. H. Wilkins believes a crudely constructed time bomb was fastened beneath the automobile in which the trio were riding from Wewahitchka to New Orleans.

No arrests had been made tonight.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Ponder announce the birth of a son, Robert Louis, at 7:50 p. m. Friday at the Vaughan-Wright-Bendel clinic.

City Briefs

The Christmas bazaar sponsored by the women of the First Methodist church will be held on Friday and Saturday, December 6 and 7, in some downtown building which has not yet been designated. Dinners will be served on both days and supper on Saturday night, and there will be a variety of gifts for sale, consisting mostly of hand work, and an added attraction will be the fish pond which both children and adults can enjoy.

The public schools of the city will close on Wednesday for the Thanksgiving vacation, and will reopen on Monday, December 2. The Northeast Center of Louisiana State university will also observe similar dates.

Members of L. B. Faulk post, American Legion, are busily engaged in planning for the banquet to be given the Ruston post on the night of December 2 at the home here. The locals lost in a membership contest and were forced to provide a dinner for the winners.

Approximately 250 school teachers from the parish and city school systems returned home from Alexandria and the Louisiana Teachers' association annual convention on Friday night and Saturday. The convention was said to be one of the most successful ever held. Local interest attached to the event in that Miss Myrtle E. Rodgers, principal of the Georgia Tucker school, was elected vice-president by a large majority vote.

J. D. Porter, former Monroe insurance man, who removed to Detroit, Mich., early in the year, has returned with his family and will again make his home here. His son, Alden Porter, is now married and is working in the plant of the Ford Motor company in Detroit. His wife was formerly Miss Olivia Sheppert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Sheppert, of Monroe. Their marriage took place in Detroit last June.

The Camp Fire girls will visit a brick-making plant located near Sicard on Friday afternoon. They will make the trip in a city bus that will leave the Central Grammar school at 1:30 p. m. They will be in charge of Mr. F. B. Neely, Camp Fire executive.

A union Thanksgiving service will be preached on Thursday at the First Methodist church by Rabbi F. K. Hirsch. Downtown churches such as the First Presbyterian, First Baptist, First Christian and Temple B'Nai Israel, will participate with the members of the First Methodist church. An invitation is extended to all other church congregations to attend this service.

The Y's Men's club will meet at the Monroe Recreation center, 129 1-2 DeSiard street, on Tuesday instead of on Wednesday night. This is due to the fact that Thanksgiving day comes on Thursday and many members desire to leave the city in advance of that date.

Norris White, student of Southwestern Junior college at Summit, Miss., is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs Dixie White, of West Monroe. Young White is a member of the college football team.

The Sons of the American Legion will meet at the Legion home, Forsythe park, at 2:30 p. m. today.

were in the sightseeing procession. Many came from Honolulu, 200 miles away, and watched from the west side of Hawaii island, opposite Hilo.

Both airplanes and steamships were utilized. Boats were crowded. Some passengers slept on deck.

The eruption began Thursday night, a few hours after an earthquake and a tidal wave. Terrific columns of fiery rock shot out of Mauna Loa's craters and coursed down the mountainside in five streams.

For a time observers were apprehensive lest it turn toward Hilo. Their fears were short lived. The lava flow headed westward, away from the city.

ever small, knowing that every penny you contribute will go to the children of Monroe and West Monroe.

Perhaps you belong to an organization that can do a service which individuals are not able to do. That is what the ladies of the Maccabees, Fidelity Hive No. 221, are planning to do. They have arranged to give a dance next Saturday night at the Missouri Pacific Boosters hall. They are inviting their friends and their friends' friends, and the public at large to purchase tickets, and attend if they will. And the proceeds will all go to the Good Fellows fund. That's a fine bit of service, and one that may well be emulated by other organizations throughout the two cities.

And whatever you do, don't wait until the last minute. Christmas is only four short weeks away, and plans have to be made for the purchase of the supplies that will be needed to make every needy child happy on that festive occasion.

Checks and cash should be sent or delivered to the World and News-Star, 110 North Second street. Checks should be made payable to the Good Fellows fund.

Reports of presiding elders during the morning session revealed a steady growth in the work of the church.

Dr. George Sexton, president emeritus of Centenary college and presiding elder of the Shreveport district, was cheered when he reported his district had paid its entire quota on all benevolences and in some cases gave more than the quota. It was the first time in the history of the conference, churchmen said, that any district had paid its quota in full.

The Shreveport district gave a total of $130,207, Dr. Sexton said, adding that there had been 1,554 accessions in the church during the past year. Dr. Sexton is celebrating the 50th anniversary of his entrance into the ministry.

Phillip Lieber, Shreveport, Louisiana grand master of the Masonic order, addressed the convention briefly.

NORMAL TO HOLD BIG CELEBRATION

College To Observe Homecoming At Natchitoches On Thanksgiving

NATCHITOCHES, La., Nov. 23.—(Special)—Plans are being made at the Louisiana State Normal college here to accommodate the largest autumn homecoming crowd in the history of the teachers' college when the Demons meet the Southwestern Bulldogs of Lafayette on the local college field Thanksgiving day. Extra bleachers are being erected on the field in anticipation of a record attendance, and organizations on the campus are busy getting things in readiness for the old grads.

For the first time in the history of the college, invitations to attend the game have been extended high school seniors and their principals in the state. More than 2,000 eleventh grade students from the public schools of Louisiana are expected to accept the invitation, President Albert A. Fredericks stated today. Each high school class will attend the game in a body, with identification of students being made by the principal or some designated school official at the gate, officials stated.

Thursday has been declared a holiday at the teachers' college, and students and faculty are preparing to make good use of the time off from their classes. Starting at 10:30 a. m., the student body, 1,300 strong, headed by the college band of 40 pieces, will stage a pep parade through the main streets of the city. Local citizens are being invited to participate in the parade.

At noon Thursday the college will give the students the annual Thanksgiving dinner in the college dining hall. Registration of alumni will be held in social hall on the campus Thursday morning until 12 o'clock, Prosessor Leroy S. Miller, secretary of the alumni association, stated today. The alumni dinner will be dispensed with this year, but returning grads may secure tickets for the Thanksgiving dinner in the college dining hall, authorities announced.

Special features of the game which will be called at 2:30 p.m., will include the entrance of the homecoming queen and her court who will reign during the contest, and the introduction of returning alumni and high school groups to the football crowd. Introductions will be made by means of the college public address system which will also be used to announce the game play by play. Bands of both institutions will give demonstrations between halves.

A banquet honoring the varsity squad and all members of the "N" club at the college will be held in the college dining hall after the game. Brief addresses by members of the team and wearers of the purple and white of other years, will mark the highlights of the banquet.

Climaxing the homecoming events, will be a dance honoring both varsity and freshman squads and returning alumni in the women's gymnasium, Thursday night. The annual ball is being sponsored by Current Sauce, student weekly paper at the college.

Charlie Hooker, of Sterlington, suffered a cut lip from flying glass, when an automobile driven by John Hobson, also of Sterlington, collided at the corner of Jackson and Grammont streets, with a taxi driven by Jiles Hamrick, last night. No charges were filed by the police against either driver.

Some London dressmakers have introduced a "lip-mask" to prevent lipstick damage to frocks being tried on by mannequins or customers.

C. Elliot (Pee Wee) Thompson

Candidate for Judge of the Monroe City Court

Subject to the action of the Democratic Primary January 21, 1936.

To the Voters of Wards Three and Ten:

I offer myself to you as candidate for the office of City Judge.

My qualifications are, as follows:

I was educated in the public schools of this city, Washington and Lee University, Louisiana State University and Tulane University. I received my Bachelor of Laws degree from Tulane University. I have been engaged in the practice of law in this city for a period of five years, and during that time, I have acquired the legal experience which qualifies me for the office I seek.

It is true that I am a young man. A question might arise in your minds as to whether a young man, twenty-six years of age, should be elected to this office.

As I stated above, I have had five years experience in the practice of law. If elected to this office in January, I could not actually take office until December, 1936, because the present term does not expire until then, and, by that time, I will have had six years of actual practice. I can assure you that there are many judges on different courts throughout the country with less legal experience than I will have had at the time your next City Judge takes office.

The Legislature of this State, in creating the office of City Judge for Monroe, obviously intended that this office be filled by a young man, because only three years of experience in the practice of law is required for eligibility for this office. While five years experience is required for District Judge, six years for Judge on the Appellate Court, and ten years for the Supreme Court.

For the last five or six years the national cry has been:

"The future of our government depends upon the younger generation." And, "Why don't the young people get into politics?" And many other phrases of similar import.

My answer to this idea and thought is:

"I am a young man; give me a chance."

In order for the younger generation to take its place in the field of government, (and this younger generation will by necessity have to direct the destinies of our nation in a few years) there must be a starting point. You must give us an opportunity to "break the ice," if you expect us to assume responsibility when the time comes. You must elect us to offices which were created for us and which we are qualified to fill.

I freely and frankly express to you that my own personal ambition prompted me to announce myself as a candidate for this office. However, this ambition is not strong enough or egotistical enough to prompt me to ask the people to elect me to an office for which I am not qualified. I am asking you to vote for me and to thereby help me further myself, because I know that I am qualified.

None could condemn me for being ambitious. Certainly the public does not desire to destroy that trait in its youth. Our great nation was constructed upon a foundation of ambition and patriotism, which was present in the hearts of our forefathers. These traits must be encouraged, not destroyed.

In offering myself to you as a candidate, I have nothing to offer except myself. I am making this campaign without assistance from any organized group of individuals or political organization. My only pre-election promise to you is energy, efficiency, honesty and impartiality. This constitutes my platform.

I take this as my means of soliciting your vote and your support until I am able to contact you personally.

College To Observe Homecoming At Natchitoches On Thanksgiving

NATCHITOCHES, La., Nov. 23.—(Special)—Plans are being made at the Louisiana State Normal college here to accommodate the largest autumn homecoming crowd in the history of the teachers' college when the Demons meet the Southwestern Bulldogs of Lafayette on the local college field Thanksgiving day. Extra bleachers are being erected on the field in anticipation of a record attendance, and organizations on the campus are busy getting things in readiness for the old grads.

For the first time in the history of the college, invitations to attend the game have been extended high school seniors and their principals in the state. More than 2,000 eleventh grade students from the public schools of Louisiana are expected to accept the invitation, President Albert A. Fredericks stated today. Each high school class will attend the game in a body, with identification of students being made by the principal or some designated school official at the gate, officials stated.

Thursday has been declared a holiday at the teachers' college, and students and faculty are preparing to make good use of the time off from their classes. Starting at 10:30 a. m., the student body, 1,300 strong, headed by the college band of 40 pieces, will stage a pep parade through the main streets of the city. Local citizens are being invited to participate in the parade.

At noon Thursday the college will give the students the annual Thanksgiving dinner in the college dining hall. Registration of alumni will be held in social hall on the campus Thursday morning until 12 o'clock, Prosessor Leroy S. Miller, secretary of the alumni association, stated today. The alumni dinner will be dispensed with this year, but returning grads may secure tickets for the Thanksgiving dinner in the college dining hall, authorities announced.

Special features of the game which will be called at 2:30 p.m., will include the entrance of the homecoming queen and her court who will reign during the contest, and the introduction of returning alumni and high school groups to the football crowd. Introductions will be made by means of the college public address system which will also be used to announce the game play by play. Bands of both institutions will give demonstrations between halves.

A banquet honoring the varsity squad and all members of the "N" club at the college will be held in the college dining hall after the game. Brief addresses by members of the team and wearers of the purple and white of other years, will mark the highlights of the banquet.

Climaxing the homecoming events, will be a dance honoring both varsity and freshman squads and returning alumni in the women's gymnasium, Thursday night. The annual ball is being sponsored by Current Sauce, student weekly paper at the college.

TECH RALLIES TO WHIP LOUISIANA COLLEGE, 25-7

BULLDOGS CLICK IN LAST HALF TO DEFEAT WILDCATS

Techmen Mix Aerial Attack With Smooth Running Game To Win

By George V. Lofton
(Sports Editor Of The World)

WILDCAT STADIUM, PINEVILLE, La., Nov. 23.—Turning on the power in the last half, Louisiana Tech completely ruined Louisiana college's homecoming celebration by routing the Wildcats, 25 to 7, in a renewal of their colorful rivalry before a crowd of 5,000 here today.

The Bulldogs had to pass the test of all good teams. They showed they could come from behind and win, they did it convincingly enough to bring joy to a thousand or more Tech enthusiasts, and even Wildcat supporters went away singing the praises of a team which clicked perfectly in that last half rally.

The Cats took an early lead when R. O. Rush, Louisiana college's stellar halfback, ran back a punt 54 yards for a touchdown in the first quarter. McClellan kicked the extra point, and it looked like the Wildcats might hold that lead indefinitely. However, Tech got better and better as the game progressed, and with less than a minute remaining in the second quarter, Hanna passed to Coody for a touchdown. That still didn't catch the Cats, for Hewitt's kick from placement was wide, and the half ended on the kick-off with Louisiana college leading, 7 to 6.

When Tech took the field at the start of the second half, it was apparent that they were going places. Two drives were halted deep in Wildcat territory, but mid-way in the third quarter, Tech pushed to the 24 yard line and then Hewitt slipped through the middle, eluded the secondary and scored standing up. His attempted placement for point was blocked.

Soon after the fourth quarter started, Tech took advantage of a poor punt to gain possession of the ball on the Wildcat 29. However, one of their passes was intercepted and the drive momentarily bogged down. Three plays later, Capt. Madison Brooks, big Tech center, intercepted a Wildcat pass on the Louisiana college 40, and raced to the 13 before he was brought down. On the first play, Archie Turner, the Ferriday phenom, crashed through left tackle and kept going until he had crossed the goal line. Again Hewitt's kick was wide but the Bulldogs had a good margin to work on.

Several minutes later Turner got loose for a beautiful 60 yard run, placing the ball deep in Cat territory. Hanna picked up 13 and then five more. Hewitt got three and then Hanna slipped around right end for ten and the touchdown. This time Hewitt sent the ball squarely through the uprights for the extra point.

Just before the game ended, Brooks intercepted another Cat pass and raced to the five yard line. There was time for only one play and the Bulldogs could make but three yards, so they had to be content with their 19 point margin.

It took Tech all of the first quarter to settle down, but when the Bulldogs did start clicking, there wasn't any stopping them. Louisiana college looked impressive in the first period, while Tech's fumbles kept them in trouble. The Wildcats chalked up two first downs in that opening period, but those were the only two they made during the game.

The statistics reveal just how superior the Bulldogs were today. They made 11 first downs to two. They tried 17 passes, completed seven for 116 yards, eight were incomplete and two were intercepted. The Wildcats tried 15 passes, completed one for one yard, 12 were incomplete and two were intercepted. And with the exception of part of the first quarter, Tech out-gained the Wildcats from scrimmage by a wide margin.

All of the Techmen covered themselves with glory, particularly Eddie

Two Louisiana State Stars Named On All-South Selection

SPORTS Chatter

BY GEO. V. LOFTON

WHAT'S THE CHANCE?

That sentiment is overwhelmingly in favor of the Ouachita-Neville football game isn't denied. Yet the group of men who constitute the committee seeking to schedule the contest appears no nearer success than they were two weeks ago, or, for that matter, no nearer success than were similar committees one year ago, two years ago or five years ago.

As you may remember, this year's committee paid for an ad last Sunday which contained a ballot on the game. The committee has announced that more than 300 fans took the trouble to clip the ballot and mail it to the sports editor. One vote was cast against the game.

We don't know just what the committee intends to do about it. It seems to us that they should go to headquarters, wherever that may be, and get a definite answer as soon as possible. If the answer is "No," then maybe they can find out why.

Anyway it goes, the fans are entitled to know what chance there is of staging the game. It should be settled one way or the other within the next few days.

Jim Malone, coach of the highly successful Northeast Center of L. S. U., football team, is still attempting to book a post-season game for his undefeated club. Negotiations are under way with Sunflower junior college, champion of the Mississippi Valley conference, and the University of Tennessee junior college, another strong entry. A game with one of these teams may materialize.

Malone's Indians have rolled over all opposition. Some of their foes were good, while others were terrible. Jim admits that Arkansas college did not have a good high school team, but the Panthers were pretty good last year when he scheduled the game. And don't forget Center's 16-6 victory over Southeastern, their 6-0 win over Ouachita and the 13-0 triumph over Henderson State. Those were all interesting battles.

Malone believes Lon Morris will furnish a real test for his club Tuesday afternoon. The Jacksonville eleven is ranked with the best junior college teams in Texas, and they'll be the first team to outweight the 1935 tribe of Indians.

Malone isn't trying to find any set-up for his post-season game. Both Tennessee Juniors and the Sunflower club should extend the Indians to the limit, and if these two teams fall back on him, the Warrior mentor is willing to go out after even bigger game.

KNOXVILLE PLAYER IS SOLD TO TULSA

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Lee Stebbins, first baseman with Knoxville of the Southern association, has been sold to Tulsa, Okla., of the Texas league, Edgar Allen, club secretary, announced today.

Stebbins will be replaced by Neal Caldwell, who has been obtained on option from Houston of the Texas league, Allen said.

Caldwell is the fifth new player obtained by the Smokies this week. Earl Webb and Tony Kubek, outfielders, were purchased from Milwaukee of the American association. Jim Moore, outfielder, was obtained from Columbus of the American association, and Bill Beckman, right handed pitcher, from Houston of the Texas league.

FATHERREE AND TINSLEY PLACED ON FIRST TEAM

Alabama Gets Three Places And Two Auburn Stars Are Named

By Harry Grayson
(NEA Service Sports Editor)

Alabama may not share the Southeastern conference championship this fall, but that doesn't keep the Rose Bowl champion from predominating on the All-South team.

The Crimson Tide quickly got rolling again after an early season lapse that saw it tied by Howard and repelled by Mississippi State.

The three athletes who contributed most to the comeback of the Capstone club are honored by the coaches and critics who selected this year's All-South array for NEA Service from squads of both the Southeastern and Southern conferences and Dixie teams attached to neither.

The Alabama warriors placed on the first team are Riley Smith, quarterback; Paul (Bear) Bryant, end; and Jim (Whataman) Whatley.

Louisiana State and Auburn are awarded two places each. The Tigers honored are Jess Fatherree, halfback, and Gaynell Tinsley, end. Haygood Paterson, alternate captain and tackle, and Frank Gaunt, guard, are the Alabama Poly luminaries designated.

The remainder of the first team is made up of Don Jackson, North Carolina halfback; Clarence (Ace) Parker, Duke fullback; Smither, Tulane guard; and Steve Sabol, North Carolina State center.

The All-South backfield has everything.

Alabama lost its best offensive back with the departure of Millard (Dixie) Howell, and Smith, a superlative blocker, has come through in great style this autumn in shouldering some of the ball carrying burden. He is the one player everybody agreed on.

Parker was adjudged the finest back on the field in Duke's climactic contest with North Carolina. A dozen of his punts averaged 44 yards from the line of scrimmage. One, booted from behind the Blue Devils' goal line, was good for 65 yards.

Fatherree's feathery feet have made him the idol of the Louisiana bayous. He accounted for the longest run in the south this fall in galloping 100 yards against Georgia on the old Statue of Liberty play.

Carl Snavely, of North Carolina, calls Jackson one of the most accomplished all-round backs he ever coached. The prize Tar Heel punts and passes in addition to being an able carrier of the mail.

Next to Smith, Tinsley came closest to being a unanimous choice. The Louisiana State star is considered by many to be the most polished end in Dixie since Gerald Dalrymple, the Tulane all-America ace of 1930 and '31. Bryant was the running mate of the spectacular Don Hutson last season.

Illness kept Whataman Whatley out of the Rose Bowl game of last Jan-

OHIO STATE TRIMS MICHIGAN, 38 TO 0

MICHIGAN STADIUM, ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Ohio State's Scarlet Tide rolled relentlessly over Michigan's hapless Wolverines, 38 to 0, today, clinching a share in the Western conference football championship before 60,000 fans.

It was the largest score by which the Buckeyes ever defeated their ancient Michigan rivals, but fell two points short of equalling the 40-0 defeat smeared on the Wolverines a week ago by Minnesota, also a claimant to the Big Ten title.

The rampant Buckeyes scored twice in the first and fourth periods, and once each in the second and third. Dick Heekin, playing his final game for the Scarlet, led the attack by attending personally to the first and last touchdowns.

William Harrison (Tippy) Dye, whose brilliant run gave Ohio its 6-0 victory over Illinois last week, repeated with a 73-yard dash for a touchdown as the first period ended.

Bettridge, Boucher and Waslik scored the other Buckeye touchdowns.

Tigers Win, 56-0, In 'Rest Game' Preceding Tilt With Tulane

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Enjoying a "rest" game before their battle with Tulane next Saturday, Louisiana State university's Tigers today trampled Southwestern Louisiana institute 56 to 0.

Louisiana State scored eight touchdowns, using almost every "stringer" on the squad, or a total of 33 men. Southwestern fought valiantly, but except for recovering a fumble never got out of their own territory.

Tinsley scored in the first period on an 18-yard pass over the goal.

In the secon, Crass ripped through from the seven yard line over the goal, and Rohm (sub for Fatherree) circled end for 15 yards and a touchdown. Bowman (sub for Reed) broke through the line for 32 yards for a fourth tally as the half ended.

Early in the third quarter, Fatherree ripped off left tackle for 34 yards and a marker, and later Mickal dived over center from the three yard line.

Walker (sub for Reed) smashed over from the two yard line, in the fourth, and Crass from the one foot margin.

NEVILLE TIGERS WILL PLAY RAMS

Annual Thanksgiving Game Will Be Staged On Bastrop Gridiron

The annual Thanksgiving day hostilities between the Tigers of Neville High school and the Bastrop High school Rams will be resumed Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock on the Bastrop gridiron.

The Tigers have been taking things easy during the past week due to an open date but they will get back into harness again tomorrow for the last time this season. The game will mark the end of the Bengals' regular schedule and the passing of another successful season.

Thus far Neville has been beaten in state competition only once and they are due to come out on top by a wide margin Thursday. While the Bengals were resting Friday the Rams fell before the Rayville Hornets, 13 to 6. The Rams have fallen before this fall and should they be able to turn back Coach Percy Brown's boys it will be the worst splattering of the dope bucket this season.

Andrew Pappas, fullback, and Urbane Kelly, end, who were injured in the game with Lafayette, have been out practically all the past week and it is still doubtful whether they will be able to go against the Rams. Pappas suffered a bad foot injury and has been hobbling around on crutches while Kelly got a bad cruise on his hip that has slowed him down considerably.

BRIGGS IS NEW DETROIT OWNER

Industrialist Becomes Sole Owner Of Club; Cochrane Promoted

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Walter O. Briggs, Detroit industrialist, today assumed the presidency of the Detroit American league baseball team, succeeding the late Frank J. Navin.

Briggs this week purchased Navin's interest to become the club's sole owner.

Briggs' decision to succeed his late partner was revealed in an announcement released at his Miami Beach winter estate, where he spent most of this afternoon conferring with officials of the team.

Mickey Cochrane, the Tigers' catcher-manager, will continue at the helm.

He also will be vice-president, in complete charge of the playing end and the purchase, trade, sale or release of players.

Charles F. Navin, nephew of Frank J. Navin, will continue as secretary and treasurer. He will also serve as business manager.

Walter O. Briggs, Jr., the club president's 24-year-old son, will become assistant secretary and assistant treasurer.

The announcement said there would be no changes in office personnel.

FIGHTER DIES AFTER TERRIFIC RING BOUT

STANFORD BEATS CALIFORNIA, 13-0

Indians Shatter Bears' Championship Dreams Before 90,000

STANFORD STADIUM, PALO ALTO, Calif., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Stanford's mighty football men today shattered the championship dreams of the greatest University of California team in years and probably clinched the Rose Bowl bid by licking the Golden Bears 13 to 0.

The season's largest crowd in the west, 90,000 frenzied fans, saw a Stanford team reach its greatest heights behind the sterling play of Fullback Bobby Grayson, making his final stand in the bottom of this huge bowl.

Grayson engineered both touchdown drives in the first period. One was an 80-yard march that ripped to shreds a California line nine other teams had failed to break, the other a 29 yard thrust.

The great Indian fullback started that first thrill-packed march with a 25 yard run and in a one yard thrust over the goal line. He carried the ball five times during that goalward smash for a total of 35 yards, then threw two passes that clicked for 16 yards total.

"Monk" Moscrip, left end, added the extra point with a place kick.

Shortly after Stanford snatched at a "break" to push over a second touchdown, Quarterback John Meek of California fumbled the ball and Wes Muller, giant center, recovered for Stanford on the Bears' 29 yard line.

Once more Grayson was the guiding genius of the swift attack that enabled Stanford to roll up the most one-sided score over California since 1930.

OLE MISS DOWNS CENTENARY GENTS BY 6 TO 0 SCORE

Mississippians Turn Break Into Touchdown To Win Over Visitors

MUNICIPAL STADIUM, JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 23.—(AP)—The University of Mississippi turned a break into a touchdown in the second period here today to defeat the Centenary college Gentlemen of Shreveport, La., 6 to 0.

It was the first victory for the Mississippians in four encounters with the Louisiana team. A crowd estimated at 6,000 witnessed the game.

Though it was an intercepted pass on the enemy 10-yard line that gave "Ole Miss" its winning touchdown, Coach Ed Walker's Mississippians outplayed the Gentlemen for three quarters, and were narrowly repulsed from the goal-line twice in the final period. The game ended with Ole Miss in possession of the ball on the Centenary two-foot line.

The beginning of the quarter saw a stalwart Centenary line turn back Ole Miss backs on the Gent 4-yard line despite a 5-yard penalty.

Stone, Centenary halfback, helped Ole Miss to its only touchdown. In a hold on his own five-yard line, Stone faked a punt, started to run, changed his mind and heaved a short pass to one of his mates. The ball hit the receiver, bounding into the air, and Buster Poole, alert Ole Miss end, grabbed the oval and raced across the goal-line almost untouched.

Ole Miss made 9 first downs to Centenary's 4.

Clarence Hapes' punting for Ole Miss was outstanding. The Red and Blue back getting off kicks of 75 and 70 yards which kept Centenary in trouble in the second period.

Centenary's most serious threat came in the second period when a 15-yard dash by Mozoch carried the ball to the Ole Miss 27 yard line, but the attack froze there when the Ole Miss line held.

The line-ups:

Centenary	Pos.	Mississippi
Horak	LE	Poole
Baker	LT	Kinard
Hohmann	LG	Bilbo
Frizell	C	Nelson
Robinson	RG	Madre
Binion	RT	Richardson

S. M. U. TROUNCES BAYLOR, 10 TO 0

Undefeated Sky Raiders Roll Onward With Triumph Over Bears

DALLAS, Texas, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Little Bobby Wilson desperately pumped magic from his hands and nimble feet today and Southern Methodist's undefeated sky raiders rolled on with a 10-0 triumph over Baylor's stubborn Bears.

The cunning, 147-pound halfback, bottled and sealed for nearly three periods, suddenly broke away on a 66-yard punt return on the last play of the third period and the game was Southern Methodist's.

His viciously blocking mates bowled over Bruins like wooden soldiers as he sprinted and twisted to the eight-yard line where Buchanan, a hefty guard, finally hauled him down.

To the rescue came Maurice Orr, 215-pound tackle. After three line plays failed, he stepped to the 13-yard line and hoisted a field goal over the bar.

It dazed a Baylor team which had outfought the Mustangs since the start and five minutes later Wilson, the sniper, rifled an 18-yard touchdown pass to "Jackrabbit" Smith, Mustang signal caller. Again Orr's kick was true.

The badly crippled Methodists, four regulars adorning the bench when the game started, pulled their rally with only a few minutes to spare and kept their ranking along with Texas Christian, as preferred Rose Bowl candidates.

Score by periods:

S. M. U.	0	0	0	10	10

Scoring: Touchdowns, Southern Methodist, J. R. Smith; field goal (placement kick), Orr; points after touchdown, (placement) Orr.

Officials: Boynton (Williams), referee; Hart (Texas), umpire; Winters (Ohio), head linesman; Ulay (Texas A. and M.), field judge.

Malcolm Campbell May Forego Speed Racing For Politics

By John J. Romano

Sir Malcolm Campbell is inherently shy. He shuns the spotlight when he is not driving a flame-belching automobile over the sands of Daytona Beach or the salt flats of Utah at a 300-mile clip.

With the passing years—Sir Malcolm is 50 years old—the man who drove an automobile faster than any other human, aspires to a seat in the British house of commons. During his campaign vandals broke into his office and scattered furniture and papers all over the place. The culprits were not caught. If they were it is doubtful if Sir Malcolm would appear against them. His mind would go back some 33 years when he stood in the dock and heard the magistrate pass judgment on him.

An astonished constable brought young Campbell before the judge for riding a bicycle at the then unheard of speed of 27 miles an hour. A fine of 30 shillings was assessed against the rider.

"Young man," thundered the judge, "let this be a lesson to you not to travel so fast from now on."

Wonder what the magistrate thought when the defendant's name was flashed all over the world as the first and only person to attain the unbelievable speed of 300 miles an hour!

Speed His Own Liking

Sir Malcolm does not inherit his love for record-breaking feats. He was born in London, the son of a wealthy Scot merchant. His schooling was that of a rich man's son. It was not until he was vacationing in Germany that he purchased a bicycle and went in for racing. The urge for speed was generated from that day on.

He worked for Lloyd's at a weekly salary of $5 for three years. After that he started a business of his own and then purchased a second-hand motorcycle. He entered and won a distance race. His friends called him lucky. He disproved this by winning the same race three years in a row.

From a motorcycle to an automobile was but a short step, and before long the name of Malcolm Campbell was associated with speed.

From the ground the young Scot's thoughts soared to the air. With the help of a carpenter he built his own plane. The result of six months' hard work was a total wreck when after lumbering along the ground for a hundred yards it actually rose from the ground and then tumbled in one scrambled heap.

Doesn't Want To Die In Bed

When England entered the war in '14, Campbell enlisted as a private and saw service as a motorcycle dispatch bearer. He contracted a severe case of influenza and was invalided home. When he joined up again, it was in the aviation corps. Strange though it seems, the man who was later in life to be honored with a peerage did not pull any hair-raising stunts as a "war bird," although he did reach the rank of captain before he was mustered out of service.

With plenty of money at his command, Malcolm Campbell commenced to build his own racing machines. His first car was called the "Flapper." When it was consigned to the junk heap and another built it was called the "Flapper II."

Discarding such a prosaic slang word the racing dare-devil recalled the happiness he derived in seeing Maeterlinck's play, "The Blue Bird," and from then on the cars which were to bring so much happiness and eye-lash escapes from death were called "The Blue Bird."

Nine times Sir Malcolm Campbell has doubled the speed mark he established in 1924. There was some talk that he would abandon further attempts to set new records once he traveled at a rate better than five miles a minute.

It may be that his entrance in politics, something he never bothered with in other years, is his swan song to the precarious, though thrilling avocation he adopted when he left Lloyd's as a young man with loftier ambitions than that of a mere clerk.

Those who doubt Sir Malcolm's retirement recall that he once said, "I shall never give up until I have to. I do not want to die in bed. I'd like to go in the cockpit of a racing car at the mature age of three score and ten."

TECH RALLIES TO WHIP LOUISIANA COLLEGE, 25-7

BULLDOGS CLICK IN LAST HALF TO DEFEAT WILDCATS

Techmen Mix Aerial Attack With Smooth Running Game To Win

By George V. Lofton
(Sports Editor Of The World)

WILDCAT STADIUM, PINEVILLE, La., Nov. 23.—Turning on the power in the last half, Louisiana Tech completely ruined Louisiana college's homecoming celebration by routing the Wildcats, 25 to 7, in a renewal of their colorful rivalry before a crowd of 5,000 here today.

The Bulldogs had to pass the test of all good teams. They showed they could come from behind and win. They did it convincingly enough to bring joy to a thousand or more Tech enthusiasts, and even Wildcat supporters went away singing the praises of a team which clicked perfectly in that last half rally.

The Cats took an early lead when R. O. Rush, Louisiana college's stellar halfback, ran back a punt 54 yards for a touchdown in the first quarter. McClellan kicked the extra point, and it looked like the Wildcats might hold that lead indefinitely. However, Tech got better and better as the game progressed, and with less than a minute remaining in the second quarter, Hanna passed to Coody for a touchdown. That still didn't catch the Cats, for Hewitt's kick from placement was wide, and the half ended on the kick-off with Louisiana college leading, 7 to 6.

When Tech took the field at the start of the second half, it was apparent that they were going places. Two drives were halted deep in Wildcat territory, but mid-way in the third quarter, Tech pushed to the 24 yard line and then Hewitt slipped through the middle, eluded the secondary and scored standing up. His attempted placement for point was blocked.

Soon after the fourth quarter started, Tech took advantage of a poor punt to gain possession of the ball on the Wildcat 29. However, one of their passes was intercepted and the drive momentarily bogged down. Three plays later, Capt. Madison Brooks, big Tech center, intercepted a Wildcat pass on the Louisiana college 40, and raced to the 13 before he was brought down. On the first play, Archie Turner, the Ferriday phenom, crashed through left tackle and kept going until he had crossed the goal line. Again Hewitt's kick was wide but the Bulldogs had a good margin to work on.

Several minutes later Turner got loose for a beautiful 60 yard run, placing the ball deep in Cat territory. Hanna picked up 13 and then five more. Hewitt got three and then Hanna slipped around right end for ten and the touchdown. This time Hewitt sent the ball squarely through the uprights for the extra point.

Just before the game ended, Brooks intercepted another Cat pass and raced to the five yard line. There was time for only one play and the Bulldogs could make but three yards, so they had to be content with their 19 point margin.

It took Tech all of the first quarter to settle down, but when the Bulldogs did start clicking, there wasn't any stopping them. Louisiana college looked impressive in the first period, while Tech's fumbles kept them in trouble. The Wildcats chalked up two first downs in that opening period, but those were the only two they made during the game.

The statistics reveal just how superior the Bulldogs were today. They made 11 first downs to two. They tried 17 passes, completed seven for 116 yards, eight were incomplete and two were intercepted. The Wildcats tried 15 passes, completed one for one yard, 12 were incomplete and two were intercepted. And with the exception of part of the first quarter, Tech out-gained the Wildcats from scrimmage by a wide margin.

All of the Techmen covered themselves with glory, particularly Eddie

Two Louisiana State Stars Named On All-South Selection

SPORTS Chatter

BY GEO. V. LOFTON

WHAT'S THE CHANCE?

That sentiment is overwhelmingly in favor of the Ouachita-Neville football game isn't denied. Yet the group of men who constitute the committee seeking to schedule the contest appears no nearer success than they were two weeks ago, or, for that matter, no nearer success than were similar committees one year ago, two years ago or five years ago.

As you may remember, this year's committee paid for an ad last Sunday which contained a ballot on the game. The committee has announced that more than 300 fans took the trouble to clip the ballot and mail it to the sports editor. One vote was cast against the game.

We don't know just what the committee intends to do about it. It seems to us that they should go to headquarters, wherever that may be, and get a definite answer as soon as possible. If the answer is "No," then maybe they can find out why.

Anyway it goes, the fans are entitled to know what chance there is of staging the game. It should be settled one way or the other within the next few days.

STILL TRYING

Jim Malone, coach of the highly successful Northeast Center of L. S. U., football team, is still attempting to book a post-season game for his undefeated club. Negotiations are under way with Sunflower junior college, champion of the Mississippi Valley conference, and the University of Tennessee junior college, another strong entry. A game with one of these teams may materialize.

Malone's Indians have rolled over all opposition. Some of their foes were good, while others were terrible. Jim admits that Arkansas college did not have a good high school team, but the Panthers were pretty good last year when he scheduled the game. And don't forget Center's 16-6 victory over Southeastern, their 6-0 win over Ouachita and the 13-0 triumph over Henderson State. Those were all interesting battles.

Malone believes Lon Morris will furnish a real test for his club Tuesday afternoon. The Jacksonville eleven is ranked with the best junior college teams in Texas, and they'll be the first team to outweight the 1935 tribe of Indians.

Malone isn't trying to find any set-up for his post-season game. Both Tennessee Juniors and the Sunflower club should extend the Indians to the limit, and if these two teams fall back on him, the Warrior mentor is willing to go out after even bigger game.

KNOXVILLE PLAYER IS SOLD TO TULSA

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Lee Stebbins, first baseman with Knoxville of the Southern association, has been sold to Tulsa, Okla., of the Texas league, Edgar Allen, club secretary, announced today.

Stebbins will be replaced by Neal Caldwell, who has been obtained on option from Houston of the Texas league, Allen said.

Caldwell is the fifth new player obtained by the Smokies this week. Earl Webb and Tony Kubek, outfielders, were purchased from Milwaukee of the American association. Jim Moore, outfielder, was obtained from Columbus of the American association, and Bill Beckman, right handed pitcher, from Houston of the Texas league.

FATHERREE AND TINSLEY PLACED ON FIRST TEAM

Alabama Gets Three Places And Two Auburn Stars Are Named

By Harry Grayson
(NEA Service Sports Editor)

Alabama may not share the Southeastern conference championship this fall, but that doesn't keep the Rose Bowl champion from predominating on the All-South team.

The Crimson Tide quickly got rolling again after an early season lapse that saw it tied by Howard and repelled by Mississippi State.

The three athletes who contributed most to the comeback of the Capstone club are honored by the coaches and critics who selected this year's All-South array for NEA Service from squads of both the Southeastern and Southern conferences and Dixie teams attached to neither.

The Alabama warriors placed on the first team are Riley Smith, quarterback; Paul (Bear) Bryant, end; and Jim (Whataman) Whatley.

Louisiana State and Auburn are awarded two places each. The Tigers honored are Jess Fatherree, halfback, and Gaynell Tinsley, end. Haygood Paterson, alternate captain and tackle, and Frank Gantt, guard, are the Alabama Poly luminaries designated.

The remainder of the first team is made up of Don Jackson, North Carolina halfback; Clarence (Ace) Parker, Duke fullback; Smither, Tulane guard; and Steve Sabol, North Carolina State center.

The All-South backfield has everything.

Alabama lost its best offensive back with the departure of Millard (Dixie) Howell, and Smith, a superlative blocker, has come through in great style this autumn in shouldering some of the ball carrying burden. He is the one player everybody agreed on.

Parker was adjudged the finest back on the field in Duke's climactic contest with North Carolina. A dozen of his punts averaged 44 yards from the line of scrimmage. One, booted from behind the Blue Devils' goal line, was good for 65 yards.

Fatherree's feathery feet have made him the idol of the Louisiana bayous. He accounted for the longest run in the south this fall in galloping 100 yards against Georgia on the old Statue of Liberty play.

Carl Snavely, of North Carolina, calls Jackson one of the most accomplished all-round backs he ever coached. The prize Tar Heel punts and passes in addition to being an able carrier of the mail.

Next to Smith, Tinsley came closest to being a unanimous choice. The Louisiana State star is considered by many to be the most polished end in Dixie since Gerald Dalrymple, the Tulane all-America ace of 1930 and '31. Bryant was the running mate of the spectacular Don Hutson last season.

Illness kept Whataman Whatley out of the Rose Bowl game of last Jan-

OHIO STATE TRIMS MICHIGAN, 38 TO 0

MICHIGAN STADIUM, ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Ohio State's Scarlet Tide rolled relentlessly over Michigan's hapless Wolverines, 38 to 0, today, clinching a share in the Western conference football championship before 60,000 fans.

It was the largest score by which the Buckeyes ever defeated their ancient Michigan rivals, but fell two points short of equalling the 40-0 defeat smeared on the Wolverines a week ago by Minnesota, also a claimant to the Big Ten title.

The rampant Buckeyes scored twice in the first and fourth periods, and once each in the second and third. Dick Heekin, playing his final game for the Scarlet, led the attack by attending personally to the first and last touchdowns.

William Harrison (Tippy) Dye, whose brilliant run gave Ohio its 6-0 victory over Illinois last week, repeated with a 73-yard dash for a touchdown as the first period ended.

Bettridge, Boucher and Waslik scored the other Buckeye touchdowns.

Tigers Win, 56-0, In 'Rest Game' Preceding Tilt With Tulane

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Enjoying a "rest" game before their battle with Tulane next Saturday, Louisiana State university's Tigers today trampled Southwestern Louisiana institute 56 to 0.

Louisiana State scored eight touchdowns, using almost every "stringer" on the squad, or a total of 33 men. Southwestern fought valiantly, but except for recovering a fumble never got out of their own territory.

Tinsley scored in the first period on an 18-yard pass over the goal.

In the secon, Crass ripped through from the seven yard line over the goal, and Rohm (sub for Fatherree) circled end for 15 yards and a touchdown. Bowman (sub for Reed) broke through the line for 32 yards for a fourth tally as the half ended.

Early in the third quarter, Fatherree ripped off left tackle for 34 yards and a marker, and later Mickal dived over center from the three yard line.

Walker (sub for Reed) smashed over from the two yard line, in the fourth, and Crass from the one foot margin.

NEVILLE TIGERS WILL PLAY RAMS

Annual Thanksgiving Game Will Be Staged On Bastrop Gridiron

The annual Thanksgiving day hostilities between the Tigers of Neville High school and the Bastrop High school Rams will be resumed Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock on the Bastrop gridiron.

The Tigers have been taking things easy during the past week due to an open date but they will get back into harness again tomorrow for the last time this season. The game will mark the end of the Bengals' regular schedule and the passing of another successful season.

Thus far Neville has been beaten in state competition only once and they are due to come out on top by a wide margin Thursday. While the Bengals were resting Friday the Rams fell before the Rayville Hornets, 13 to 6. The Rams have fallen before this fall and should they be able to turn back Coach Percy Brown's boys it will be the worst splattering of the dope bucket this season.

Andrew Pappas, fullback, and Urbane Kelly, end, who were injured in the game with Lafayette, have been out practically all the past week and it is still doubtful whether they will be able to go against the Rams. Pappas suffered a bad foot injury and has been hobbling around on crutches while Kelly got a bad cruise on his hip that has slowed him down considerably.

BRIGGS IS NEW DETROIT OWNER

Industrialist Becomes Sole Owner Of Club; Cochrane Promoted

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Walter O. Briggs, Detroit industrialist, today assumed the presidency of the Detroit American league baseball team, succeeding the late Frank J. Navin.

Briggs this week purchased Navin's interest to become the club's sole owner.

Briggs' decision to succeed his late partner was revealed in an announcement released at his Miami Beach winter estate, where he spent most of this afternoon conferring with officials of the team.

Mickey Cochrane, the Tigers' catcher-manager, will continue at the helm.

He also will be vice-president, in complete charge of the playing end and the purchase, trade, sale or release of players.

Charles F. Navin, nephew of Frank J. Navin, will continue as secretary and treasurer. He will also serve as business manager.

Walter O. Briggs, Jr., the club president's 24-year-old son, will become assistant secretary and assistant treasurer.

The announcement said there would be no changes in office personnel.

FIGHTER DIES AFTER TERRIFIC RING BOUT

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Ralph Mano, 22, Filipino bantamweight, who took a terrific drubbing last night from Al Romero, San Diego, died here today. Coroner Chester Gunn said an autopsy would be performed.

STANFORD BEATS CALIFORNIA, 13-0

Indians Shatter Bears' Championship Dreams Before 90,000

STANFORD STADIUM, PALO ALTO, Calif., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Stanford's mighty football men today shattered the championship dreams of the greatest University of California team in years and probably clinched the Rose Bowl bid by licking the Golden Bears 13 to 0.

The season's largest crowd in the west, 90,000 frenzied fans, saw a Stanford team reach its greatest heights behind the sterling play of Fullback Bobby Grayson, making his final stand in the bottom of this huge bowl.

Grayson engineered both touchdown drives in the first period. One was an 80-yard march that ripped to shreds a California line nine other teams had failed to break, the other a 29 yard thrust.

The great Indian fullback started that first thrill-packed march with a 25 yard run and in a one yard thrust over the goal line. He carried the ball five times during that goalward smash for a total of 35 yards, then threw two passes that clicked for 16 yards total.

"Monk" Moscrip, left end, added the extra point with a place kick.

Shortly after Stanford snatched at a "break" to push over a second touchdown, Quarterback John Meek of California fumbled the ball and Wes Muller, giant center, recovered for Stanford on the Bears' 29 yard line.

Once more Grayson was the guiding genius of the swift attack that enabled Stanford to roll up the most one-sided score over California since 1930.

OLE MISS DOWNS CENTENARY GENTS BY 6 TO 0 SCORE

Mississippians Turn Break Into Touchdown To Win Over Visitors

MUNICIPAL STADIUM, JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 23.—(AP)—The University of Mississippi turned a break into a touchdown in the second period here today to defeat the Centenary college Gentlemen of Shreveport, La., 6 to 0.

It was the first victory for the Mississippians in four encounters with the Louisiana team. A crowd estimated at 6,000 witnessed the game.

Though it was an intercepted pass on the enemy 10-yard line that gave "Ole Miss" its winning touchdown, Coach Ed Walker's Mississippians outplayed the Gentlemen for three quarters, and were narrowly repulsed from the goal-line twice in the final period. The game ended with Ole Miss in possession of the ball on the Centenary two-foot line.

The beginning of the quarter saw a stalwart Centenary line turn back Ole Miss backs on the Gent 4-yard line despite a 5-yard penalty.

Stone, Centenary halfback, helped Ole Miss to its only touchdown. In a hold on his own five-yard line, Stone faked a punt, started to run, changed his mind and heaved a short pass to one of his mates. The ball hit the receiver, bounding into the air, and Buster Poole, alert Ole Miss end, grabbed the oval and raced across the goal-line almost untouched.

Ole Miss made 9 first downs to Centenary's 4.

Clarence Hapes' punting for Ole Miss was outstanding. The Red and Blue back getting off kicks of 75 and 70 yards which kept Centenary in trouble in the second period.

Centenary's most serious threat came in the second period when a 15-yard dash by Mozoch carried the ball to the Ole Miss 27 yard line, but the attack froze there when the Ole Miss line held.

The line-ups:

Centenary	Pos.	Mississippi
Horak	LE	Poole
Baker	LT	Kinard
Hohmann	LG	Bilbo

S. M. U. TROUNCES BAYLOR, 10 TO 0

Undefeated Sky Raiders Roll Onward With Triumph Over Bears

DALLAS, Texas, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Little Bobby Wilson desperately pumped magic from his hands and nimble feet today and Southern Methodist's undefeated sky raiders rolled on with a 10-0 triumph over Baylor's stubborn Bears.

The cunning, 147-pound halfback, bottled and sealed for nearly three periods, suddenly broke away on a 66-yard punt return on the last play of the third period and the game was Southern Methodist's.

His viciously blocking mates bowled over Bruins like wooden soldiers as he sprinted and twisted to the eight-yard line where Buchanan, a hefty guard, finally hauled him down.

To the rescue came Maurice Orr, 215-pound tackle. After three line plays failed, he stepped to the 13-yard line and hoisted a field goal over the bar.

It dazed a Baylor team which had outfought the Mustangs since the start and five minutes later Wilson, the sniper, rifled an 18-yard touchdown pass to "Jackrabbit" Smith, Mustang signal caller. Again Orr's kick was true.

The badly crippled Methodists, four regulars adorning the bench when the game started, pulled their rally with only a few minutes to spare and kept their ranking along with Texas Christian, as preferred Rose Bowl candidates.

Score by periods:

S. M. U.	0	0	0	10	10

Scoring: Touchdowns, Southern Methodist, J. R. Smith; field goal (placement kick), Orr; points after touchdown, (placement) Orr.

Brown suffered a kidney injury but his condition is not serious, it was said.

Malcolm Campbell May Forego Speed Racing For Politics

By John J. Romano

Sir Malcolm Campbell is inherently shy. He shuns the spotlight when he is not driving a flame-belching automobile over the sands of Daytona Beach or the salt flats of Utah at a 300-mile clip.

With the passing years—Sir Malcolm is 50 years old—the man who drove an automobile faster than any other human, aspires to a seat in the British house of commons. During his campaign vandals broke into his office and scattered furniture and papers all over the place. The culprits were not caught. If they were it is doubtful if Sir Malcolm would appear against them. His mind would go back some 33 years when he stood in the dock and heard the magistrate pass judgment on him.

An astonished constable brought young Campbell before the judge for riding a bicycle at the then unheard of speed of 27 miles an hour. A fine of 30 shillings was assessed against the rider.

"Young man," thundered the judge, "let this be a lesson to you not to travel so fast from now on."

Wonder what the magistrate thought when the defendant's name was flashed all over the world as the first and only person to attain the unbelievable speed of 300 miles an hour!

Speed His Own Liking

Sir Malcolm does not inherit his love for record-breaking feats. He was born in London, the son of a wealthy Scot merchant. His schooling was that of a rich man's son. It was not until he was vacationing in Germany that he purchased a bicycle and went in for racing. The urge for speed was generated from that day on.

He worked for Lloyd's at a weekly salary of $5 for three years. After that he started a business of his own and then purchased a second-hand motorcycle. He entered and won a distance race. His friends called him lucky. He disproved this by winning the same race three years in a row.

From a motorcycle to an automobile was but a short step, and before long the name of Malcolm Campbell was associated with speed.

From the ground the young Scot's thoughts soared to the air. With the help of a carpenter he built his own plane. The result of six months' hard work was a total wreck when after lumbering along the ground for a hundred yards it actually rose from the ground and then tumbled in one scrambled heap.

Doesn't Want To Die In Bed

When England entered the war in '14, Campbell enlisted as a private and saw service as a motorcycle dispatch bearer. He contracted a severe case of influenza and was invalided home. When he joined up again, it was in the aviation corps. Strange though it seems, the man who was later in life to be honored with a peerage did not pull any hair-raising stunts as a "war bird," although he did reach the rank of captain before he was mustered out of service.

With plenty of money at his command, Malcolm Campbell commenced to build his own racing machines. His first car was called the "Flapper." When it was consigned to the junk heap and another built it was called the "Flapper II."

Discarding such a prosaic slang word the racing dare-devil recalled the happiness he derived in seeing Maeterlinck's play, "The Blue Bird," and from then on the cars which were to bring so much happiness and eye-lash escapes from death were called "The Blue Bird."

Nine times Sir Malcolm Campbell has doubled the speed mark he established in 1924. There was some talk that he would abandon further attempts to set new records once he traveled at a rate better than five miles a minute.

It may be that his entrance in politics, something he never bothered with in other years, is his swan song to the precarious, though thrilling avocation he adopted when he left Lloyd's as a young man with loftier ambitions than that of a mere clerk.

Those who doubt Sir Malcolm's retirement recall that he once said, "I shall never give up until I have to. I do not want to die in bed. I'd like to go in the cockpit of a racing car at the mature age of three score and ten."

INDIANS PLAY STRONG LON MORRIS TEAM TUESDAY

CENTER EXPECTS HARD FIGHT WITH E. TEXAS ELEVEN

Local Collegians To Be Outweighed First Time This Season

The undefeated Indian grid machine of Northeast Center of L. S. U., which has moved with precision through all opposition, strong and weak alike, will complete its regular schedule of the season here Tuesday afternoon against the powerful Lon Morris eleven, east Texas junior college champions. The game is scheduled to get underway at 2:30 o'clock at Brown field.

Lon Morris, in view of their successful campaign against east Texas schools, is heralded as the Redmen's strongest opponents of the year and for the first time this season the Indians will be outweighed, according to reports. Coach James L. Malone rates the Jacksonville, Texas, team higher than the Southeastern Louisiana eleven that gave them such a hard fight a week ago.

Fresh from the smashing 75 to 0 victory over Arkansas college here Friday night, the Indians came out bright and early yesterday morning before the frost was off the ground to begin the gruelling task of preparing for Lon Morris. Coach Malone ran his charges through a succession of limbering up exercises and drills and reported last night that his Tribesmen came out of the Friday game with no outstanding injuries.

The only casualty of the game Friday was suffered by Frankie Bono, Center's stellar quarterback, who received a fractured finger. Extra precautions are being taken with the injured digit and it is probable that it will be encased in a special protector so that Bono will be able to get into action again Tuesday. Henry Spillar, regular center, turned up yesterday morning with a bad gash on his arm, but the wound was not received in football. Spillers cut himself with a "safety" razor while shaving in his quarters after the game and the wound required the attention of a physician.

Northeast Center scheduled no game for Thanksgiving or the week-end and is meeting Lon Morris on Tuesday so that the members of the football squad will be able to eat Thanksgiving turkey at home with their families.

The Indians have met seven college elevens thus far, five of them four-year schools, and have chalked up a record the like of which has not been accomplished in the five years' existence of the junior college here. It is the greatest team the local school has ever had and the Indians have really earned any and all recognition handed them his season.

In the seven games played by Center the Indians have scored 174 points to their opponents 6. That lone six points was scored by Southeastern of Hammond, La., whom the Redmen stopped, 16 to 6. Other victories by the locals were over Monticello A. and M., 31 to 0; Henderson State teachers, 13 to 0; College of Marshall, 12 to 0; Arkansas State teachers, 21 to 0; Ouachita college, of Arkadelphia, Ark., 6 to 0; and Arkansas college, 75 to 0.

In view of the splendid record of Northeast Center all efforts are being made by Center officials and interested supporters to secure a post-season game for the Indians with some outstanding college team of their own class. However, if they can't get a game with some undefeated minor college team, they're willing to tackle even some of the "big boys" if given the chance.

Coach Jim Malone even has his eye on the Orange Bowl classic in Florida. The game is to be played between a couple of the outstanding minor school teams of the south and Coach Malone would be willing to accept even an invitation to participate in that skirmish.

GAMES TO DECIDE BOWL TILT TEAMS

Elevens For Sugar Bowl Grid Classic Determined This Week

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 23.—(Special)—"Who will play in the 1936 Sugar Bowl football classic?"

An answer to that perplexing question probably will be forthcoming after the "tradition games" of Thanksgiving day and the following Saturday.

It is these climaxing battles of a topsy-turvy gridiron campaign that Warren V. Miller, head of the sponsoring Mid-Winter Sports association, expects to set the picture aright and leave a clear field of selections.

"There are several games Thanksgiving day and Saturday," said Miller, "that should clarify the situation and enable us to extend invitations by December 1."

Sugar Bowl officials have under consideration those titans of the Southwest — Texas Christian and Southern Methodist—Louisiana State and Alabama, from the Southern conference, and Duke, from the Southern circuit, for their Dixie representatives.

They look to Notre Dame, Dartmouth, New York university, Holy Cross, Temple and Pittsburgh for the other contender in the second annual Sugar Bowl championship.

This week's games should end their search for talent for all of the aforementioned elevens engage in battles that rank with all the elements that go to make close games or even upsets.

The final selection of teams naturally rests with a local committee of eleven; but they will be assisted by 25 of America's leading sports writers who will file answer to a questionnaire on what teams they think should appear here in the New Year's day classic.

California And Dartmouth Tumbled From Unbeaten Ranks

TOP TIGERS

With the death of Frank G. Navin, two new figures are at the helm of the Detroit Tigers. Walter O. Briggs, above, head of the Detroit manufacturing company bearing his name, has announced that he will exercise an option on the late president's holdings, making him the sole owner of the club. Illness forces Briggs to remain at Miami Beach, leaving the active running of the business end of the organization to Charles F. Navin, below, nephew of Frank G. and secretary under the latter's long administration.

MINNESOTA WHIPS WISCONSIN, 33-7

Gophers Continue Sensational Streak In Bid For National Honors

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Minnesota uncorked the fury of its unbeaten gridiron machine today to flatten Wisconsin, 33 to 7, for a share of the Western conference title and clinch national recognition for the second consecutive year.

About 45,000 persons saw the final game of the season.

George Roscoe's brilliant work with the running of Minnesota's touchdown twins, Rudy Gmitro and Andy Uram, coupled with the plunging of Sheldon Beise, stretched to 24 games the Golden Gophers' three year record without defeat. Seventeen of those victories of one of the longest winning streaks on record were consecutive. Ohio State thrashed Michigan today to win a share of the Big Ten title.

Held to even terms by the Badger's heavier line in the first half, the Gopher attack began to function in the second, ending with Gmitro's 80-yard dash for the last touchdown five minutes before the closing gun.

Minnesota took to the air in the second period with Roscoe hitting his receivers with unerring accuracy. A 43-yard pass to Levoir put the ball on the Badger two yard stripe and Beise rammed through the line for the first touchdown. Levoir converted.

The Gophers started with the whistle at the third period, Roscoe running the kickoff back to the 45 yard line before lateralling to Uram, who skipped 55 yards down the sidelines for the second touchdown.

Then the Gophers completed another 21-yard pass, Roscoe to Levoir, who fumbled on the Badger five, where Reed recovered. Three plays later Beise smashed straight through center for a touchdown and Levoir converted.

Lovshin fumbled on his own 30 just as the period ended and on the first play of the final quarter Beise lateralled to Roscoe, who flashed across the goal for the fourth Minnesota touchdown. Ring, sub quarter, missed the extra point.

Gmitro's brilliant run through tackle for 80 yards followed. Then Tommerson, Badger halfback, started pitching passes while the Gopher lineup was filled with substitutes. Getting the ball near midfield, Tommerson tossed a 41-yard heave to Peak for a touchdown. Jordan converted.

The dog's head butterfly has an excellent likeness of a dog's head on each of its front wings. Even the eyespots are in the right place.

WAVE OF UPSETS SWEEPS ACROSS ENTIRE COUNTRY

Several Form Reversals Occur In Big Ten And Big Six Loops

By Herbert W. Barker
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

California's Golden Bears were lopped off the national championship football list yesterday as another wave of upsets struck the sport but Princeton, Minnesota, Southern Methodist and Texas Christian roared along the undefeated trail unchecked.

The day's biggest crowd, 90,000 saw Stanford's Indians ruin California's hopes of an unbeaten seaosn, a Pacific Coast conference title and berth in the Rose Bowl game New Year's Day. Striking twice in rapid succession in the first quarter, the Indians won 13-0 and clinched a share of the conference title along with California and possibly University of California at Los Angeles (U. C. L. A.) if the latter conquers Idaho next week.

Despite the handicap of a heavy snowstorm, Princeton's Tigers demonstrated their right to high national ranking by crushing Dartmouth, previously undefeated and untied, 26 to 6, before a capacity crowd of 58,000.

Minnesota, walloping Wicsonsin, 33-7, wound up its third consecutive unbeaten season with a string of 17 victories in a row and no defeats in the last 24 games. The Gophers, undisputed Big Ten champions last year, will have to share the 1935 title, however, with Ohio State whose Buckeyes climaxed an unbeaten conference campaign with an easy 38-0 rout of Michigan.

Southern Methodist and Texas Christian, the southwest powers, both hung up conference victories and will settle their personal dispute next Saturday. S. M. U. was hard-pressed to turn back Baylor, 10-0, but Christan routed Rice, the 1934 conference champions, 27-6.

Elsewhere form reversals were the rule rather than the exception. In the Big Ten, Northwestern got no better than a scoreless draw with Iowa; Jay Berwanger conducted Chicago to a 7-6 victory over Illinois and Indiana upset Purdue, 7-0. Iowa State scored a Big Six upset by taking Kansas over the jumps, 21-12, while Missouri surprised by holding Kansas State to a 7-7 deadlock.

Oregon spilled Washington 7-6 and Montana held Oregon State to a scoreless tie in the Pacific Coast conference while Colorado university, previously undefeated in the Rocky Mountain conference, was handed a 6-0 beating by Wyoming.

The eastern program followed the form charts in most cases as Yale defeated Harvard, 14-7; Columbia wallopped Brown, 18-0; Colgate won from Rutgers, 27-0; Lehigh trounced Lafayette, 48-0; and West Virginia shellacked Washington & Jefferson, 51-0, but Temple, conqueror of Marquette, fell before Villanova's charge, 21-14, and Bucknell stopped Penn State by a baseball score, 2-0. Army, getting ready for the Navy game, took Vermont in stride, 34-0.

The major intersectional contests saw Notre Dame halt Southern California, 20-13; Luquesne defeat Detroit, 13-6; Maryland win over Georgetown, 12-16, and Western Maryland take a 13-7 decision from North Dakota.

In the south, Auburn's Plainsmen shelled Georgia into defeat, 19-7; Mississippi State buffeted Sewanee, 25-0, and Georgia Tech won from Florida, 39-6, in Southwestern conference games. Duke, checking North Carolina State, 7-0, won the Southern conference crown. South Carolina surprised Washington & Lee, 2-0.

FORMER L. S. U. GRID STAR DIES

'Pat' Ryan, Who Played In 1907-08, Had Varied Career

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Warren F. "Pat" Ryan, one of the greatest halfbacks to play for Louisiana State university, died here today after a long illness. He was 45 years old.

Ryan, a member of the famous L. S. U. football teams of 1907 and '08, had experienced a wide range of activity during his lifetime as an athlete, football coach, radio announcer and advertiser.

He was an important cog on the undefeated L. S. U. team of 1908 and one of the players of '07 who climaxed a brilliant grid season by a trip to Havana, Cuba, where they defeated the University of Havana 56-0.

"Pat" coached football at Loyola university here and at one time, worked as announcer for football games. He was in the newspaper advertising business for some time.

Ryan is survived by his widow, the former Miss Corinne O'Neil, and two children, William M. Ryan and Helen Elizabeth Ryan.

Teammates of Ryan at L. S. U., including G. E. "Doc" Denton, M. H. Gandy, Ned Ficken, Ashton Peyritte, Earl Newman and Pendleton Lehde, will serve as pallbearers at the funeral tomorrow here at 1:30 p.m.

AUBURN'S VICTORY FEATURES PLAY IN S'EASTERN LEAGUE

(By Associated Press)

The Southeastern conference moved a step nearer the conclusion of a thrill-packed football season Saturday with Auburn's hard-punching Plainsmen walloping Georgia in the feature battle of the day.

Spotting the Bulldogs a seven-point lead early in the contest, the Plainsmen came back to outsmart Georgia at every turn and win, 19 to 7. A crowd of 18,000 witnessed the game at Columbus, traditional battleground of the two combatants.

Only nine of the circuit's 13 teams were in action, Alabama, Tennessee, Vanderbilt and Kentucky taking the day off and resting up for Thanksgiving battles.

Florida's Alligators were no match for the alert Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets at Atlanta, Tech winning 39 to 6. The Jackets were in command from the start.

Louisiana State university, sweeping toward a perfect season in Southeastern conference warfare, had a field day at Baton Rouge, using practically every man on the squad to defeat Southwestern Louisiana institute, an outsider, 56 to 0.

Major Ralph Sasse's Mississippi State team had an easy time of it, administering a 25 to 0 licking to Sewanee at Starkville.

Mississippi took on a non-conference foe, defeating Centenary 6 to 0 at Jackson.

Tulane also was victorious in non-conference competition, taking a 13 to 0 decision from Louisiana Normal at New Orleans.

AUBURN CRUSHES GEORGIA ELEVEN BY 19-7 SCORE

Plainsmen Overcome Early Bulldog Lead To Win Before 15,000

By Kenneth Gregory
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

MEMORIAL STADIUM, COLUMBUS, Ga., Nov. 23.—(AP)—The orange-shirted Plainsmen of Auburn, propelled by the superb play of its fast-charging line, crushed Georgia's red-shirted Bulldogs under a 19 to 7 score today before 15,000 rabid fans.

As the Auburn forward wall repelled all Georgia thrusts and forced the Bulldogs to resort to the air, with little success, the Plainsmen drove to a pair of touchdowns in the second period and added another in the third frame on straight power drives.

It was the 40th meeting of the traditional foes in their series that began in 1892 and Auburn's 17th triumph against 19 for Georgia and four scoreless ties.

Georgia took an early lead in the first period when one of John Bond's punts glazed Billy Hitchcock's arm, rolled across the goal and was recovered by Charlie Wagnon for a touchdown. Bond place kicked the extra point.

After that momentary lapse, Auburn's Tigers repulsed all Georgia running plays and time after time broke up the Bulldog aerial attack. After its first period touchdown, Georgia's only threat came early in the fourth period when long passes carried to the Plainsmen's nine, where the Tigers held.

The Tigers drove 51 yards for their first touchdown, featuring runs by Billy Hitchcock, Jimmie Fenton, and Wilton Kilgore.

Three successive first downs gave the Tigers the ball on Georgia's 13 and on third down Fenton cut through the center of the line for six yards across the goal.

Near the end of the second period Georgia was back against its goal. Bond faked a kick and attempted to pass, Kilgore intercepting the heave on the Bulldogs' 12. After losing five yards on an offside penalty, Hitchcock swept wide around end behind excellent interference to race 17 yards for a touchdown.

A short kick by substitute halfback Paul Causey that gave Auburn the ball on Georgia's 39 yard line resulted in the Tigers' last score. Hitchcock, Kilgore and Fenton, running through wide gaps opened by the orange linesmen made it first down on Georgia's 15. On fourth down, Fenton sliced off tackle 8 yards for a touchdown. Haygood Paterson place-kicked the extra point.

The lineups and summary:

Auburn	Pos.	Georgia

OUACHITA LIONS PREP FOR ANNUAL GAME WITH BEARS

Local Eleven To Meet Old Rival, Bolton High, Thanksgiving Day

Ouachita parish high school's Lions swing into the stretch of their 1935 football campaign this week as they prepare for their old foes, the Bolton high school Bears of Alexandria, in a hard battle here Thanksgiving day at 2:30 p. m.

The meeting with Bolton will be a fitting climax of the Lions' schedule as the Bruins are capable of giving the locals a hard battle. The Bears will rank right up with Shreveport and Haynesville in the kind of fight they put on and Ouachita is preparing for the worst.

A victory by the Lions would give Coach "Lefty" Haynes a remarkable record for the four years that he has been coaching high school teams. In the past three years Haynes coached at New Orleans and his teams won six games, tied two and lost but one each year.

So far this season Ouachita has won six games, tied one and lost one, and Coach Haynes is inclined to believe that the Thanksgiving battle will be a tie. Another tie game would make it four years straight that his teams have made identical records.

But the Lion eleven is being drilled to win and a victory over the Bears would be quite consoling to the locals. Bolton defeated Homer, the team that held Byrd of Shreveport to a 14 to 7 victory, last Friday, 27 to 6. Bolton and Ouachita were defeated by Byrd by scores of 21 to 6 and 31 to 0, respectively. The only other comparison is their early season 6 to 0 victories over the Tallulah Trojans, who started strong.

Illness continued to stalk through the Ouachita camp last week as the Lions experienced an open date, and kept several of the regulars out of practice, but they hope that all illness and injuries will be overcome this week so that the team will be at its full strength for the annual squabble.

Earl Cobb and F. C. Eason, end and tackle, were out of uniform all week because of illness and Jules Parks, tackle, and Rudolph Vandenberg, center, have seen little activity because of ailments, and several of the reserve squad have minor injuries. Watson Stron, reserve quarterback, has an infected hand and may not be available.

Workouts last week were light and nothing like the usual strenuous drills given by Coach Haynes. Scrimmages with the freshman-sophomore team constituted the biggest part of the week's work, but they will buckle down to the harder tasks again this week.

Following the game Thursday, a dance in honor of the Bolton team will be given by Ouachita at the Northeast Center of L. S. U. gymnasium, beginning at 8 p. m.

BULLDOGS AWAIT CRUCIAL CONTEST

Conference Distinction Hangs In Balance Of Game With Teachers

RUSTON, La., Nov. 23.—(Special)—Now that their game with the Louisiana college Wildcats has been taken care of at Pineville, the principal worry of the Louisiana Tech gridmen centers around their coming contest with the powerful Mississippi State Teachers, to be played at Ruston on Thanksgiving day afternoon.

With conference distinction hanging in the balance, the Turkey day engagement promises to be one of the most interesting clashes on the local gridiron this fall. The Teachers are leading the S. I. A. A., with four victories and no defeats to their credit. Their title wins include lickings of the following foes: Louisiana college, 12-0; Louisiana State Normal, 26-12; Memphis State Teachers, 12-0, and Southwestern Louisiana institute, 19-7.

The Hattiesburg eleven, however, has lost all three of their non-conference games this fall, having been swamped by Mississippi State, 21-0; Spring Hill, 19-0, and Troy, 14-13.

Several stars brighten the ranks of the Mississippi Teachers, according to reports received here. J. D. Stonestreet, a regular halfback, is the leading scorer of the outfit. Roy Williamson, another starting halfback, is a dangerous offensive threat. Edwin Allen is called the "silent partner" of the M. S. T. C. backfield. In three years as a varsity quarterback, Allen has not carried the ball once. He is a blocking back only, but is said to star in that phase of the game and on defense.

The Hattiesburg boys have been gameless since their meeting with Mississippi State on November 16.

Officials for the game at Ruston Thursday afternoon will include Milam (Tulane), referee; Huff (S. M. U.), umpire; Pearce (Alabama), head linesman, and Schulman (Texas), field judge.

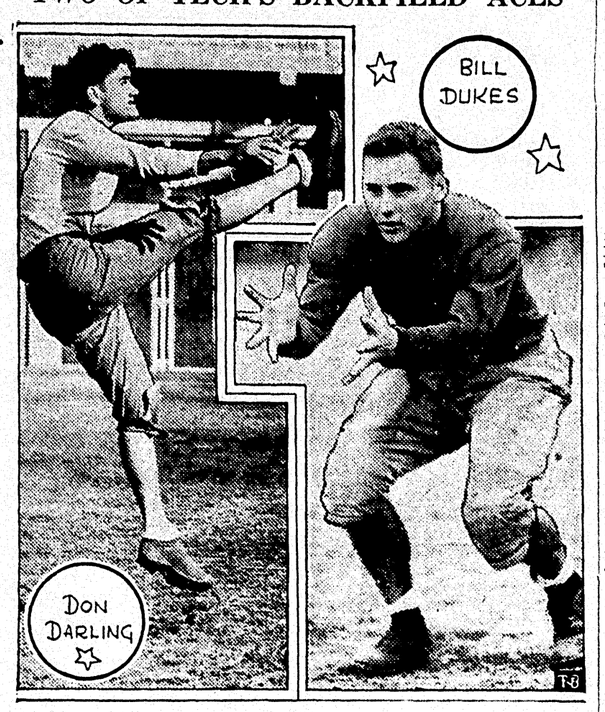
TWO OF TECH'S BACKFIELD ACES



Here are two Louisiana Tech sophomores who are expected to star in the backfield against the Mississippi State Teachers at Ruston on Thanksgiving afternoon. Don Darling is a quarterback, and Bill Dukes a halfback. The Turkey day game will be the last home game of the season for the Techmen.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Japan is the only foreign nation more interested in baseball than Mexico.

"They want a dozen American managers and coaches to come down there and develop them," says Al Schacht, the comedian who accompanied the all-American league team on a tour of the republic below the Rio Grande at the conclusion of the campaign.

"They really go for the game. Why, we had hundreds of women of 65 and more at our games every day. They've always got a band out there and they give the visitor a lot of applause when he makes a good fielding play or drives in a couple of runs. When he does that the band plays the hero number when he comes back to the bench and the people stand up and applaud.

"When it was all over they paid us off in pesos. They had coins stacked up by the bushel. I never saw so many coins even in big collections. I sent five peons out for a barrel and dropped all mine into the barrel, counting all the while.

"That was silly because I lost track. Anyway, after the barrel was filled I walked along with the peons to the nearest bank and when I left I could put all I got in exchange for my pesos in my vest pocket. What I got was seven $100 bills. Not so good and not so bad!"

Much Too Good For Mexico

American league players who made the trip were Vernon Kennedy, Ted Lyons, Earl Whitehill, and Jack Knott, pitchers; Luke Sewell and Charley Berry, catchers; Jimmy Foxx, first base; Rogers Hornsby, second base; Frank Higgins, third base; Eric McNair, shortstop; and Heinie Manush, Roger Cramer, and Ralph Kress, outfielders.

"That team would be good enough for any league, and was much too good for Mexico," asserts Schacht.

The club appeared in Mexico City on Thursdays, Saturdays and Sundays. On other days it performed in nearby towns.

"Our opponents in Mexico City were the Aztecs, a pretty fair club," relates Schacht. "The manager of the team smoked big black Puerto Rican cigars incessantly and all during the game he walked between first and third base puffing wildly.

"We played the Aztecs on a Sunday and the ball park in Mexico City has no outfield fence; it stretched from here to hellandgone. And there were we with all those left-handed pull hitters in the line-up and what they did! Gentlemen, I hate to think of it even to this day.

Right Fielder Gives Up

"Seventeen of the balls they smashed into right field in that rarified atmosphere went by the right fielder so fast that he could not lay his hands on the ball and any time that the right fielder could not lay hands on the ball he threw up his hands in resignation, and refused to chase it.

"Those 17 drives to right were home runs and we beat the Aztecs, 28-5, or something like that, and the next day we were booked at Patchuca.

"Things were different at Patchuca. A surprise awaited the gringos. The same manager who smoked the big black Puerto Rican cigars and who walked from first to third base during all the games played in Mexico City turned up. He was in charge of the game.

"Before the first inning got under way, we were told that ground rules at Patchuca were different. They had an outfield fence at Patchuca, and they told us that any ball hit over the right field fence was a one-base hit and no more.

"You wouldn't believe it but we hit 14 legitimate home runs in that game and got beat, 2-1. In the fifth inning we hit four balls in succession over the right field fence and all it got us was one run and escape from a whitewashing. Those Mexicans aren't so dumb."

And Al Schacht is a good story teller.

MANGHAM SQUAD SEEKS TITLE GAME

Undefeated Class A Team Bids For Chance At North-State Playoff

MANGHAM, La., Nov. 23.—(Special)—The Mangham Dragons, undefeated in Class A football this season, will make a strong attempt to gain recognition and a chance to enter the north Louisiana championship playoff, Principal Judd said today.

The Dragons closed their season last Friday by whipping the spectacular Tallulah Trojans, last year's Class B champions, but campaigning in Class A this season. Mangham won, 18 to 0.

Previous to the Tallulah game, Mangham had defeated Bastrop, 20 to 2; Farmerville, 56 to 0; Winnfield, 7 to 6; Winnsboro, 32 to 6, and had played tie games with Rayville and Jonesboro.

Dragon fans believe this record entitles them to consideration when the time comes to select the teams to enter the north Louisiana playoff, and Principal Judd has pressed the claim with north Louisiana athletic officials.

TULANE DEFEATS NORMAL DEMONS IN RAGGED GAME

Greenies Make Poor Showing In Earning Victory By 13-0 Score

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 23.—(AP)—A fighting band of Demons from little Louisiana Normal threw a scare into Tulane's Greenies here today by holding the much heavier and more powerful Wavemen to a 13-0 score before 10,000 fans, half of which were New Orleans school children.

Whatever plans Coach Ted Cox had for resting his regulars for the annual battle with Louisiana State next Saturday were completely upset by the Demons. The first stringers managed to shove across two touchdowns with the assistance of good breaks, but on the whole Tulane's play was exceedingly ragged.

Not only were the Wave regulars denied a rest, but possibly lost the services of a backfield mainstay, big John Andrews, fullback, who was carried from the field in the initial period with a knee injury.

The extent of Andrews' injury was not immediately determined, but it was reported likely to keep him out of the L. S. U. game.

Tulane's first touchdown followed a Louisiana Normal fumble which gave the Greenies the ball on the Demons' 25-yard line. Thames clipped off 15 around end and Loftin plunged it across in two tries. Mintz's try for the extra point was wide.

The second tally came in the fourth quarter when Page grabbed a deflected pass and scampered 35 yards for the score. Thames kicked the point from placement.

The Demons threatened but once, getting possession of the ball in the fourth quarter on Tulane's 21 as the result of a fumble by Flowers. However, they were unable to dent the Wave's line or connect with their passes and the Greenies kicked out of danger.

The lineups:

La. Normal	Pos.	Tulane
Merritt	LE	Memtsas
Wagley	LT	Moss
Escude	LG	Goll
Turner	C	Gould
Carlton	RG	Hall
Jackson	RT	Pace
J. Clayton	RE	Pressier
Baucum	QB	Page
Couch	LH	Thames
Hillborn	RH	Mintz
Moss	FB	Andrews

NEVILLE GOLF TEAM BEATS NATCHEZ, 8-4

The Neville high school golf team won their second consecutive victory over the Natchez high school foursome, defeating the Blue Boys 8 to 4 in a match over the Natchez course Friday afternoon.

Members of the Neville team which beat Natchez were Milo Mattinson, Ben Downing, Jr., Bobby Oliver and G. C. Kelly, Jr.

INDIANS PLAY STRONG LON MORRIS TEAM TUESDAY

CENTER EXPECTS HARD FIGHT WITH E. TEXAS ELEVEN

Local Collegians To Be Outweighed First Time This Season

The undefeated Indian grid machine of Northeast Center of L. S. U., which has moved with precision through all opposition, strong and weak alike, will complete its regular schedule of the season here Tuesday afternoon against the powerful Lon Morris eleven, east Texas junior college champions. The game is scheduled to get underway at 2:30 o'clock at Brown field.

Lon Morris, in view of their successful campaign against east Texas schools, is heralded as the Redmen's strongest opponents of the year and for the first time this season the Indians will be outweighed, according to reports. Coach James L. Malone rates the Jacksonville, Texas, team higher than the Southeastern Louisiana eleven that gave them such a hard fight a week ago.

Fresh from the smashing 75 to 0 victory over Arkansas college here Friday night, the Indians came out bright and early yesterday morning before the frost was off the ground to begin the gruelling task of preparing for Lon Morris. Coach Malone ran his charges through a succession of limbering up exercises and drills and reported last night that his Tribesmen came out of the Friday game with no outstanding injuries.

The only casualty of the game Friday was suffered by Frankie Bono, Center's stellar quarterback, who received a fractured finger. Extra precautions are being taken with the injured digit and it is probable that it will be encased in a special protector so that Bono will be able to get into action again Tuesday. Henry Spillar, regular center, turned up yesterday morning with a bad gash on his arm, but the wound was not received in football. Spillers cut himself with a "safety" razor while shaving in his quarters after the game and the wound required the attention of a physician.

Northeast Center scheduled no game for Thanksgiving or the week-end and is meeting Lon Morris on Tuesday so that the members of the football squad will be able to eat Thanksgiving turkey at home with their families.

The Indians have met seven college elevens thus far, five of them four-year schools, and have chalked up a record the like of which has not been accomplished in the five years existence of the junior college here. It is the greatest team the local school has ever had and the Indians have really earned any and all recognition handed them his season.

In the seven games played by Center the Indians have scored 174 points to their opponents 6. That lone six points was scored by Southeastern of Hammond, La., whom the Redmen stopped, 16 to 6. Other victories by the locals were over Monticello A. and M., 31 to 0; Henderson State teachers, 13 to 0; College of Marshall, 12 to 0; Arkansas State teachers, 21 to 0; Ouachita college, of Arkadelphia, Ark., 6 to 0; and Arkansas college, 75 to 0.

In view of the splendid record of Northeast Center all efforts are being made by Center officials and interested supporters to secure a post-season game for the Indians with some outstanding college team of their own class. However, if they can't get a game with some undefeated minor college team, they're willing to tackle even some of the "big boys" if given the chance.

Coach Jim Malone even has his eye on the Orange Bowl classic in Florida. The game is to be played between a couple of the outstanding minor school teams of the south and Coach Malone would be willing to accept even an invitation to participate in that skirmish.

GAMES TO DECIDE BOWL TILT TEAMS

Elevens For Sugar Bowl Grid Classic Determined This Week

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 23.—(Special)—"Who will play in the 1936 Sugar Bowl football classic?"

An answer to that perplexing question probably will be forthcoming after the "tradition games" of Thanksgiving day and the following Saturday.

It is these climaxing battles of a topsy-turvy gridiron campaign that Warren V. Miller, head of the sponsoring Mid-Winter Sports association, expects to set the picture aright and leave a clear field of selections.

"There are several games Thanksgiving day and Saturday," said Miller, "that should clarify the situation and enable us to extend invitations by December 1."

Sugar Bowl officials have under consideration those titans of the Southwest — Texas Christian and Southern Methodist—Louisiana State and Alabama, from the Southern conference, and Duke, from the Southern circiut, for their Dixie representative.

They look to Notre Dame, Dartmouth, New York university, Holy Cross, Temple and Pittsburgh for the other contender in the second annual Sugar Bowl championship.

This week's games should end their search for talent, for all of the aforementioned elevens engage in battles that reek with all the elements that go to make close games or even upsets.

The final selection of teams naturally rests with a local committee of eleven; but they will be assisted by 25 of America's leading sports writers who will file answer to a questionnaire on what teams they think should appear here in the New Year's day classic.

MINNESOTA WHIPS WISCONSIN, 33-7

Gophers Continue Sensational Streak In Bid For National Honors

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Minnesota uncorked the fury of its unbeaten gridiron machine today to flatten Wisconsin, 33 to 7, for a share of the Western conference title and clinch national recognition for the second consecutive year.

About 45,000 persons saw the final game of the season.

George Roscoe's brilliant work with the running of Minnesota's touchdown twins, Rudy Gmitro and Andy Uram, coupled with the plunging of Sheldon Beise, stretched to 24 games the Golden Gophers' three year record without defeat. Seventeen of those victories of one of the longest winning streaks on record were consecutive. Ohio State thrashed Michigan today to win a share of the Big Ten title.

Held to even terms by the Badger's heavier line in the first half, the Gopher attack began to function in the second, ending with Gmitro's 80-yard dash for the last touchdown five minutes before the closing gun.

Minnesota took to the air in the second period with Roscoe hitting his receivers with unerring accuracy. A 43-yard pass to Levoir put the ball on the Badger two yard stripe and Beise rammed through the line for the first touchdown. Levoir converted.

The Gophers started with the whistle at the third period, Roscoe running the kickoff back to the 45 yard line before lateralling to Uram, who skipped 55 yards down the sidelines for the second touchdown.

Then the Gophers completed another 21-yard pass, Roscoe to Levoir, who fumbled on the Badger five, where Reed recovered. Three plays later Beise smashed straight through center for a touchdown and Levoir converted.

Lovshin fumbled on his own 30 just as the period ended and on the first play of the final quarter Beise lateralled to Roscoe, who flashed across the goal for the fourth Minnesota touchdown. Ring, sub quarter, missed the extra point.

Gmitro's brilliant run through tackle for 80 yards followed. Then Tommerson, Badger halfback, started pitching passes while the Gopher lineup was filled with substitutes. Getting the ball near midfield, Tommerson tossed a 41-yard heave to Peak for a touchdown. Jordan converted.

WAVE OF UPSETS SWEEPS ACROSS ENTIRE COUNTRY

Several Form Reversals Occur In Big Ten And Big Six Loops

By Herbert W. Barker
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

California's Golden Bears were lopped off the national championship football list yesterday as another wave of upsets struck the sport but Princeton, Minnesota, Southern Methodist and Texas Christian roared along the undefeated trail unchecked.

The day's biggest crowd, 90,000 saw Stanford's Indians ruin California's hopes of an unbeaten seaosn, a Pacific Coast conference title and berth in the Rose Bowl game New Year's Day. Striking twice in rapid succession in the first quarter, the Indians won 13-0 and clinched a share of the conference title along with California and possibly University of California at Los Angeles (U. C. L. A.) if the latter conquers Idaho next week.

Despite the handicap of a heavy snowstorm, Princeton's Tigers demonstrated their right to high national ranking by crushing Dartmouth, previously undefeated and untied, 26 to 6, before a capacity crowd of 58,000.

Minnesota, walloping Wicsonsin, 33-7, wound up its third consecutive unbeaten season with a string of 17 victories in a row and no defeats in the last 24 games. The Gophers, undisputed Big Ten champions last year, will have to share the 1935 title, however, with Ohio State whose Buckeyes climaxed an unbeaten conference campaign with an easy 38-0 rout of Michigan.

Southern Methodist and Texas Christian, the southwest powers, both hung up conference victories and will settle their personal dispute next Saturday. S. M. U. was hard-pressed to turn back Baylor, 10-0, but Christan routed Rice, the 1934 conference champions, 27-6.

Elsewhere form reversals were the rule rather than the exception. In the Big Ten, Northwestern got no better than a scoreless draw with Iowa; Jay Berwanger conducted Chicago to a 7-6 victory over Illinois and Indiana upset Purdue, 7-0. Iowa State scored a Big Six upset by taking Kansas over the jumps, 21-12, while Missouri surprised by holding Kansas State to a 7-7 deadlock.

Oregon spilled Washington 7-6 and Montana held Oregon State to a scoreless tie in the Pacific Coast conference while Colorado university, previously undefeated in the Rocky Mountain conference, was handed a 6-0 beating by Wyoming.

The eastern program followed the form charts in most cases as Yale defeated Harvard, 14-7; Columbia wallopped Brown, 18-0; Colgate won from Rutgers, 27-0; Lehigh trounced Lafayette, 48-0; and West Virginia shellacked Washington & Jefferson, 51-0, but Temple, conqueror of Marquette, fell before Villanova's charge, 21-14, and Bucknell stopped Penn State by a baseball score, 2-0. Army, getting ready for the Navy game, took Vermont in stride, 34-0.

The major intersectional contests saw Notre Dame halt Southern California, 20-13; Luquesne defeat Detroit, 13-6; Maryland win over Georgetown, 12-16, and Western Maryland take a 13-7 decision from North Dakota.

In the south, Auburn's Plainsmen shelled Georgia into defeat, 19-7; Mississippi State buffeted Sewanee, 25-0, and Georgia Tech won from Florida, 39-6, in Southwestern conference games. Duke, checking North Carolina State, 7-0, won the Southern conference crown. South Carolina surprised Washington & Lee, 2-0.

FORMER L. S. U. GRID STAR DIES

'Pat' Ryan, Who Played In 1907-08, Had Varied Career

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Warren F. "Pat" Ryan, one of the greatest halfbacks to play for Louisiana State university, died here today after a long illness. He was 45 years old.

Ryan, a member of the famous L. S. U. football teams of 1907 and '08, had experienced a wide range of activity during his lifetime as an athlete, football coach, radio announcer and advertiser.

He was an important cog on the undefeated L. S. U. team of 1908 and one of the players of '07 who climaxed a brilliant grid season by a trip to Havana, Cuba, where they defeated the University of Havana 56-0.

"Pat" coached football at Loyola university here and at one time, worked as announcer for football games. He was in the newspaper advertising business for some time.

Ryan is survived by his widow, the former Miss Corinne O'Neil, and two children, William M. Ryan and Helen Elizabeth Ryan.

Teammates of Ryan at L. S. U., including G. E. "Doc" Denton, M. H. Gandy, Ned Ficken, Ashton Peyritte, Earl Newman and Pendleton Lehde, will serve as pallbearers at the funeral tomorrow here at 1:30 p.m.

AUBURN'S VICTORY FEATURES PLAY IN S'EASTERN LEAGUE

(By Associated Press)

The Southeastern conference moved a step nearer the conclusion of a thrill-packed football season Saturday with Auburn's hard-punching Plainsmen walloping Georgia in the feature battle of the day.

Spotting the Bulldogs a seven-point lead early in the contest, the Plainsmen came back to outsmart Georgia at every turn and win, 19 to 7. A crowd of 18,000 witnessed the game at Columbus, traditional battleground of the two combatants.

Only nine of the circuit's 13 teams were in action, Alabama, Tennessee, Vanderbilt and Kentucky taking the day off and resting up for Thanksgiving battles.

Florida's Alligators were no match for the alert Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets at Atlanta, Tech winning 39 to 6. The Jackets were in command from the start.

Louisiana State university, sweeping toward a perfect season in Southeastern conference warfare, had a field day at Baton Rouge, using practically every man on the squad to defeat Southwestern Louisiana institute, an outsider, 56 to 0.

Major Ralph Sasse's Mississippi State team had an easy time of it, administering a 25 to 0 licking to Sewanee at Starkville.

Mississippi took on a non-conference foe, defeating Centenary 6 to 0 at Jackson.

Tulane also was victorious in non-conference competition, taking a 13 to 0 decision from Louisiana Normal at New Orleans.

Plainsmen Overcome Early Bulldog Lead To Win Before 15,000

By Kenneth Gregory
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

MEMORIAL STADIUM, COLUMBUS, Ga., Nov. 23.—(AP)—The orange-shirted Plainsmen of Auburn, propelled by the superb play of its fast-charging line, crushed Georgia's red-shirted Bulldogs under a 19 to 7 score today before 15,000 rabid fans.

As the Auburn forward wall repelled all Georgia thrusts and forced the Bulldogs to resort to the air, with little success, the Plainsmen drove to a pair of touchdowns in the second period and added another in the third frame on straight power drives.

It was the 40th meeting of the traditional foes in their series that began in 1892 and Auburn's 17th triumph against 19 for Georgia and four scoreless ties.

Georgia took an early lead in the first period when one of John Bond's punts glazed Billy Hitchcock's arm, rolled across the goal and was recovered by Charlie Wagnon for a touchdown. Bond place kicked the extra point.

After that momentary lapse, Auburn's Tigers repulsed all Georgia running plays and time after time broke up the Bulldog aerial attack. After its first period touchdown, Georgia's only threat came early in the fourth period when long passes carried to the Plainsmen's nine, where the Tigers held.

The Tigers drove 51 yards for their first touchdown, featuring runs by Billy Hitchcock, Jimmie Fenton, and Wilton Kilgore.

Three successive first downs gave the Tigers the ball on Georgia's 13 and on third down Fenton cut through the center of the line for six yards across the goal.

Near the end of the second period Georgia was back against its goal. Bond faked a kick and attempted to pass, Kilgore intercepting the heave on the Bulldogs' 12. After losing five yards on an offside penalty, Hitchcock swept wide around end behind excellent interference to race 17 yards for a touchdown.

A short kick by substitute halfback Paul Causey that gave Auburn the ball on Georgia's 39 yard line resulted in the Tigers' last score. Hitchcock, Kilgore and Fenton, running through wide gaps opened by the orange linesmen made it first down on Georgia's 15. On fourth down, Fenton sliced off tackle 8 yards for a touchdown. Haygood Paterson place-kicked the extra point.

OUACHITA LIONS PREP FOR ANNUAL GAME WITH BEARS

Local Eleven To Meet Old Rival, Bolton High, Thanksgiving Day

Ouachita parish high school's Lions swing into the stretch of their 1935 football campaign this week as they prepare for their old foes, the Bolton high school Bears of Alexandria, in a hard battle here Thanksgiving day at 2:30 p. m.

The meeting with Bolton will be a fitting climax of the Lions' schedule as the Bruins are capable of giving the locals a hard battle. The Bears will rank right up with Shreveport and Haynesville in the kind of fight they put on and Ouachita is preparing for the worst.

A victory by the Lions would give Coach "Lefty" Haynes a remarkable record for the four years that he has been coaching high school teams. In the past three years Haynes coached at New Orleans and his teams won six games, tied two and lost but one each year.

So far this season Ouachita has won six games, tied one and lost one, and Coach Haynes is inclined to believe that the Thanksgiving battle will be a tie. Another tie game would make it four years straight that his teams have made identical records.

But the Lion eleven is being drilled to win and a victory over the Bears would be quite consoling to the locals. Bolton defeated Homer, the team that held Byrd of Shreveport to a 14 to 7 victory, last Friday, 27 to 6. Bolton and Ouachita were defeated by Byrd by scores of 21 to 6 and 31 to 0, respectively. The only other comparison is their early season 6 to 0 victories over the Tallulah Trojans, who started strong.

Illness continued to stalk through the Ouachita camp last week as the Lions experienced an open date, and kept several of the regulars out of practice, but they hope that all illness and injuries will be overcome this week so that the team will be at its full strength for the annual squabble.

Earl Cobb and F. C. Eason, end and tackle, were out of uniform all week because of illness and Jules Parks, tackle, and Rudolph Vandenberg, center, have seen little activity because of ailments, and several of the reserve squad have minor injuries. Watson Stron, reserve quarterback, has an infected hand and may not be available.

Workouts last week were light and nothing like the usual strenuous drills given by Coach Haynes. Scrimmages with the freshman-sophomore team constituted the biggest part of the week's work, but they will buckle down to the harder tasks again this week.

Following the game Thursday, a dance in honor of the Bolton team will be given by Ouachita at the Northeast Center of L. S. U. gymnasium, beginning at 8 p. m.

BULLDOGS AWAIT CRUCIAL CONTEST

Conference Distinction Hangs In Balance Of Game With Teachers

RUSTON, La., Nov. 23.—(Special)—Now that their game with the Louisiana college Wildcats has been taken care of at Pineville, the principal worry of the Louisiana Tech gridmen centers around their coming contest with the powerful Mississippi State Teachers, to be played at Ruston on Thanksgiving day afternoon.

With conference distinction hanging in the balance, the Turkey day engagement promises to be one of the most interesting clashes on the local gridiron this fall. The Teachers are leading the S. I. A. A., with four victories and no defeats to their credit. Their title wins include lickings of the following foes: Louisiana college, 12-0; Louisiana State Normal, 26-12; Memphis State Teachers, 12-0, and Southwestern Louisiana institute, 19-7.

The Hattiesburg eleven, however, has lost all three of their non-conference games this fall, having been swamped by Mississippi State, 21-0; Spring Hill, 19-0, and Troy, 14-13.

Several stars brighten the ranks of the Mississippi Teachers, according to reports received here. J. D. Stonestreet, a regular halfback, is the leading scorer of the outfit. Roy Williamson, another starting halfback, is a dangerous offensive threat. Edwin Allen is called the "silent partner" of the M. S. T. C. backfield. In three years as a varsity quarterback, Allen has not carried the ball once. He is a blocking back only, but is said to star in that phase of the game and on defense.

The Hattiesburg boys have been gameless since their meeting with Mississippi State on November 16.

Officials for the game at Ruston Thursday afternoon will include Milam (Tulane), referee; Huff (S. M. U.), umpire; Pearce (Alabama), head linesman, and Schulman (Texas), field judge.

TWO OF TECH'S BACKFIELD ACES

Here are two Louisiana Tech sophomores who are expected to star in the backfield against the Mississippi State Teachers at Ruston on Thanksgiving afternoon. Don Darling is a quarterback, and Bill Dukes a halfback. The Turkey day game will be the last home game of the season for the Techmen.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Japan is the only foreign nation more interested in baseball than Mexico.

"They want a dozen American managers and coaches to come down there and develop them," says Al Schacht, the comedian who accompanied the all-American league team on a tour of the republic below the Rio Grande at the conclusion of the campaign.

"They really go for the game. Why, we had hundreds of women of 65 and more at our games every day. They've always got a band out there and they give the visitor a lot of applause when he makes a good fielding play or drives in a couple of runs. When he does that the band plays the hero number when he comes back to the bench and the people stand up and applaud.

"When it was all over they paid us off in pesos. They had coins stacked up by the bushel. I never saw so many coins even in big collections. I sent five peons out for a barrel and dropped all mine into the barrel, counting all the while.

"That was silly because I lost track. Anyway, after the barrel was filled I walked along with the peons to the nearest bank and when I left I could put all I got in exchange for my pesos in my vest pocket. What I got was seven $100 bills. Not so good and not so bad!"

Much Too Good For Mexico

American league players who made the trip were Vernon Kennedy, Ted Lyons, Earl Whitehill, and Jack Knott, pitchers; Luke Sewell and Charley Berry, catchers; Jimmy Foxx, first base; Rogers Hornsby, second base; Frank Higgins, third base; Eric McNair, shortstop; and Heinie Manush, Roger Cramer, and Ralph Kress, outfielders.

"That team would be good enough for any league, and was much too good for Mexico," asserts Schacht.

The club appeared in Mexico City on Thursdays, Saturdays and Sundays. On other days it performed in nearby towns.

"Our opponents in Mexico City were the Aztecs, a pretty fair club," relates Schacht. "The manager of the team smoked big black Puerto Rican cigars incessantly and all during the game he walked between first and third base puffing wildly.

"We played the Aztecs on a Sunday and the ball park in Mexico City has no outfield fence; it stretched from here to hellandgone. And there were we with all those left-handed pull hitters in the line-up and what they did! Gentlemen, I hate to think of it even to this day.

Right Fielder Gives Up

"Seventeen of the balls they smashed into right field in that rarified atmosphere went by the right fielder so fast that he could not lay his hands on the ball and any time that the right fielder could not lay hands on the ball he threw up his hands in resignation, and refused to chase it.

"Those 17 drives to right were home runs and we beat the Aztecs, 28-5, or something like that, and the next day we were booked at Patchuca.

"Things were different at Patchuca. A surprise awaited the gringos. The same manager who smoked the big black Puerto Rican cigars and who walked from first to third base during all the games played in Mexico City turned up. He was in charge of the game.

"Before the first inning got under way, we were told that ground rules at Patchuca were different. They had an outfield fence at Patchuca, and they told us that any ball hit over the right field fence was a one-base hit and no more.

"You wouldn't believe it but we hit 14 legitimate home runs in that game and got beat, 2-1. In the fifth inning we hit four balls in succession over the right field fence and all it got us was one run and escape from a whitewashing. Those Mexicans aren't so dumb."

And Al Schacht is a good story teller.

MANGHAM SQUAD SEEKS TITLE GAME

Undefeated Class A Team Bids For Chance At North-State Playoff

MANGHAM, La., Nov. 23.—(Special)—The Mangham Dragons, undefeated in Class A football this season, will make a strong attempt to gain recognition and a chance to enter the north Louisiana championship playoff, Principal Judd said today.

The Dragons closed their season last Friday by whipping the spectacular Tallulah Trojans, last year's Class B champions, but campaigning in Class A this season. Mangham won, 18 to 0.

Previous to the Tallulah game, Mangham had defeated Bastrop, 20 to 2; Farmerville, 56 to 0; Winnfield, 7 to 6; Winnsboro, 32 to 6, and had played tie games with Rayville and Jonesboro.

Dragon fans believe this record entitles them to consideration when the time comes to select the teams to enter the north Louisiana playoff, and Principal Judd has pressed the claim with north Louisiana athletic officials.

TULANE DEFEATS NORMAL DEMONS IN RAGGED GAME

Greenies Make Poor Showing In Earning Victory By 13-0 Score

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 23.—(AP)—A fighting band of Demons from little Louisiana Normal threw a scare into Tulane's Greenies here today by holding the much heavier and more powerful Wavemen to a 13-0 score before 10,000 fans, half of which were New Orleans school children.

Whatever plans Coach Ted Cox had for resting his regulars for the annual battle with Louisiana State next Saturday were completely upset by the Demons. The first stringers managed to shove across two touchdowns with the assistance of good breaks, but on the whole Tulane's play was exceedingly ragged.

Not only were the Wave regulars denied a rest, but possibly lost the services of a backfield mainstay, big John Andrews, fullback, who was carried from the field in the initial period with a knee injury.

The extent of Andrews' injury was not immediately determined, but it was reported likely to keep him out of the L. S. U. game.

Tulane's first touchdown followed a Louisiana Normal fumble which gave the Greenies the ball on the Demons' 25-yard line. Thames clipped off 15 around end and Loftin plunged it across in two tries. Mintz's try for the extra point was wide.

The second tally came in the fourth quarter when Page grabbed a deflected pass and scampered 35 yards for the score. Thames kicked the point from placement.

The Demons threatened but once, getting possession of the ball in the fourth quarter on Tulane's 21 as the result of a fumble by Flowers. However, they were unable to dent the Wave's line or connect with their passes and the Greenies kicked out of danger.

The lineups:

La. Normal	Pos.	Tulane

Carlton	RG	Hall

Tulane scoring: Touchdowns, Loftin and Page; points from try after touchdown, Thames. Officials: Referee, Leonard (Marion Institute); umpire, Fox (Georgia); head linesman, Allbright (Texas); field judge, Luchsinger (Tulane).

THIRTY ROUNDS OF BOXING CARDED MONDAY NIGHT

FALLETTA-HAZUDA MAIN EVENT TOPS SHOW AT STADIUM

Raymond Blandino Signed For Six-Round Semi-Final Match

Thirty rounds of boxing, headed by a 10-round main event between Tony Falletta, 170, of Monroe, and Mickey Hazuda, 169, of Pittsburgh, will be presented at Roosevelt stadium tomorrow night in the first mitt show here in more than a year.

Besides the main event, there will be a six-round semi-final, two four-round preliminaries and a couple of three-round curtain raisers, according to an announcement by Promoter Charlie Bruscato yesterday.

Raymond Blandino, the former Shreveport amateur star who has won 25 consecutive matches since turning professional, will be one of the principals in the semi-final, Bruscato said. Blandino is well known here, having shown in the local ring a time or two when he was kingpin of the amateurs of his weight in this section.

Blandino's opponent has not been selected, Bruscato said, but two good boys are being considered. The promoter said he was attempting to get a line on the two in question to determine which would make the better opponent for the hard hitting Shreveport lad. Blandino now weighs 145 pounds.

Of more than usual interest will be one of the four-rounders between two negro huskies. Oscar Matthews, 199, of Tallulah, will meet "Bad" Baer, 190 pound Monroe negro. Matthews' measurements are said to be identical with those of Joe Louis, current heavyweight sensation. Oscar is fighting under the tutelage of J. M. Yeates, boxing coach of Tallulah high school. Folks over in Madison parish believe the big boy has a great future in the ring. He has been fighting only about a year. Bruscato believes Baer, however, will give him a real test.

In the other prelim, R. P. Mason, 175, will fight Young Piro, 176. Both are local boys. The participants in the curtain raisers have not been announced.

Judges for the card will be Dr. Joe Brown, Dr. W. L. Bendel and Dr. Neil Bule. The referee has not been selected.

Popular prices will be charged, Bruscato said.

TEXAS CHRISTIAN BEATS RICE, 27-6

Frogs Continue March Toward National Honors With Victory

FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 23.—(AP)—The unconquered horned frogs of Texas Christian university gained another furlong in the race to decide the nation's greatest gridiron team here today when they tore loose with amazing aerial and ground formations to smother Rice institute, 27 to 6.

The defeat eliminated Rice from the championship running and left the Christians with an untied and undefeated record highly colored with ten smashing victories. Next Saturday the Christians will battle the untied and undefeated Southern Methodists Mustangs of Dallas, who won their tenth victory today by spilling Baylor, 10 to 0, in the conference climax.

There was never a doubt concerning the outcome today from the time George Kline, Christian halfback, returned the opening kickoff 69 yards until Coach "Dutch" Meyer removed his first stringers and sent in reserves in the fourth period.

Buck Friedman, left halfback, made Rice's lone touchdown from the six yard line in the first period, after Bill Wallace and John McCauley had gained enough territory to make it possible.

The name of "Slinging" Sammy Baugh was on the lips of Fort Worth football fans tonight, as was that of the giant Darrell Lester. Baugh was everywhere and doing everything. He threw passes with deadly accuracy that were caught for three of his mates' four touchdowns. He punted for distance.

Lester, a 1934 All-American, carried the Christian line to lofty heights with inspired blocking.

Score by periods:

FIGHTS HAZUDA

Tony Falletta, above, hard hitting Monroe light heavyweight, will get his second crack at Mickey Hazuda, rugged Pittsburgh slugger, in the main event of a boxing show at Roosevelt stadium Monday night. Hazuda defeated Falletta several years ago but the local boy has improved of late and is expected to give Mickey a real battle tomorrow night.

MAROONS WHIP SEWANEE, 25-0

Mississippi State Has Easy Time Of It In Homecoming Game

STATE COLLEGE, Miss., Nov. 23.—(AP)—A crowd of 4,000 shivering fans saw Mississippi State college easily defeat Sewanee by a 25-0 score here today.

Playing reserves throughout, Major Sasse made no attempt to run up a score on the Tigers. His men chalked up yardage enough for several other scores, but failed in the pinches by fumbling the ball.

The Maroons pushed over two touchdowns in the first period and one each in the third and fourth, but failed in the second, when three sustained drives from far afield faded out near the goal line. Twice they fumbled away scoring opportunities, once on the one-yard line, and then had a pass intercepted to thwart another.

Sewanee's halfback, Poage, did a lot to keep the score down with sensational punts, one of which was good for 70 yards. The Tigers were never able to do anything offensively, their afternoon efforts amounting to a net gain of eight yards.

The Maroons ran up 343 yards on 63 running plays and added a bit more on passes. They ran back Sewanee for a total of 224 yards, and in every way outclassed the Tigers despite the presence of reserves on the field. First downs were 22 for the Maroons and one for the Tigers, this one coming on a holding penalty near the end of the game.

The Maroons scored on the first play run after they took the ball on Sewanee's 47 after the Tigers, failing to gain, punted short to that point. Robert Ward cut through tackle for 15 and then shot a lateral to Armstrong, who scored without being touched.

RAMBLERS TAKE TO AIR TO DOWN WESTERN ELEVEN

Irish Fight To The Last And Score Three Late Touchdowns

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 23.—They were "Fighting Irish" to the last exciting split second.

Fifty thousand spectators watched Notre Dame end its greatest season since the Rockne era today with a typical comeback that defeated Southern California 20 to 13.

Beaten 6 to 0 by their far western foes after a wild first half that produced almost everything in football, good and bad, the Ramblers rushed back with an aerial counter attack that carried them to victory. Heading the brilliant attack was the "Bard of Staten Island," William Shakespeare, who closed his collegiate gridiron career with one of his greatest games, and Wally Fromhart, who turned in his greatest.

The victory gave Notre Dame a season's record of seven triumphs, one defeat by Northwestern and one tie with the Army. It also gave them a six to four edge over the Trojans in their important intersectional series. Also, it kept Notre Dame within the ranks of the possible eastern Rose Bowl candidates despite the blemishes on its record.

Forward passes were so dominant in the game that four of the five touchdowns were produced directly or indirectly through the ozone. Notre Dame gained 118 yards to 117 yards by the Trojans via the air, but got a clear advantage by intercepting three of the enemy's passes, converting one into the final score.

A fumble by Don Elser, Notre Dame fullback, gave the Trojans their first touchdown and lead. Shortly after the opening of the game, Elser dropped the ball and Cliff Propst recovered on the Notre Dame 18. Four plays later, Davie Davis, elusive 165-pound Trojan quarterback, scored on a crack through his left guard for the necessary six yards. Shakespeare blocked Davis' placement try for the additional point.

Shakespeare started a third period rally by throwing a 38-yard pass to Fromhart, who caught it on the goal line for a touchdown, and then place-kicked the extra to take the lead by a point.

Seven minutes later, Fromhart passed 44 yards to Wayne Millner, who made a spectacular catch for the second touchdown, and Fromhart place-kicked for the point.

But as Coach Elmer Layden rushed in reserves, the Trojans shocked them with a passing attack that was capped by a 24-yard pass, Glenn Thompson to Charlie Williams, good for a touchdown. Homer Beatty place-kicked the point and they were separated by 14 to 13.

As Southern California came back again with a dazzling aerial attack, Fromhart broke up the threat by intercepting Thompson's pass and returning it 72 yards to the enemy 8, from where Shakespeare took it over on the first play from scrimmage.

DUKE TURNS BACK WOLFPACK, 7 TO 0

40-Yard Scoring Run Gives Blue Devils Southern Conference Title

RIDDICK, STADIUM, RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Duke university won the Southern conference 1935 championship and the top rung on the state football ladder today when Ace Parker, stellar Blue Devil back, raced 40 yards to score against North Carolina State college and the Dukes threw forward a stonewall defense to stop the Wolfpack twice on the five-yard line.

Parker's brilliant run in the second period and the point conversion from placement by Stumpy Gardner, who replaced San McCaskill, gave the Blue Devils victory 7 to 0, before a State homecoming crowd of 11,000.

The game was the last of the season for Duke, though State plays another, meeting Catholic university in Washington Thursday.

It was Parker's day. His running and passing featured the Duke offense and his punting was steady, though not quite up to its usual high standard. He also did some pretty defensive work.

The Duke quarterback's scoring dash came on the third play of the second quarter, just after the always-alert Jack Hennemier, Devil center, had snagged a pass heaved by Eddie Berlinski of State. Hennemier intercepted the toss on State's 45 and ran it back a little better than four yards. On first down Parker popped through his left tackle, cut forward the sidelines, sprinted like a rabbit and scored without being touched after he left the line of scrimmage.

In the last half Duke resorted principally to a defensive game, usually punting on first or second down.

Score by periods:

Duke	0	7	0	0—7
N. C. State	0	0	0	0—0

Scoring, Duke: Touchdown, Parker; point after touchdown, Gardner (sub for McCaskill) by placement.

PRINCETON DOWNS INDIANS BEFORE CROWD OF 58,000

Roaring, Shivering Throng See Tigers Win Decisive Contest

By Alan Gould
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Dartmouth's unbeaten Indians were swept off their feet in a blizzard of snow today and then blasted by a barrage of Princeton touchdowns that carried the Tigers to the top of the eastern football heap.

A roaring, shivering crowd of 58,000 saw Princeton spot Dartmouth an early touchdown, come back to cross the Green's goal line four times and win by the decisive score of 26 to 6.

With a thick blanket of snow covering the entire field and the players frequently half hidden from the view of the stands, Princeton registered its eighth successive victory of the 1935 season and clinched the eastern "Ivy league" championship with a convincing demonstration of power and ball handling skill.

Dartmouth thrilled the capacity crowd by rushing over a touchdown in the first period, aided by a blocked punt deep in Tiger territory. Before the first quarter ended, Princeton roared back to score on a 35 yard touchdown dash by Paup Pauk, and take the lead on Ken Sandbach's placement kick for the extra point.

Princeton tallied again in the second period, stood off Dartmouth's brief third period threat and then put the Indians to rout with two more touchdowns in the final quarter. Chick Kaufman, Gary Le Van and Jack White lugged the ball across the Dartmouth goal line in a succession of smashing drives.

Princeton's forwards smothered the Green running attack so completely that Dartmouth registered a net gain of only 15 yards from scrimmage. The invaders actually advanced the ball 65 yards by rushing but were also tossed for losses aggregating 50 yards.

Dartmouth's widely-heralded air attack failed to materialize.

Princeton, registering ten first downs to Dartmouth's six, rolled up 189 yards from scrimmage and successfully completed the only pass tried all afternoon.

McLane's so-called second team. Hanna thrilled the crowd time after time with beautiful returns of punts, while Turner also turned in several nice runs, particularly that 60-yard jaunt that paved the way for a touchdown. The line stopped almost every thrust of the Wildcat backs, and Tech's pass defense was functioning perfectly.

Rush was the big noise in the Wildcat backfield, and he was plenty good. However, he couldn't carry the load by himself, and with Coach Henry Walden's team weakened by the loss of a couple of good tackles, both the offense and defense suffered.

PLAY IN DETAIL

FIRST QUARTER

Tech kicked to the Wildcats and when two plays failed to gain, Louisiana college punted. Tech also was unable to gain the necessary ten for a first down and Tech kicked out of bounds on the Wildcat two. College kicked right back and the ball was killed on the Wildcat 39. After another exchange of punts, Rush got off a beautiful kick that Mitchell had to go back to take in on his 25. He reached his 30 before being downed. Rush stood on his own 20 when he made that kick. Tech kicked back and Louisiana college took it in on their 40 and returned to the 46. Three plays through the line made a first down for the Wildcats, the first of the game. The ball rested on Tech's 38. Two passes were knocked down by the Tech secondary, however, and Rush kicked out of bounds on the Bulldogs' seven-yard line. Wylie punted out from his goal line and Rush took the ball on the Louisiana college 46, cut to his right as two mates blocked out a couple of Tech tacklers, skirted down the east sidelines for 54 yards and a touchdown. McClellan kicked the extra point and the Wildcats lead, 7 to 0.

McClellan kicked to Wylie on Tech's five and he returned to the 28. Hinkie fumbled when tackled and Wood recovered for Louisiana college on Tech's 26. Two plays lost two yards but on the third attempt, Payne went around his right end for 15 yards and a first down on Tech's 13. Rush picked up two and McClellan got three around right end but a pass on the next play was incomplete and McClellan's attempt at a field goal was low. Tech then took the ball on their 20. Cotten made eight through tackle and Wylie got three at the middle for Tech's first first down. However, Tech was forced to punt and the Wildcats took the ball on their 32 as the quarter ended. Coach McLane sent in nine new players, leaving only Phillips and Hasha in the game. These two had replaced the starting ends earlier in the quarter.

SECOND QUARTER

Evans kicked to Turner who received the punt on Tech's 25 and returned to the 33. Carroll fumbled on Tech's 30 and Evans recovered for Louisiana college. Two passes were incomplete and two line plays, plus a penalty, gained but eight yards, and Tech gained possession of the ball on their own 23. Darling then punted out to the fifty where a Bulldog killed the ball. Rush quick-kicked out of bounds on Tech's 15. Darling kicked right back, a beautiful boot that rolled to Louisiana college's 30 where Rush was downed. Rush kicked to Carroll who stumbled and fell on his 23-yard line. Carroll made five and Louisiana college was penalized 15 yards for roughing. Evans was removed from the game and Hinton took his place in the Wildcat line. Carroll fumbled and lost five. A pass was incomplete and Darling then punted to the Wildcat 30 and Rush returned but three yards. Rush then punted over the goal line and Tech took the ball on their 20. Carroll picked up eight through the middle on a fake punt. Hewitt failed at the line and Darling got off another beautiful punt that rolled dead to the Wildcat 20. A line play failed and Rush quick-kicked out of bounds on Tech's 34. Carroll picked up five at tackle and then after a pass was incomplete, he went wide around his right end for 14 yards and a first down. Darling was hurt on the play and Thigpen replaced him. Turner got four at left guard and on an end-around, Hasha picked up seven around left end for another first down. McClellan intercepted Carroll's pass on the Wildcat 20 and returned to the 23 and the Bulldog drive was stopped. Two line plays failed, and Rush's kick was blocked on the next play but the Cats recovered on their 20. Rush then punted out to Tech's 45. A beautiful pass from Hinkie to Phillips was good for 30 yards, placing the ball on Louisiana college's 25. A pass from Hinkie to Gardner was incomplete. Tech was penalized five yards for too many time outs and then a pass from Hanna to Phillips gained 20 yards to the ten. Tech was penalized five but two line plays gained ten yards, to the Wildcat five. A pass from Hanna to Coody in the end zone was completed for a touchdown. Two Wildcats covered Coody but the big end leaped high into the air to bring down the heave. Hewitt's kick for extra point was low. Score: Louisiana college, 7; Louisiana Tech, 6.

Brooks made an on-side kick and College recovered as the half ended.

THIRD QUARTER

Tech's "second team" took the field at the start of the second half, while Louisiana college's starters were in there. Tech kicked to McClellan on the 20 and it was returned to the Wildcat 35. Two line plays gained five yards and Rush then punted to Hanna on the Tech 15. Hanna made a beautiful return to his 40. Hanna then came through with a 20-yard sprint around right end for a first down. He was given the ball again and slashed through left tackle for six. A pass from Hanna to Turner gained 17 yards and placed the ball on the Wildcat 13. Turner hit the middle for three and then Hewitt got a yard at right guard. Hewitt lost one yard when he was smothered and a pass fell incomplete in the end zone. The Wildcats took the ball on their 20. Two line plays gained one-yard and Rush kicked to Hanna on Tech's 40 and he returned it to the 47 after fumbling momentarily. A pass from Hanna to Phillips gained 24 yards to the Wildcat 29. Turner lost seven when he fumbled and a pass was incomplete. A forward-lateral from Hanna to Turner to Johnston gained five yards but a pass fell incomplete into the end zone and the Wildcats took the ball on their 20. Two line plays made but two yards and Rush kicked to Hanna on Tech's 32. Hanna again made a beautiful return, reaching the Wildcat 47. Turner went around right end for nine yards and Gardner sneaked through the middle for eight yards and a first down. Hanna got three at the middle but the Wildcats were penalized five for offsides. Turner made a yard at center. On a reverse, Hewitt slipped through the middle and raced 24 yards for a touchdown standing up. Hewitt's attempted placement kick was blocked by Lee. Score: Tech, 12; Louisiana college, 7.

Tech kicked to the Wildcat 16 and McClellan returned to the 30. Two line plays gained two and Traylor, who replaced Rush, punted out of bounds on Tech's 39-yard line. Hanna made two yards and then Hanna passed to Phillips for 15 yards and a first down. A pass was incomplete, Turner was smothered by Lee for a five-yard loss and Tech punted out of bounds on the Wildcat 16 as the quarter ended.

FOURTH QUARTER

McClellan lost five yards as three Bulldogs smothered him and Cameron punted poorly to his own 29 and Tech gained possession in a wild scramble. Hanna failed at left tackle but he picked up five around right end on the next play. Traylor intercepted a pass on his 20 and returned to the 31. Two cracks at the line gained and then Brooks intercepted a pass on the Wildcat 40 and returned it to the 13 before being downed. On the first play, Turner slashed through left tackle for a touchdown. Hewitt's kick was wide. Score: Tech, 18; College, 7.

Giddens kicked to Small on the Wildcat 15 and Small returned to the 25. Payne made two and then on an attempted pass Small was smothered for an 18-yard loss. Tech was penalized five yards for offsides, a pass was incomplete and then Small kicked to Hanna on the 50 and the flashy Tech back raced back to the Wildcat 22. Hewitt gained four at left guard, Tech was penalized five yards for backfield in motion and then Hanna lost 15 when Briston nailed him on an attempted pass. Hanna gained seven at left guard and then a long pass was incomplete in the end zone and the Wildcats took the ball on their 20. After two incompleted passes, Small kicked to midfield. Corley picked up the ball after a Tech back had touched it and returned to the Tech one-yard line but the referee called it back, declared it dead and gave the ball to Louisiana college on the Wildcat 49. Two Wildcat passes were incomplete, Traylor lost five and then Rush punted to the 12 and Hanna returned to 24. Turner then got loose around left end for 60 yards, a beautiful run. Hanna fumbled but recovered for no loss. Hanna then went around right end for 13 yards and a first down to the five-yard line. Hewitt hit left guard for three but Tech was penalized five for backfield in motion. Hanna then slipped around right end for ten yards and the touchdown. Hewitt kicked the extra point and the score was Tech, 25; Louisiana college, 7.

Brooks kicked to McClellan on the 20 and he returned to the 23 as a whole new team went in for Tech. After a pass was incomplete, Brooks intercepted another pass, this time on his 30 and returned to the five-yard line and the game ended before the Bulldogs could push over another score.

YALE WINS OVER HARVARD IN 54TH ANNUAL CONTEST

Larry Kelly Starts Elis Toward Triumph By Scoring On Pass

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 23.—A gallant Harvard team took its eyes off Larry Kelley for a second today and that loquacious thorn in the Crimson side started Yale to its 14-7 triumph by snagging a pass and racing 35 yards to score.

The crowd of 47,000 that braved a snow storm to witness the 54th renewal of this ancient rivalry, was thrilled by the courageous battle the underdog Crimsonites put up during the scoreless first half, and then amazed when they tied the score early in the fourth period.

The third session ended with Harvard on Yale's 48 and Fred Moseley opened the finale by completing a pass to Emile Debiel, two yards from the Elis' goal line, before going over for the first touchdown Harvard has scored on a "duck" pond-coached rival.

Harvard, which outplayed the Elis by a wide margin five-sixths of the way, managed to keep the action deadlocked during the next 14 plays, or until Jerry Roscoe contacted Tommy Curtin on its three-yard line with a 33-yard heave. An angry, snarling Crimson wall crushed Al Hessberg when he tried to plunge over but the latter, who made a belated appearance in the game, then registered the winning touchdown around his left end.

Not until Curtin place-kicked Yale's 14th point did Harvard seem to falter and its final threatening gestures were two series of passes, both attempted inside its 35-yard line, and both ruined by the now confident Yale secondaries.

uary 1. The Alabama tackle is a big fellow who made the All-South team of 1934. Paterson does everything well.

Southern guards are not too outstanding this season, but Gantt and Smither were picked as the leaders.

Hunk Anderson, the old Notre Dame lineman and coach, has tutored several all-America centers, and declares that Sabol is as good as any of them. Sabol holds the North Carolina consecutive minute playing record with 525.

As is the case in selecting any "all" team, numerous first-rate players necessarily have to be relegated to the second and third teams and even be dismissed with honorable mention.

An example of this is Rab Rodgers, of Mississippi, leading scorer of the Southeastern conference, being classed in the third string. Ike (Sweet) Pickle, of Mississippi State, gets nothing better than a berth on the second team despite the fact that he starred against Army and also went well against Alabama.

"All" teams obviously are unfair, but there is a demand for them, and coaches, critics, and sports writers must comply.

FLORIDA HANDED 39-TO-6 DEFEAT BY GEORGIA TECH

Run Of 82 Yards Features Engineers' Overwhelming Victory

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Georgia Tech defeated Florida 39 to 6 here today in a game that brought out about all the tricks in football, including an 82-yard run for touchdown.

Tech started stinging hard and fast soon after the second period opened. Hays flipped a quick pass to Konneman at their own 18-yard line and the latter raced over the goal line. Substitute Sims kicked the extra point.

Tech's steam roller thereafter shoved over the touchdowns with a varied display of passes, runs and old-fashioned line bucks.

Florida's lone score came in the second quarter when Chase passed to Christian, who ran 15 yards across the goal line.

The Yellow Jackets' second score came on the heels of the first. Lindsey's recovery of Chase's fumble started Tech's march to the shadow of Florida's goal. Then McKinley, subbing for Konneman, dived over the line for the counter. The extra point failed.

After an exchange of punts Stevens fumbled a punt and Jordan recovered for the Jackets on the Alligators' five-yard line.

Konneman bucked the ball over in quick order, but again the try for extra point failed.

Later Hays passed a quick one to McKinley, who ran 27 yards to Florida's six-yard line. Beard bucked the ball over on the second line play and Sims kicked goal.

When the third quarter rolled around, Tech was still going strong in the air. Edwards tossed to Jones and it was good for 18 yards and another touchdown. The extra point was good this time.

Right on the heels of that, Moore, a Tech substitute, passed to McKinley for 27 yards to Florida's two-yard line. Another pass, Sims to Jones, sent the ball over again, but the try for goal was no good.

THIRTY ROUNDS OF BOXING CARDED MONDAY NIGHT

FALLETTA-HAZUDA MAIN EVENT TOPS SHOW AT STADIUM

Raymond Blandino Signed For Six-Round Semi-Final Match

Thirty rounds of boxing, headed by a 10-round main event between Tony Falletta, 170, of Monroe, and Mickey Hazuda, 169, of Pittsburgh, will be presented at Roosevelt stadium tomorrow night in the first mitt show here in more than a year.

Besides the main event, there will be a six-round semi-final, two four-round preliminaries and a couple of three-round curtain raisers, according to an announcement by Promoter Charlie Bruscato yesterday.

Raymond Blandino, the former Shreveport amateur star who has won 25 consecutive matches since turning professional, will be one of the principals in the semi-final, Bruscato said. Blandino is well known here, having shown in the local ring a time or two when he was kingpin of the amateurs of his weight in this section.

Blandino's opponent has not been selected, Bruscato said, but two good boys are being considered. The promoter said he was attempting to get a line on the two in question to determine which would make the better opponent for the hard hitting Shreveport lad. Blandino now weighs 145 pounds.

Of more than usual interest will be one of the four-rounders between two negro huskies. Oscar Matthews, 199, of Tallulah, will meet "Bad" Baer, 190 pound Monroe negro. Matthews' measurements are said to be identical with those of Joe Louis, current heavyweight sensation. Oscar is fighting under the tutelage of J. M. Yeates, boxing coach of Tallulah high school. Folks over in Madison parish believe the big boy has a great future in the ring. He has been fighting only about a year. Bruscato believes Baer, however, will give him a real test.

In the other prelim, R. P. Mason, 175, will fight Young Piro, 176. Both are local boys. The participants in the curtain raisers have not been announced.

Judges for the card will be Dr. Joe Brown, Dr. W. L. Bendel and Dr. Neil Buie. The referee has not been selected.

Popular prices will be charged, Bruscato said.

TEXAS CHRISTIAN BEATS RICE, 27-6

Frogs Continue March Toward National Honors With Victory

FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 23.—(AP)—The unconquered horned frogs of Texas Christian university gained another furlong in the race to decide the nation's greatest gridiron team here today when they tore loose with amazing aerial and ground formations to smother Rice institute, 27 to 6.

The defeat eliminated Rice from the championship running and left the Christians with an untied and undefeated record highly colored with ten smashing victories. Next Saturday the Christians will battle the untied and undefeated Southern Methodists Mustangs of Dallas, who won their tenth victory today by spilling Baylor, 10 to 0, in the conference climax.

There was never a doubt concerning the outcome today from the time George Kline, Christian halfback, returned the opening kickoff 69 yards until Coach "Dutch" Meyer removed his first stringers and sent in reserves in the fourth period.

Buck Friedman, left halfback, made Rice's lone touchdown from the six yard line in the first period, after Bill Wallace and John McCauley had gained enough territory to make it possible.

The name of "Slinging" Sammy Baugh was on the lips of Fort Worth football fans tonight, as was that of the giant Darrell Lester. Baugh was everywhere and doing everything. He threw passes with deadly accuracy that were caught for three of his mates' four touchdowns. He punted for distance.

Lester, a 1934 All-American, carried the Christian line to lofty heights with inspired blocking.

Notre Dame Comes From Behind To Trim Trojans, 20-13

FIGHTS HAZUDA

Tony Falletta, above, hard hitting Monroe light heavyweight, will get his second crack at Mickey Hazuda, rugged Pittsburgh slugger, in the main event of a boxing show at Roosevelt stadium Monday night. Hazuda defeated Falletta several years ago but the local boy has improved of late and is expected to give Mickey a real battle tomorrow night.

MAROONS WHIP SEWANEE, 25-0

Mississippi State Has Easy Time Of It In Homecoming Game

STATE COLLEGE, Miss., Nov. 23.—(AP)—A crowd of 4,000 shivering fans saw Mississippi State college easily defeat Sewanee by a 25-0 score here today.

Playing reserves throughout, Major Sasse made no attempt to run up a score on the Tigers. His men chalked up yardage enough for several other scores, but failed in the pinches by fumbling the ball.

The Maroons pushed over two touchdowns in the first period and one each in the third and fourth, but failed in the second, when three sustained drives from far afield faded out near the goal line. Twice they fumbled away scoring opportunities, once on the one-yard line, and then had a pass intercepted to thwart another.

Sewanee's halfback, Poage, did a lot to keep the score down with sensational punts, one of which was good for 70 yards. The Tigers were never able to do anything offensively, their afternoon efforts amounting to a net gain of eight yards.

The Maroons ran up 343 yards on 63 running plays and added a bit more on passes. They ran back Sewanee for a total of 224 yards, and in every way outclassed the Tigers despite the presence of reserves on the field. First downs were 22 for the Maroons and one for the Tigers, this one coming on a holding penalty near the end of the game.

The Maroons scored on the first play run after they took the ball on Sewanee's 47 after the Tigers, failing to gain, punted short to that point. Robert Ward cut through tackle for 15 and then shot a lateral to Armstrong, who scored without being touched.

RAMBLERS TAKE TO AIR TO DOWN WESTERN ELEVEN

Irish Fight To The Last And Score Three Late Touchdowns

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 23.—They were "Fighting Irish" to the last exciting split second.

Fifty thousand spectators watched Notre Dame end its greatest season since the Rockne era today with a typical comeback that defeated Southern California 20 to 13.

Beaten 6 to 0 by their far western foes after a wild first half that produced almost everything in football, good and bad, the Ramblers rushed back with an aerial counter attack that carried them to victory. Heading the brilliant attack was the "Bard of Staten Island," William Shakespeare, who closed his collegiate gridiron career with one of his greatest games, and Wally Fromhart, who turned in his greatest.

The victory gave Notre Dame a season's record of seven triumphs, one defeat by Northwestern and one tie with the Army. It also gave them a six to four edge over the Trojans in their important intersectional series. Also, it kept Notre Dame within the ranks of the possible eastern Rose Bowl candidates despite the blemishes on its record.

Forward passes were so dominant in the game that four of the five touchdowns were produced directly or indirectly through the ozone. Notre Dame gained 118 yards to 117 yards by the Trojans via the air, but got a clear advantage by intercepting three of the enemy's passes, converting one into the final score.

A fumble by Don Elser, Notre Dame fullback, gave the Trojans their first touchdown and lead. Shortly after the opening of the game, Elser dropped the ball and Cliff Propst recovered on the Notre Dame 18. Four plays later, Davie Davis, elusive 165-pound Trojan quarterback, scored on a crack through his left guard for the necessary six yards. Shakespeare blocked Davis' placement try for the additional point.

Shakespeare started a third period rally by throwing a 38-yard pass to Fromhart, who caught it on the goal line for a touchdown, and then place-kicked the extra to take the lead by a point.

Seven minutes later, Fromhart passed 44 yards to Wayne Millner, who made a spectacular catch for the second touchdown, and Fromhart place-kicked for the point.

But as Coach Elmer Layden rushed in reserves, the Trojans shocked them with a passing attack that was capped by a 24-yard pass, Glenn Thompson to Charlie Williams, good for a touchdown. Homer Beatty place-kicked the point and they were separated by 14 to 13.

As Southern California came back again with a dazzling aerial attack, Fromhart broke up the threat by intercepting Thompson's pass and returning it 72 yards to the enemy 8, from where Shakespeare took it over on the first play from scrimmage.

DUKE TURNS BACK WOLFPACK, 7 TO 0

40-Yard Scoring Run Gives Blue Devils Southern Conference Title

RIDDICK STADIUM, RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Duke university won the Southern conference 1935 championship and the top rung on the state football ladder today when Ace Parker, stellar Blue Devil back, raced 40 yards to score against North Carolina State college and the Dukes threw forward a stonewall defense to stop the Wolfpack twice on the five-yard line.

Parker's brilliant run in the second period and the point conversion from placement by Stumpy Gardner, who replaced San McCaskill, gave the Blue Devils victory 7 to 0, before a State homecoming crowd of 11,000.

The game was the last of the season for Duke, though State plays another, meeting Catholic university in Washington Thursday.

It was Parker's day. His running and passing featured the Duke offense and his punting was steady, though not quite up to its usual high standard. He also did some pretty defensive work.

The Duke quarterback's scoring dash came on the third play of the second quarter, just after the always-alert Jack Hennemier, Devil center, had snagged a pass heaved by Eddie Berlinski of State. Hennemier intercepted the toss on State's 45 and ran it back a little better than four yards. On first down Parker popped through his left tackle, cut forward the sidelines, sprinted like a rabbit and scored without being touched after he left the line of scrimmage.

In the last half Duke resorted principally to a defensive game, usually punting on first or second down.

Score by periods:

Duke	0	7	0	0	—7
N. C. State	0	0	0	0	—0

Scoring, Duke: Touchdown, Parker; point after touchdown, Gardner (sub for McCaskill) by placement.

PRINCETON DOWNS INDIANS BEFORE CROWD OF 58,000

Roaring, Shivering Throng See Tigers Win Decisive Contest

By Alan Gould
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Dartmouth's unbeaten Indians were swept off their feet in a blizzard of snow today and then blasted by a barrage of Princeton touchdowns that carried the Tigers to the top of the eastern football heap.

A roaring, shivering crowd of 58,000 saw Princeton spot Dartmouth an early touchdown, come back to cross the Green's goal line four times and win by the decisive score of 26 to 6.

With a thick blanket of snow covering the entire field and the players frequently half hidden from the view of the stands, Princeton registered its eighth successive victory of the 1935 season and clinched the eastern "Ivy league" championship with a convincing demonstration of power and ball handling skill.

Dartmouth thrilled the capacity crowd by rushing over a touchdown in the first period, aided by a blocked punt deep in Tiger territory. Before the first quarter ended, Princeton roared back to score on a 35 yard touchdown dash by Paup Pauk, and take the lead on Ken Sandbach's placement kick for the extra point.

Princeton tallied again in the second period, stood off Dartmouth's brief third period threat and then put the Indians to rout with two more touchdowns in the final quarter. Chick Kaufman, Gary Le Van and Jack White lugged the ball across the Dartmouth goal line in a succession of smashing drives.

Princeton's forwards smothered the Green running attack so completely that Dartmouth registered a net gain of only 15 yards from scrimmage. The invaders actually advanced the ball 65 yards by rushing but were also tossed for losses aggregating 50 yards.

Dartmouth's widely-heralded air attack failed to materialize.

Princeton, registering ten first downs to Dartmouth's six, rolled up 189 yards from scrimmage and successfully completed the only pass tried all afternoon.

McLane's so-called second team. Hanna thrilled the crowd time after time with beautiful returns of punts, while Turner also turned in several nice runs, particularly that 60-yard jaunt that paved the way for a touchdown. The line stopped almost every thrust of the Wildcat backs, and Tech's pass defense was functioning perfectly.

Rush was the big noise in the Wildcat backfield, and he was plenty good. However, he couldn't carry the load by himself, and with Coach Henry Walden's team weakened by the loss of a couple of good tackles, both the offense and defense suffered.

PLAY IN DETAIL

FIRST QUARTER

Tech kicked to the Wildcats and when two plays failed to gain, Louisiana college punted. Tech also was unable to gain the necessary ten for a first down, and Tech kicked out of bounds on the Wildcat two. College kicked right back and the ball was killed on the Wildcat 39. After another exchange of punts, Rush got off a beautiful kick that Mitchell had to go back to take in on his 25. He reached his 30 before being downed. Rush stood on his own 20 when he made that kick. Tech kicked back and Louisiana college took it in on their 40 and returned to the 46. Three plays through the line made a first down for the Wildcats, the first of the game. The ball rested on Tech's 38. Two passes were knocked down by the Tech secondary, however, and Rush kicked out of bounds on the Bulldogs' seven-yard line. Wylie punted out from his goal line and Rush took the ball on the Louisiana college 46, cut to his right as two mates blocked out a couple of Tech tacklers, skirted down the east sidelines for 54 yards and a touchdown. McClellan kicked the extra point and the Wildcats lead, 7 to 0.

McClellan kicked to Wylie on Tech's five and he returned to the 28. Hinkie fumbled when tackled and Wood recovered for Louisiana college on Tech's 26. Two plays lost two yards but on the third attempt, Payne went around his right end for 15 yards and a first down on Tech's 13. Rush picked up two and McClellan got three around right end but a pass on the next play was incomplete and McClellan's attempt at a field goal was low. Tech then took the ball on their 20. Cotten made eight through tackle and Wylie got three at the middle for Tech's first first down. However, Tech was forced to punt and the Wildcats took the ball on their 32 as the quarter ended. Coach McLane sent in nine new players, leaving only Phillips and Hasha in the game. These two had replaced the starting ends earlier in the quarter.

SECOND QUARTER

Evans kicked to Turner who received the punt on Tech's 25 and returned to the 33. Carroll fumbled on Tech's 30 and Evans recovered for Louisiana college. Two passes were incomplete and two line plays, plus a penalty, gained but eight yards, and Tech gained possession of the ball on their own 23. Darling then punted out to the fifty where a Bulldog killed the ball. Rush quick-kicked out of bounds on Tech's 15. Darling kicked right back, a beautiful boot that rolled to Louisiana college's 30 where Rush was downed. Rush kicked to Carroll who stumbled and fell on his 23-yard line. Carroll made five and Louisiana college was penalized 15 yards for roughing. Evans was removed from the game and Hinton took his place in the Wildcat line. Carroll fumbled and lost five. A pass was incomplete and Darling then punted to the Wildcat 30 and Rush returned but three yards. Rush then punted over the goal line and Tech took the ball on their 20. Carroll picked up eight through the middle on a fake punt. Hewitt failed at the line and Darling got off another beautiful punt that rolled dead to the Wildcat 20. A line play failed and Rush quick-kicked out of bounds on Tech's 34. Carroll picked up five at tackle and then after a pass was incomplete, he went wide around his right end for 14 yards and a first down. Darling was hurt on the play and Thigpen replaced him. Turner got four at left guard and on an end-around, Hasha picked up seven around left end for another first down. McClellan intercepted Carroll's pass on the Wildcat 20 and returned to the 23 and the Bulldog drive was stopped. Two line plays failed, and Rush's kick was blocked on the next play but the Cats recovered on their 20. Rush then punted out to Tech's 45. A beautiful pass from Hinkie to Phillips was good for 30 yards, placing the ball on Louisiana college's 25. A pass from Hinkie to Gardner was incomplete. Tech was penalized five yards for too many time outs and then a pass from Hanna to Phillips gained 20 yards to the ten. Tech was penalized five but two line plays gained ten yards, to the Wildcat five. A pass from Hanna to Coody in the end zone was completed for a touchdown. Two Wildcats covered Coody but the big end leaped high into the air to bring down the heave. Hewitt's kick for extra point was low. Score: Louisiana college, 7; Louisiana Tech, 6.

Brooks made an on-side kick and College recovered as the half ended.

THIRD QUARTER

Tech's "second team" took the field at the start of the second half, while Louisiana college's starters were in there. Tech kicked to McClellan on the 20 and it was returned to the Wildcat 35. Two line plays gained five yards and Rush then punted to Hanna on the Tech 15. Hanna made a beautiful return to his 40. Hanna then came through with a 20-yard sprint around right end for a first down. He was given the ball again and slashed through left tackle for six. A pass from Hanna to Turner gained 17 yards and placed the ball on the Wildcat 13. Turner hit the middle for three and then Hewitt got a yard at right guard. Hewitt lost one yard when he was smothered and a pass fell incomplete in the end zone. The Wildcats took the ball on their 20. Two line plays gained one-yard and Rush kicked to Hanna on Tech's 40 and he returned it to the 47 after fumbling momentarily. A pass from Hanna to Phillips gained 24 yards to the Wildcat 29. Turner lost seven when he fumbled and a pass was incomplete. A forward-lateral from Hanna to Turner to Johnston gained five yards but a pass fell incomplete into the end zone and the Wildcats took the ball on their 20. Two line plays made but two yards and Rush kicked to Hanna on Tech's 32. Hanna again made a beautiful return, reaching the Wildcat 47. Turner went around right end for nine yards and Gardner sneaked through the middle for eight yards and a first down. Hanna got three at the middle but the Wildcats were penalized five for offsides. Turner made a yard at center. On a reverse, Hewitt slipped through the middle and raced 24 yards for a touchdown standing up. Hewitt's attempted placement kick was blocked by Lee. Score: Tech, 12; Louisiana college, 7.

Tech kicked to the Wildcat 16 and McClellan returned to the 30. Two line plays gained two and Traylor, who replaced Rush, punted out of bounds on Tech's 39-yard line. Hanna made two yards and then Hanna passed to Phillips for 15 yards and a first down. A pass was incomplete, Turner was smothered by Lee for a five-yard loss and Tech punted out of bounds on the Wildcat 16 as the quarter ended.

FOURTH QUARTER

McClellan lost five yards as three Bulldogs smothered him and Cameron punted poorly to his own 29 and Tech gained possession in a wild scramble. Hanna failed at left tackle but he picked up five around right end on the next play. Traylor intercepted a pass on his 20 and returned to the 31. Two cracks at the line gained and then Brooks intercepted a pass on the Wildcat 40 and returned it to the 13 before being downed. On the first play, Turner slashed through left tackle for a touchdown. Hewitt's kick was wide. Score: Tech, 18; College, 7.

Giddens kicked to Small on the Wildcat 15 and Small returned to the 25. Payne made two and then on an attempted pass Small was smothered for an 18-yard loss. Tech was penalized five yards for offsides, a pass was incomplete and then Small kicked to Hanna on the 50 and the flashy Tech back raced back to the Wildcat 22. Hewitt gained four at left guard, Tech was penalized five yards for backfield in motion and then Hanna lost 15 when Briston nailed him on an attempted pass. Hanna gained seven at left guard and then a long pass was incomplete in the end zone and the Wildcats took the ball on their 20. After two incompleted passes, Small kicked to midfield, Corley picked up the ball after a Tech back had touched it and returned to the Tech one-yard line but the referee called it back, declared it dead and gave the ball to Louisiana college on the Wildcat 49. Two Wildcat passes were incomplete, Traylor lost five and then Rush punted to the 12 and Hanna returned to 24. Turner then got loose around left end for 60 yards, a beautiful run. Hanna fumbled but recovered for no loss. Hanna then went around right end for 13 yards and a first down to the five-yard line. Hewitt hit left guard for three but Tech was penalized five for backfield in motion. Hanna then slipped around right end for ten yards and the touchdown. Hewitt kicked the extra point and the score was Tech, 25; Louisiana college, 7.

Brooks kicked to McClellan on the 20 and he returned to the 23 as a whole new team went in for Tech. After a pass was incomplete, Brooks intercepted another pass, this time on his 30 and returned to the five-yard line and the game ended before the Bulldogs could push over another score.

YALE WINS OVER HARVARD IN 54TH ANNUAL CONTEST

Larry Kelly Starts Elis Toward Triumph By Scoring On Pass

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 23.—A gallant Harvard team took its eyes off Larry Kelley for a second today and that loquacious thorn in the Crimson side started Yale to its 14-7 triumph by snagging a pass and racing 35 yards to score.

The crowd of 47,000 that braved a snow storm to witness the 54th renewal of this ancient rivalry, was thrilled by the courageous battle the underdog Crimsonites put up during the scoreless first half, and then amazed when they tied the score early in the fourth period.

The third session ended with Harvard on Yale's 48 and Fred Moseley opened the finale by completing a pass to Emile Debiel, two yards from the Elis' goal line, before going over for the first touchdown Harvard has scored on a "duck" pond-coached rival.

Harvard, which outplayed the Elis by a wide margin five-sixths of the way, managed to keep the action deadlocked during the next 14 plays, or until Jerry Roscoe contacted Tommy Curtin on its three-yard line with a 33-yard heave. An angry, snarling Crimson wall crushed Al Hessberg when he tried to plunge over but the latter, who made a belated appearance in the game, then registered the winning touchdown around his left end.

Not until Curtin place-kicked Yale's 14th point did Harvard seem to falter and its final threatening gestures were two series of passes, both attempted inside its 35-yard line, and both ruined by the now confident Yale secondaries.

uary 1. The Alabama tackle is a big fellow who made the All-South team of 1934. Paterson does everything well.

Southern guards are not too outstanding this season, but Gantt and Smither were picked as the leaders.

Hunk Anderson, the old Notre Dame lineman and coach, has tutored several all-America centers, and declares that Sabol is as good as any of them. Sabol holds the North Carolina consecutive minute playing record with 525.

As is the case in selecting any "all" team, numerous first-rate players necessarily have to be relegated to the second and third teams and even be dismissed with honorable mention.

An example of this is Rab Rodgers, of Mississippi, leading scorer of the Southeastern conference, being classed in the third string. Ike (Sweet) Pickle, of Mississippi State, gets nothing better than a berth on the second team despite the fact that he starred against Army and also went well against Alabama.

"All" teams obviously are unfair, but there is a demand for them, and coaches, critics, and sports writers must comply.

Second Team

LE—Geny, Vanderbilt.

FLORIDA HANDED 39-TO-6 DEFEAT BY GEORGIA TECH

Run Of 82 Yards Features Engineers' Overwhelming Victory

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Georgia Tech defeated Florida 39 to 6 here today in a game that brought out about all the tricks in football, including an 82-yard run for touchdown.

Tech started stinging hard and fast soon after the second period opened. Hays flipped a quick pass to Konneman at their own 18-yard line and the latter raced over the goal line. Substitute Sims kicked the extra point.

Tech's steam roller thereafter shoved over the touchdowns with a varied display of passes, runs and old-fashioned line bucks.

Florida's lone score came in the second quarter when Chase passed to Christian, who ran 15 yards across the goal line.

The Yellow Jackets' second score came on the heels of the first. Lindsey's recovery of Chase's fumble started Tech's march to the shadow of Florida's goal. Then McKinley, subbing for Konneman, dived over the line for the counter. The extra point failed.

After an exchange of punts Stevens fumbled a punt and Jordan recovered for the Jackets on the Alligators' five-yard line.

Konneman bucked the ball over in quick order, but again the try for extra point failed.

Later Hays passed a quick one to McKinley, who ran 27 yards to Florida's six-yard line. Beard bucked the ball over on the second line play and Sims kicked goal.

When the third quarter rolled around, Tech was still going strong in the air. Edwards tossed to Jones and it was good for 18 yards and another touchdown. The extra point was good this time.

Right on the heels of that, Moore, a Tech substitute, passed to McKinley for 27 yards to Florida's two-yard line. Another pass, Sims to Jones, sent the ball over again, but the try for goal was no good.

MOVE IS MADE TO SPEED UP RELIEF

Indications Are That Federal Dole Will Continue Beyond Dec. 1

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—(AP)—A new move to speed work relief employment coincided today with statistical indications the federal dole will continue beyond December 1.

An order reminiscent of old civil works administration methods went to state works progress directors. It authorized use of skilled labor on miscellaneous projects and represented at least a temporary departure from the "work according to skill" rule.

Officials said the order was designed to accelerate employment and that skilled workmen will be put at other tasks—and given correspondingly higher pay—as soon as suitable projects can be started.

But some observers interpreted the change as a reversion to CWA practices where a violinist might be given work digging ditches. It was to avoid this that Harry L. Hopkins directed shifting of the $4,000,000,000 program on a "tailor made" basis to fit the wide variety of occupations represented on relief rolls.

Despite renewed assertions that December 1 was the definite end of the federal dole, signs pointed to continuance of direct relief beyond that date for most of the 1,132,758 estimated eligible for work relief employment who had not been given jobs on November 16.

Whether 566,379 jobs a week can be created so as to attain the 3,500,000 objective on the schedule was a matter of speculation, but in any case additional allotments apparently must be made for those newly employed until they actually get paid.

From two to four weeks are required for the complicated process of compiling the payrolls from which individual checks are drawn at state headquarters of the treasury disbursing system. Checks for WPA—which now employs 1,624,112 and will supply most of the additional jobs required—are issued only twice a month.

At the time November 1 was scheduled as the deadline for having the entire 3,500,000 needy at work, high officials said these payroll difficulties would make direct relief grants necessary until November 15. The situation was said to be the same now.

Twenty-six states to date have been told they have received their "final" allotments, but what these were was not announced. Some observers considered is likely that in cutting the remaining states off the dole Hopkins would include extra sums for support of those on relief whose jobs were delayed.

ASTROLOGER'S AIDE DIES OF POISONING IN CITY OF ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Elsie Leona Simson, 23, of Buffalo, N. Y., an astrologer's assistant, died tonight from the effects of poison her employer, Mrs. Margaret McConnell, said she had taken in a fit of depression over her failure to receive a letter she was expecting from her father.

Miss Simson, a graduate of the University of Buffalo and a former school teacher, died before an ambulance arrived.

Mrs. McConnell told investigating officers that the girl had received a telegram from her father Clyde Simson, Sr., last Wednesday telling her to return to Buffalo if she wanted to. The letter she was expecting, Mrs. McConnell said, was to bring her train fare.

Mrs. McConnell said she and Elsie had visited a church to pray earlier in the night. The girl was confident, the astrologer said, that she would find the letter when they reached their apartment. A letter was in the box but it was not for Miss Simson.

Mrs. McConnell said she and her son started to read the letter together and Miss Simpson left the room. A short time later they heard her moaning in the bathroom.

In 1929, Edwin Dickinson's painting, "The Fossil Hunters," was awarded $500 second prize at the National Academy, New York City, although it has been hung wrong side up.

Approximately one-fourth of the moving picture films shown in British theaters are now of British origin, apart from news and travel films.

MILNER-FULLER SHOWS 1936 FORD

New Models Feature New Beauty Lines, Center-Poise And Roomy Bodies

New lines of beauty distinguish the Ford V-8 for 1936, lines that accentuate length and give the car new grace in motion. A longer hood is brought forward over the new radiator grille. Newly designed fenders and wheels contribute further to the imposing appearance.

Ten body models of the new 1936 Ford are shown, Milner-Fuller, Inc., at Walnut and Washington streets is the local dealer.

Center-poise riding is one of the greatest improvements in motor car comfort in recent years, especially in the back seat. The weight of the car is evenly distributed and all passengers ride near the center, cradled between the springs. Ford springs are soft and flexible with an unusually long spring base.

Unusual body room is made possible by the short, compact Ford V-8 engine which takes up less space under the hood and permits more of the car's length to be used for passengers. It has fine car roominess to match fine car performance.

The safety brakes give effective action, combined with unusual reliability under all conditions. This same type of mechanical brake has been used for years on America's finest cars.

The steering gear ratio has been increased to 17 to 1, making easier steering. Steering gear sector shaft is mounted on roller bearings, and a longer steering arm on the axle gives greater leverage.

The Ford V-8 requires no breaking-in. It can be driven 60 miles per hour the first day, and after 100 miles it can be driven as fast as it desired. This is the result of unusual accuracy in the manufacture of moving parts and the smoothness of bearing surfaces.

Rich colors add beauty and style to the 1936 Fords. The finish is a durable baked enomel and De Luxe cars are in Cordoba tan, Washington blue, black, gunmetal, gray and vineyard green.

De Luxe equipment on the new models includes chromium plated radiator grille, two matched tone horns, two tail lights, and chromium plated windshield frame. Steering wheel and gear shift ball are gray finished to harmonize with upholstery. Seat cushions in cabriolet and convertible sedans are of genuine leather and bedford cord.

GERMAN SECRET POLICE HOLD CATHOLIC PRELATE

BERLIN, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Private sources reported that Nazi secret police raided the administrative offices of the palace of Berlin's Catholic bishop today and took Prelate Banasch into "protective custody."

Numerous documents were understood to have been seized. Secret police and the propaganda ministry declined comment.

BANKERS ELECT

An outspoken enemy of the New Deal, Orval W. Adams of Salt Lake City, above, automatically will become president of the American Bankers' association in 1937. He was elected second vice president at the bankers' convention in New Orleans, after stirring a bitter debate by advocating a boycott on federal bonds.

MISS ILO BOYD GIVEN AWARD FOR ART POSTER

Miss Ilo Jane Boyd, 104 Montgomery street, West Monroe, was awarded a prize offered for the best poster on Christian education. The prize, $12 cash, was given yesterday by the Methodist church conference in New Orleans, according to word received here.

Miss Boyd, when told of her good fortune, expressed surprise and pleasure. She graduated at the Ouachita parish high school last year and has pursued art studies with a private instructor, who said that she had shown much ability. One of her paintings has been on exhibition in a store on DeSiard street recently.

The poster that was awarded the prize showed the world and six books, the latter representing committees of the church. The idea was portrayed that the latter would be equal to cope with the conditions that the world today presents.

Miss Boyd is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Boyd.

KEEN EYE OF EAGLE CAUSES ITS DEATH

NATCHEZ, Miss., Nov. 23.—(AP)—The proverbial keen eye of an eagle cost one its life today.

Sighting some decoy ducks placed by Levon Smith near his hunting pit on a sand bar in the Mississippi river, the eagle swooped down for his prey. It brought him into range of Smith's gun.

The eagle, measuring seven and a half feet from wing tip to wing tip, will hang in Smith's service station.

Spaniards brought the grapefruit to Florida in the 16th century.

MOVE IS MADE TO SPEED UP RELIEF

Indications Are That Federal Dole Will Continue Beyond Dec. 1

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—(AP)—A new move to speed work relief employment coincided today with statistical indications the federal dole will continue beyond December 1.

An order reminiscent of old civil works administration methods went to state works progress directors. It authorized use of skilled labor on miscellaneous projects and represented at least a temporary departure from the "work according to skill" rule.

Officials said the order was designed to accelerate employment and that skilled workmen will be put at other tasks—and given correspondingly higher pay—as soon as suitable projects can be started.

But some observers interpreted the change as a reversion to CWA practices where a violinist might be given work digging ditches. It was to avoid this that Harry L. Hopkins directed shifting of the $4,000,000,000 program on a "tailor made" basis to fit the wide variety of occupations represented on relief rolls.

Despite renewed assertions that December 1 was the definite end of the federal dole, signs pointed to continuance of direct relief beyond that date for most of the 1,132,758 estimated eligible for work relief employment who had not been given jobs on November 16.

Whether 566,379 jobs a week can be created so as to attain the 3,500,000 objective on the schedule was a matter of speculation, but in any case additional allotments apparently must be made for those newly employed until they actually get paid.

From two to four weeks are required for the complicated process of compiling the payrolls from which individual checks are drawn at state headquarters of the treasury disbursing system. Checks for WPA—which now employs 1,624,112 and will supply most of the additional jobs required—are issued only twice a month.

At the time November 1 was scheduled as the deadline for having the entire 3,500,000 needy at work, high officials said these payroll difficulties would make direct relief grants necessary until November 15. The situation was said to be the same now.

Twenty-six states to date have been told they have received their "final" allotments, but what these were was not announced. Some observers considered is likely that in cutting the remaining states off the dole Hopkins would include extra sums for support of those on relief whose jobs were delayed.

E. N. Johnson has operated a barber shop in Monroe for the past eleven years and has many friends who are pleased with his work. Only experienced operators are associated with Mr. Johnson and they have been with him for more than a year. All are well acquainted with many people of Monroe and wish to extend their acquaintance. ASTROLOGER'S AIDE DIES OF POISONING IN CITY OF ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Elsie Leona Simson, 23, of Buffalo, N. Y., an astrologer's assistant, died tonight from the effects of poison her employer, Mrs. Margaret McConnell, said she had taken in a fit of depression over her failure to receive a letter she was expecting from her father.

Miss Simson, a graduate of the University of Buffalo and a former school teacher, died before an ambulance arrived.

Mrs. McConnell told investigating officers that the girl had received a telegram from her father Clyde Simson, Sr., last Wednesday telling her to return to Buffalo if she wanted to. The letter she was expecting, Mrs. McConnell said, was to bring her train fare.

Mrs. McConnell said she and Elsie had visited a church to pray earlier in the night. The girl was confident, the astrologer said, that she would find the letter when they reached their apartment. A letter was in the box but it was not for Miss Simson.

Mrs. McConnell said she and her son started to read the letter together and Miss Simpson left the room. A short time later they heard her moaning in the bathroom.

In 1929, Edwin Dickinson's painting, "The Fossil Hunters," was awarded $500 second prize at the National Academy, New York City, although it has been hung wrong side up.

Approximately one-fourth of the moving picture films shown in British theaters are now of British origin, apart from news and travel films.

MILNER-FULLER SHOWS 1936 FORD

New Models Feature New Beauty Lines, Center-Poise And Roomy Bodies

New lines of beauty distinguish the Ford V-8 for 1936, lines that accentuate length and give the car new grace in motion. A longer hood is brought forward over the new radiator grille. Newly designed fenders and wheels contribute further to the imposing appearance.

Ten body models of the new 1936 Ford are shown. Milner-Fuller, Inc., at Walnut and Washington streets is the local dealer.

Center-poise riding is one of the greatest improvements in motor car comfort in recent years, especially in the back seat. The weight of the car is evenly distributed and all passengers ride near the center, cradled between the springs. Ford springs are soft and flexible with an unusually long spring base.

Unusual body room is made possible by the short, compact Ford V-8 engine which takes up less space under the hood and permits more of the car's length to be used for passengers. It has fine car roominess to match fine car performance.

The safety brakes give effective action, combined with unusual reliability under all conditions. This same type of mechanical brake has been used for years on America's finest cars.

The steering gear ratio has been increased to 17 to 1, making easier steering. Steering gear sector shaft is mounted on roller bearings, and a longer steering arm on the axle gives greater leverage.

The Ford V-8 requires no breaking-in. It can be driven 60 miles per hour the first day, and after 100 miles it can be driven as fast as it desired. This is the result of unusual accuracy in the manufacture of moving parts and the smoothness of bearing surfaces.

Rich colors add beauty and style to the 1936 Fords. The finish is a durable baked enomel and De Luxe cars are in Cordoba tan, Washington blue, black, gunmetal, gray and vineyard green.

De Luxe equipment on the new models includes chromium plated radiator grille, two matched tone horns, two tail lights, and chromium plated windshield frame. Steering wheel and gear shift ball are gray finished to harmonize with upholstery. Seat cushions in cabriolet and convertible sedans are of genuine leather and bedford cord.

GERMAN SECRET POLICE HOLD CATHOLIC PRELATE

BERLIN, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Private sources reported that Nazi secret police raided the administrative offices of the palace of Berlin's Catholic bishop today and took Prelate Banasch into "protective custody."

Numerous documents were understood to have been seized. Secret police and the propaganda ministry declined comment.

BANKERS ELECT

An outspoken enemy of the New Deal, Orval W. Adams of Salt Lake City, above, automatically will become president of the American Bankers' association in 1937. He was elected second vice president at the bankers' convention in New Orleans, after stirring a bitter debate by advocating a boycott on federal bonds.

MISS ILO BOYD GIVEN AWARD FOR ART POSTER

Miss Ilo Jane Boyd, 104 Montgomery street, West Monroe, was awarded a prize offered for the best poster on Christian education. The prize, $12 cash, was given yesterday by the Methodist church conference in New Orleans, according to word received here.

Miss Boyd, when told of her good fortune, expressed surprise and pleasure. She graduated at the Ouachita parish high school last year and has pursued art studies with a private instructor, who said that she had shown much ability. One of her paintings has been on exhibition in a store on DeSiard street recently.

The poster that was awarded the prize showed the world and six books, the latter representing committees of the church. The idea was portrayed that the latter would be equal to cope with the conditions that the world today presents.

Miss Boyd is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Boyd.

KEEN EYE OF EAGLE CAUSES ITS DEATH

NATCHEZ, Miss., Nov. 23.—(AP)—The proverbial keen eye of an eagle cost one its life today.

Sighting some decoy ducks placed by Levon Smith near his hunting pit on a sand bar in the Mississippi river, the eagle swooped down for his prey. It brought him into range of Smith's gun.

The eagle, measuring seven and a half feet from wing tip to wing tip, will hang in Smith's service station.

Spaniards brought the grapefruit to Florida in the 16th century.

Cotton

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Irregular price movements prevailed in trading on the cotton market as positions easing a couple of points and the more distant options ranged from 3 to 6 points.

The December position was under pressure for the entire two hours of trading and closed at 11.84, three points lower.

The action of the July option was typical of the latter months as it opened at 11.38 and then showed a net gain of 6 points to close at 11.46.

Pre-notice day liquidation featured dealings in December while speculative and trade buying, based on an unfavorable weather report dominated the distant positions.

With Monday being first notice day in December and a sizeable short interest still said to be present in this position, the trade was eagrly awaiting Monday's price trend.

December has dropped approximately 26 points from its high this week and the trade considered this factor might present a short squeeze in the position.

There was little hedge selling today.

Exports today were 44,757 bales.

Cotton futures closed steady, three points lower to six points higher.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Cotton was only moderately active today with irregular fluctuations attributed largely to technical readjustment and evening up for over the week-end.

New York Stocks

By Victor Eubank
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—The stock market staged a vigorous rally today in the wake of Washington news that brought a rush of buyers in all sections of the list.

Gains of 1 to 5 points were recorded, with the ticker tape dropping behind floor transactions in the first hour and again in the last few minutes. The close was strong. Transfers approximated 1,850,000 shares.

The principal aid for yesterday's tottering list was seen in the overnight statement of Chairman Eccles of the federal reserve board that it was not possible to interfere, officially, even if it was desired, with the rise in stocks because the advance has not been based on the use of credit.

Attention was centered on the Eccles expression that he thought "there is an element of safety and of strength in the fact that security purchases are being financed out of cash without increased use of bank credit."

Higher prices ruled at the start. The volume dwindled later, then the buying demand became brisk just before the close. Specialties gave the best performance.

Among the conspicuous advances were those of Evans Products, American Telephone, Bethlehem, Auburn, Western Union, Case, Westinghouse, American Can, Johns-Manville, Sears Roebuck, Southern Railway, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, U. S. Smelting and Kennecott. There was a run on Studebaker for a gain of about a point. Other low-priced issues experienced a heavy turnover.

A number of new highs for the past four years were recorded.

Grains did little and cotton was somewhat irregular. Bonds were steady. Foreign gold currencies, including the French franc, displayed an improved tone.

Cotton

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Irregular price movements prevailed today in trading on the cotton market with positions easing a couple of points and the more distant options gaining from 3 to 6 points.

The December position was under pressure for the entire two hours of trading and closed at 11.84, three points lower.

The action of the July option was typical of the latter months as it opened at 11.38 and then showed a net gain of 6 points to close at 11.46.

Pre-notice day liquidation featured dealings in December while speculative and trade buying, based on an unfavorable weather report dominated the distant positions.

With Monday being first notice day in December and a sizeable short interest still said to be present in this position, the trade was eagrly awaiting Monday's price trend.

December has dropped approximately 26 points from its high this week and the trade considered this factor might present a short squeeze in the position.

There was little hedge selling today.

Exports today were 44,757 bales.

Cotton futures closed steady, three points lower to six points higher.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Cotton was only moderately active today with irregular fluctuations attributed largely to technical readjustment and evening up for over the week-end.

New York Stocks

By Victor Eubank
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—The stock market staged a vigorous rally today in the wake of Washington news that brought a rush of buyers in all sections of the list.

Gains of 1 to 5 points were recorded, with the ticker tape dropping behind floor transactions in the first hour and again in the last few minutes. The close was strong. Transfers approximated 1,850,000 shares.

The principal aid for yesterday's tottering list was seen in the overnight statement of Chairman Eccles of the federal reserve board that it was not possible to interfere, officially, even if it was desired, with the rise in stocks because the advance has not been based on the use of credit.

Attention was centered on the Eccles expression that he thought "there is an element of safety and of strength in the fact that security purchases are being financed out of cash without increased use of bank credit."

Higher prices ruled at the start. The volume dwindled later, then the buying demand became brisk just before the close. Specialties gave the best performance.

Among the conspicuous advances were those of Evans Products, American Telephone, Bethlehem, Auburn, Western Union, Case, Westinghouse, American Can, Johns-Manville, Sears Roebuck, Southern Railway, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, U. S. Smelting and Kennecott. There was a run on Studebaker for a gain of about a point, Other low-priced issues experienced a heavy turnover.

A number of new highs for the past four years were recorded.

Grains did little and cotton was somewhat irregular. Bonds were steady. Foreign gold currencies, including the French franc, displayed an improved tone.

SCHOOL TO GET KIWANIS AWARD

Cup To Be Given To Institution Having Smallest Number Of Accidents

An award for the best record in accident prevention maintained by the various grammar schools in Monroe during the term ending next May, will be made by the boys and girls' work committee of the Monroe Kiwanis club, it was announced Saturday by officers of the club.

The award will be in the form of a silver cup or some other suitable testimonial, it was stated, and will be given to the school which has the smallest number of preventable accidents to pupils during the school term. Only those schools which maintain a corps of junior police will participate in the contest, which is being arranged in cooperation with Traffic Officer R. J. Goza, organizer of the junior police force.

Junior police troops are officiating at Georgia Tucker, Sherrouse, Central Grammar, Barkdull Faulk, Lida Benton city schools and the Parish Grammar school. Squads are formed from boy students having the highest grades in their classes and are changed every six weeks, so as to give as large a number of students as possible an opportunity to serve and to become proficient in the principles of accident prevention.

The junior force acts in conjunction with the regular police officers assigned to the schools to assist children to board and alight from street cars, directs movements of pupils across the streets as they come to and leave the school buildings, and has supervision over the children on the playgrounds to prevent damage to trees and property.

It is to encourage these activities and to stimulate interest in the safety program that the Kiwanis group has made its offer of an award for the best record of the school year. The award will probably be made at the graduation exercises next May.

PROGRESS MADE ON PAVING WORK

Louisville Avenue Project Is Proceeding With Rapidity

Paving on the Louisville avenue extension will be started Monday at the Sterlington road intersection and will progress toward the west, it was stated Saturday. The work of paving has been entirely completed to the tracks of the old Little Rock and Monroe branch of the Missouri Pacific railroad.

JUNIOR LEAGUERS RAISE FUNDS IN ROLL CALL DRIVE

Leaders in the annual Red Cross drive in Ouachita parish stated yesterday that reports as to progress in the house-to-house canvass on both sides of the river, the group enrollment and the special gift section will not be ready until some time next week.

No new 100 percenters were reported yesterday. The number of local firms whose employes have all enrolled totaled 27, but Rev. Ernest Holloway, in charge of this work, stated that he expected others would be in the 100 per cent column next week.

The sum of $96.75 was raised by members of the Junior Charity league Saturday in the Red Cross roll call campaign. The young women were stationed at the Frances and Virginia hotels, the postoffice and the Ouachita National bank and the Central Savings Bank and Trust company.

Mrs. W. C. Holstein, executive secretary of the Ouachita parish chapter of the Red Cross, announces that there will be a special meeting of the Junior Red Cross held at 4 p. m. Wednesday in the Red Cross offices on South Grand street.

She states that it will be necessary that all members be present.

The roll call comes to an end on Wednesday night and leaders hope to be able to achieve their $10,000 quota, they say.

'Gly-Cas Saved Her Many Hundreds Of Dollars,' She Says

Neuritis Pains Have Entirely Gone, Stomach And Kidneys Regulated, Eats And Sleeps Good, Nerves Quieted; Like A New Person Since She Began Gly-Cas.

"I am thankful for having the opportunity of taking a medicine like Gly-Cas for it has saved me many hundreds of dollars and many a painful, miserable day of suffering," said Mrs. W. L. Crumbley, respected local lady who lives five miles west on Highway No. 80 from West Monroe.

MRS. W. L. CRUMBLEY

recently in a statement reaching Phoenix Drug Co., 348 DeSiard street, this city:

"Years of continual constipation had allowed my system to become clogged with poisons," continued Mrs. Crumbley, "until finally complications were constantly giving me trouble. I would suffer with indigestion after eating most any food. What I did eat would sour on my stomach, burned badly. My kidneys were affected too, would not function properly and I was disturbed from my rest and sleep often during the night. I was terribly nervous, worn-out continually and had no energy to do my housework or anything else. Then neuritis developed over my system and right then is when I began suffering all kinds of misery. The sharp stabbing pains were unbearable at times. I became so discouraged with my condition as seemingly everything had failed in my case and I did not know where to turn next. I had about lost confidence in all medicines in general when some of my most intimate friends had received such remarkable results from this new Gly-Cas medicine that they persuaded me to give it a trial on my own case—and I too found it wonderful."

"Within a few days after I began this new remedy I realized I had found the one medicine I had been searching many years for," continued Mrs. Crumbley, "My constipation of years was soon easily remedied and it was not long until I began to eat foods I had been denied for years and without any distress afterwards. Even my kidneys are now functioning properly, pains in the small of my back have disappeared. I am now never troubled with that dreadful neuritis or suffer from those severe headaches. I get perfect sleep each night, my former pep and energy has been completely restored and I enjoy doing my housework again. It is wonderful to feel so good again and it is more wonderful that a single medicine could do all of this for me after medicine after medicine had flatly failed to have any effect on my stubborn case of many years standing. Gly-Cas is one medicine that gives desired results."

Gly-Cas is sold by Phoenix Drug Co., 348 DeSiard street, Monroe, and by all leading druggists in surrounding towns.

I became so discouraged with my condition as seemingly everything had failed in my case and I did not know where to turn next. I had about lost confidence in all medicines in general when some of my most intimate friends had received such remarkable results from this new Gly-Cas medicine that they persuaded me to give it a trial on my own case—and I too found it wonderful."

"Within a few days after I began this new remedy I realized I had found the one medicine I had been searching many years for," continued Mrs. Crumbley, "My constipation of years was soon easily remedied and it was not long until I began to eat foods I had been denied for years and without any distress afterwards. Even my kidneys are now functioning properly, pains in the small of my back have disappeared. I am now never troubled with that dreadful neuritis or suffer from those severe headaches. I get perfect sleep each night, my former pep and energy has been completely restored and I enjoy doing my housework again. It is wonderful to feel so good again and it is more wonderful that a single medicine could do all of this for me after medicine after medicine had flatly failed to have any effect on my stubborn case of many years standing. Gly-Cas is one medicine that gives desired results."

Gly-Cas is sold by Phoenix Drug Co., 348 DeSiard street, Monroe, and by all leading druggists in surrounding towns.

Monroe Families Will Be Reunited On Thanksgiving Day

Charitable Causes Are Aided By Local Women

Christmas Shopping Will Start In Earnest Shortly; Early Purchasing Advocated By Stores Here

By Eve Bradford

The pendulum in its immemorial swing brings us safely through another year. Dynasties may fall, industrial orders may totter, new deals may give way, but the old-fashioned Thanksgiving is still with us. The season that we love so well is here again. It calls back the children, like homing pigeons, to the family fireside. Those bands that unite kindred hearts are drawn closer and the home circle, warmed by the spirit of the day, expands to share its peace with old friends and new who lack convenient family circles of their own. Eat, drink and be merry, there's so much for which to be thankful for this year.

This is no time for women to be idly bored, no time to be a snob or to sit on the sideline criticizing what others are doing. The charity workers are waging a glorious war against human misery—a war that knows no end. No banners wave for the army of men and women who head the Red Cross drive that ends on Thanksgiving day and the sale of tuberculosis seals commencing this week. Their spirits will not be lifted with martial music but an ideal will inspire them—an ideal more potent than the plaudits of the crowd, the spirit of service to humanity. Human welfare is being served, lives made bright and health restored.

Civic-spirited women of Monroe, desiring to have an integral part in the building of the new tuberculosis sanatorium, conceived the idea of erecting an archway over the main entrance to the grounds. To obtain the necessary funds they are making cakes and selling them this week. Drop in at the I. Baer building on St. John street on Tuesday and treat yourself to a generous slice of cake and a cup of fragrant coffee. You too will be assisting in erecting that archway in this manner.

The tingling air now speeds the shopper and the stores are beguiling women into early gift purchasing. Just as soon as the last bone of the Thanksgiving turkey has been picked, everyone will get right down to the business of Christmas shopping.

There is considerable activity in the Clarence Oakley household, where everything will soon be in readiness for the arrival of Harry Granary from across the sea. He has been living in Paris, France, for the past three years, and will be on home soil for Christmas. A big turkey is eating its unsuspecting head off for the feast to be prepared in his honor.

An air of expectancy also hangs over the William Washburn home, where their daughter, Genevra, will join the family party for Christmas. She will come from New York, bearing gifts picked up in France, where she spent her summer vacation.

Mary Black is as happy as a child with a new toy over her trip east with her handsome brother, Lieutenant Bennett Wright. They will attend the Army-Navy football game in Philadelphia, and in doing so the supreme desire of Mary's life will be fulfilled.

There were signs of revelry and roistering by night at Lakeside Country club, where Junior leaguers transformed the dignity of the ball room and porches into a scene of hilarity. Subtlety may have turned the trick for less urgent undertakings but it took an old-fashioned carnival to get the crowd out last night. Charity, you know, was the real purpose behind the frivolity.

The scenes are being shifted for the last act of the country's greatest drama—football. The highways will be as thick with cars as politicians at a country fair, with automobiles carrying fans to New Orleans for the big Thanksgiving game. Two enthusiasts will be missing from the ranks this year—Morris and Daisy Haas. So that you may not draw your own conclusions, let us hasten to tell you that they will soon be sailing away on the dancing waters of the Caribbean enjoying their twenty-second wedding anniversary (or is it the twenty-first?) Rather a splendid gesture on the part of Morris, don't you think?

Things will "pep" up socially just as soon as Doris Beaman rides into town from Sophie Newcomb. Overheard a certain Monroe hostess asking Doris' mother if she (Doris) would accept the responsibility of looking after three young men who will be her guests this week. It was rather a large order, but Winnie, in diplomatic manner, assured her that all would be well.

Saw Jean Dryburgh opening an interesting looking package from an out-of-town admirer last week. It was her birthday and she was remembered with a gorgeous sized bottle of French perfume (that expensive kind that every girl dreams of possessing some time in her life).

Elmer-Folse

A marriage of considerable social prominence and one that engages the interest of many friends in North Louisiana and in New Orleans is that of Miss Emily Margaret Folse and Mr. David Belknap Elmer, Friday evening, November the fifteeth, at the Church of the Redeemer, Oak Ridge, La., with Reverend Paul D. Bowden, of Warrenton, Va., uncle of the bride, officiating.

The church was beautifully adorned with garlands of fragrant evergreen, pine and cedar, southern smilax, nandina and papyrus from the gardens of Miss Lizzie Douglas of St. Francisville, a great aunt of the bride. The beautiful white chrysanthemums banking the altar and chancel were shipped to the bride from the gardens of her maternal aunt, Mrs. H. Tyson Marshal of Washington, D. C. Myriad cathedral tapers in heavy brass candelabrum burned in the background. Over the Gothic windows in the nave of the church, garlands of cedar, studded with white chysanthemums, hung in picturesque manner. Sheaves of white chrysanthemums marked the pews reserved for members of the two families.

Before the entrance of the bridal party, Will Rolfe and Tazewell Baird III unwound white satin ribbons which reached from the reserved pews to the entrance of the church. Miss Catherine Brook of New Orleans, in a gown of crimson velvet, rendered an organ concert. As a prelude, "The Voice that Breathed O'er Eden," was featured.

The groomsmen were Mr. J. W. Pride, D. B. Folse and E. B. Folse, Jr.

Mrs. Gilbert Elmer and Miss Winnifred Folse, maids, wore stunning models of orchid crepe with silver cloth and purple velvet sashes. Juliette caps of silver and purple added a distinctive note. They carried arm bouquets of golden colored chrysanthemums tied with purple tulle.

Mrs. James Willsey Pride, matron of honor, wore a beautiful silver and orchid model with sash of purple velvet. A Juliette cap of silver was worn and a sheave of glorious yellow chrysanthemums carried in her arms.

The junior bridesmaid, Miss Elizabeth Folse, wore a lovely yellow crepe model trimmed in gold metal cloth with a gold Juliette cap. An arm bouquet of bronze colored chrysanthemums completed the harmonious ensemble.

Mr. Gilbert Elmer of Houston, Texas, acted as best man for his brother.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Mr. E. B. Folse, wore a picturesque wedding gown of white nun's veiling fashioned along conventional lines with long tight-fitting sleeves and high neckline. Considerable sentiment was woven into the fashioning of this gown that boasted handsome Brussell's lace sent to the bride from her uncle and aunt, Reverend and Mrs. Paul Bowden. The wedding veil of tulle was worn by the bride's sister, Mrs. J. W. Pride, on her wedding day. Lace applique on the veil from the wedding veil of the bridegroom's great, great grandmother created additional sentiment.

The beautiful tiara which held the veil in place was made of pearls from the wedding dress of the groom's mother, Mrs. C. O. Elmer. The wreath of orange blossoms which encircled her head was worn by her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Pennington D. Bowden and her own mother.

Following the dictates of tradition, that every bride should wear "something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue," three handkerchiefs were used. Her own of Brussells lace, her mother's of rose point lace and one from the wedding chest of the groom's aunt, Mrs. Lewis Brown. A bouquet of white roses and valley lilies tide with wide satin ribbon which fell to the hem of her skirt, was carried.

After the wedding ceremony, a reception was held at the family residence. Misses Ellie and May Traylor greeted the guests and ushered them into the reception suit, decorated in chrysanthemums, evergreens and ferns. Receiving with Mr. and Mrs. Folse were Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Elmer, parents of the groom and members of the wedding party. Mrs. Folse wore a handsome blue velvet gown and Mrs. Elmer wore a charming black crepe model.

Punch and dainty cakes were served in the dining room. The table was covered with a handsome Irish lace cloth. At either end white tapers burned in silver candelabra. The bride's bouquet was placed under a white wedding bell for central ornamentation. Upon a handsome silver tray was the wedding cake, a beautiful three tiered confection. The base of the cake was surrounded by white japonicas, a gift from friends in St. Francisville.

Miss Lucile Huffman in crimson velvet, presided at the punch bowl. Miss Ada Mott in white velvet and Mrs. T. H. B. Rankin of Mer Rouge, in king's blue, assisted in serving.

The many beautiful gifts were on display in the living room. Conspicuous among them was a service in flat silver, crystal, china and linens. The bride's book, in which the guests were privileged to register was in Miss Nettie Traylor's keeping. The bride changed her wedding raiment for a smart tailleur of blue.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer will be at home to their many friends at Plaquemine, where they will reside. Mrs. Elmer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Folse. She is a graduate of S. Sophie Newcomb college, a member of Alpha Omicron Pi fraternity and also a charter member of the Gen. William Carroll chapter, D. A. R. Mr. Elmer is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Elmer of New Orleans and is prominent among the young business men of south Louisiana. He holds a responsible position with the Standard Oil company.

Among the out-of-town guests who attended the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. H. Tyson Marshal, Miss Ethel Bowden and Mr. Leonard B. Folse of Washington, D. C.; Rev. and Mrs. Paul D. Bowden of Warrenton, Va.; John D. Bowden of Palacious, Texas; K. Douglas Bowden, Falfurrias, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Elmer, New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Elmer, Houston, Texas; Mrs. Lewis Brown, Alexandria; Miss Winnifred Folse, Belton, Texas; Mr. Charles Elmer, New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Pride, Madison, Ala.; Mr. Charles Heath, Scottsboro, Ala.

Tells Of Pulitzer

Mrs. Cecil H. Tait spoke at length on the subject of "Pulitzer and the Pulitzer Prizes" before members of the Altrurian Book club in the home of Mrs. J. H. Watkins.

Mrs. Tait held the undivided interest of the assemblage throughout her talk. She said in part:

"Joseph Pulitzer was born in Mako, Germany, April 10, 1847. His father a Jew and his mother an Austro-German, he was the second of four children. Mako was a thriving town with around 35,000 population. It was a grain and cattle center, inhabited by intelligent people. A Calvinist college and several good schools made it an educational center. His family was one of standing in the community—father and mother having means as well as being educated. In 1853, Mr. Pulitzer's father moved the family to Budapest, having sufficient wealth to retire. It wasn't but just a very few years until the father developed heart trouble—was an invalid for several years. When he died the family fortune, though not exhausted, was impaired to such an extent that it would not permit permanent idleness on the part of the sons. The mother in a few years married again. In 1864, Joseph Pulitzer, aged 17, applied for a commission in the Austrian army, but he failed to receive it due to weak eyes and unpromising physique. Determined upon a military career, he found his way to Paris, hoping to join the foreign legion of service in Mexico, but failed for the same reason that he did in his own country. He next went to London, hoping to get in the British forces for service in India. Again he was unsuccessful. At this time Europe was swarming with agents seeking recruits for the Union army in the Civil war. This was 1864. He was only 17 but gave his age as 18.

"When he was mustered out, he went directly to New York to find something to do. The city swarmed with ex-soldiers in the same predicament was even worse, as he spoke German only and it was hard to be understood. He went to New Bedford hunting work, but of no avail. Disgusted and discouraged, he returned to New York, and it was then that he realized that his lack of the English language was his greatest drawback; he determined to learn it. A man jokingly told him there were no Germans in St. Louis, so he set out, thinking that he would come nearer learning the English language if he could go some place where he would have no occasion to speak German. He was astonished to find it overwhelmingly German. He did various things—care-taker for 16 mules, waiter in a restaurant, drove a livery hack, fireman on a ferry, before he ever landed a job that was at all steady. When he wasn't working or hunting a job, he would go to the Mercantile library. As I have said before, he read omnivoxously. One of the librarians and he became close friends and perhaps it was through this librarian that he became connected with a number of lawyers having offices in the building at the corner of Fifth (now Broadway) and Market. They gave him much aid and were always his steadfast backers.

"His entry into journalism began as a reporter for the Westliche Post, owned and operated by one of those German friends he had recently made. He stopped at nothing in his eagerness to excel. News, politics, public opinion, he grasped them all, both as a reporter and interpreter. He awed the establishment by his prodigious efforts and made at once a large place for himself in the life of the town, becoming conspicuous and establishing himself as a force in politics.

"As he progressed on the Westliche Post, Mr. Pulitzer became more and more a figure in St. Louis. He had become a stockholder in the Westliche Post and in 1871 sold out for $30,000, went back to Hungary to visit his old home and relatives. In 1872 the St. Louis Globe was forced into receivership, and a new company was incorporated with $500,000 capital. Mr. Pulitzer returned from his trip just at the time the newspaper business was on the rocks. He bought one of the German dailies for a song, ran it one day and sold it to the Globe for $20,000. In the year 1876 the Globe and St. Louis Democrat were consolidated.

"Mr. Pulitzer purchased two newspapers, the Post and the Dispatch, each very cheaply. He united these and called it the Post-Dispatch. The principals on which he ran his papers were those of true, genuine, real democracy. By 1881 the profits ran from $40,000 to $85,000 yearly.

"In New York Jay Gould owned the World. This newspaper was not a paying proposition. After due consideration, Mr. Pulitzer made an appointment with Mr. Jay Gould and it is said they were not long in reaching an agreement. Mr. Pulitzer paid $346,000 for the World, to be paid in installments. It began making money almost from the hour Mr. Pulitzer took hold. When the World passed 100,000 in circulation, 100 guns were fired in City Hall park and every employe received a tall silk hat. Christmas and Thanksgiving brought turkeys for all. In one of Mr. Pulitzer's letters he wrote: "God grant that the World may forever strive toward the highest ideals—be both a daily schoolhouse and a daily forum—both a daily teacher and a daily tribune—an instrument of justice, a terror to crime—an aid to education—an exponent of true Americanism." On October 17, 1890, when Mr. Pulitzer retired from active management of the World it had long ceased to have a New York rival except the Herald."

Buttons Carry Perfume

PARIS, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Perfumed bracelets, buttons and hatpins were shown as new gadgets in Schiaparelli's latest style show, indicating the mid-season mode will be fragrant as well as chic.

The jewels were made of filigree gold metal set with blue stones and punctured with small perforations through which perfume could be pored into an absorbent substance retaining the scent. Filigree metal dress clips, hatpins worn in the back, and buttons for day clothes were perfumed in the same way.

Hairnets accompanied every type of costume from sports to evening clothes. Worn cupped over the entire back of the head, they appeared in felt mesh with ski clothes, in heavy silk net caught caught by three gardenias at the nape of the neck under brimmed, straw, spring hats, and in ruched tulle or gold mesh for evening wear. The night nets were held in place by beaded coronets or jeweled, feather-shaped combs poised on the side of the head like the wings of Mercury.

As far as silhouette was concerned, the most striking news appeared in evening clothes, designed on such slender close-fitting lines that they semed just one long streak. New dull "suavity" satins in purple, dark red and brown; gunmetal and gold moire lames and white and yellow artificial silk mixtures were cut on those slim lines which closely molded the bust and every other curve in the figure.

Gold kid belts cut in the form of twining leaves embroidered with simulated pearls and emeralds finished some of the sheath gowns, which were designed both with and without trains. Virtually all the silhouette accent, however, appeared below the knees in gathered hem flounces lined with bright contrasting color or low draperies marked by deep slits.

"Blotting paper" wool in the blues and pinks which the name suggests made short, fitted jackets to wear with some of the frocks.

Two unusual prints appeared in evening and Palm Beach clothes. A "wild horse" print (white and bright rose colored horses on a black ground) made slender evening frocks whose skirts were slit in front to reveal black pantelettes beneath. Resort dresses were fashioned of new "music" prints (pastel colored silks printed with black bars of music) and belted with black suede treble clefs.

Mrs. Meyer Entertains

The charming hospitality of Mrs. Walter J. Meyer's beautiful home was offered members of her Thursday Bridge club when she invited them to be her overnight guests.

Coffee for the guests upon their awakening in the morning and the serving of a delicious breakfast completed the courtesies enjoyed by Mrs. F. P. Stubbs, Mrs. Gladys Sperry, Mrs. Frank Farmer, Mrs. A. V. Miller, Mrs. Ruby Stewart, Mrs. T. G. Easterling and Mrs. Henry Montgomery and guest, Mrs. Clark of El Dorado.

Becoming To Any Age

Patterns 2350 and 2444

"What shall I wear!" A shirtwaist frock, of course! And either of these sketched today would become daughter or her charming mother. Eyes Right!—to behold pattern 2444, and the softly tailored lines that women love. There's nothing easier—more definitely "this season" than pointed yokes cut in one piece with soft-line sleeves, while a slimming center panel does flattering things for a woman's hips. Choose tie silk, or geometric printed crepe.

Monroe Families Will Be Reunited On Thanksgiving Day

Charitable Causes Are Aided By Local Women

By Eve Bradford

The pendulum in its immemorial swing brings us safely through another year. Dynasties may fall, industrial orders may totter, new deals may give way, but the old-fashioned Thanksgiving is still with us. The season that we love so well is here again. It calls back the children, like homing pigeons, to the family fireside. Those bands that unite kindred hearts are drawn closer and the home circle, warmed by the spirit of the day, expands to share its peace with old friends and new who lack convenient family circles of their own. Eat, drink and be merry, there's so much for which to be thankful for this year.

This is no time for women to be idly bored, no time to be a snob or to sit on the sideline criticizing what others are doing. The charity workers are waging a glorious war against human misery—a war that knows no end. No banners wave for the army of men and women who head the Red Cross drive that ends on Thanksgiving day and the sale of tuberculosis seals commencing this week. Their spirits will not be lifted with martial music but an ideal will inspire them—an ideal more potent than the plaudits of the crowd, the spirit of service to humanity. Human welfare is being served, lives made bright and health restored.

Civic-spirited women of Monroe, desiring to have an integral part in the building of the new tuberculosis sanatorium, conceived the idea of erecting an archway over the main entrance to the grounds. To obtain the necessary funds they are making cakes and selling them this week. Drop in at the I. Baer building on St. John street on Tuesday and treat yourself to a generous slice of cake and a cup of fragrant coffee. You too will be assisting in erecting that archway in this manner.

The tingling air now speeds the shopper and the stores are beguiling women into early gift purchasing. Just as soon as the last bone of the Thanksgiving turkey has been picked, everyone will get right down to the business of Christmas shopping.

There is considerable activity in the Clarence Oakley household, where everything will soon be in readiness for the arrival of Harry Granary from across the sea. He has been living in Paris, France, for the past three years, and will be on home soil for Christmas. A big turkey is eating its unsuspecting head off for the feast to be prepared in his honor.

An air of expectancy also hangs over the William Washburn home, where their daughter, Genevra, will join the family party for Christmas. She will come from New York, bearing gifts picked up in France, where she spent her summer vacation.

Mary Black is as happy as a child with a new toy over her trip east with her handsome brother, Lieutenant Bennett Wright. They will attend the Army-Navy football game in Philadelphia, and in doing so the supreme desire of Mary's life will be fulfilled.

There were signs of revelry and roistering by night at Lakeside Country club, where Junior leaguers transformed the dignity of the ball room and porches into a scene of hilarity. Subtlety may have turned the trick for less urgent undertakings but it took an old-fashioned carnival to get the crowd out last night. Charity, you know, was the real purpose behind the frivolity.

The scenes are being shifted for the last act of the country's greatest drama—football. The highways will be as thick with cars as politicians at a country fair, with automobiles carrying fans to New Orleans for the big Thanksgiving game. Two enthusiasts will be missing from the ranks this year—Morris and Daisy Haas. So that you may not draw your own conclusions, let us hasten to tell you that they will soon be sailing away on the dancing waters of the Caribbean enjoying their twenty-second wedding anniversary (or is it the twenty-first?) Rather a splendid gesture on the part of Morris, don't you think?

Things will "pep" up socially just as soon as Doris Beaman rides into town from Sophie Newcomb. Overheard a certain Monroe hostess asking Doris' mother if she (Doris) would accept the responsibility of looking after three young men who will be her guests this week. It was rather a large order, but Winnie, in diplomatic manner, assured her that all would be well.

Saw Jean Dryburgh opening an interesting looking package from an out-of-town admirer last week. It was her birthday and she was remembered with a gorgeous sized bottle of French perfume (that expensive kind that every girl dreams of possessing some time in her life).

Elmer-Folse

A marriage of considerable social prominence and one that engages the interest of many friends in North Louisiana and in New Orleans is that of Miss Emily Margaret Folse and Mr. David Belknap Elmer, Friday evening, November the fifteenth, at the Church of the Redeemer, Oak Ridge, La., with Reverend Paul D. Bowden, of Warrenton, Va., uncle of the bride, officiating.

The church was beautifully adorned with garlands of fragrant evergreen, pine and cedar, southern smilax, nandina and papyrus from the gardens of Miss Lizzie Douglas of St. Francisville, a great aunt of the bride. The beautiful white chrysanthemums banking the altar and chancel were shipped to the bride from the gardens of her maternal aunt, Mrs. H. Tyson Marshal of Washington, D. C. Myriad cathedral tapers in heavy brass candelabrum burned in the background. Over the Gothic windows in the nave of the church, garlands of cedar, studded with white chysanthemums, hung in picturesque manner. Sheaves of white chrysanthemums marked the pews reserved for members of the two families.

Before the entrance of the bridal party, Will Rolfe and Tazewell Baird III unwound white satin ribbons which reached from the reserved pews to the entrance of the church. Miss Catherine Brook of New Orleans, in a gown of crimson velvet, rendered an organ concert. As a prelude, "The Voice that Breathed O'er Eden," was featured.

The groomsmen were Mr. J. W. Pride, D. B. Folse and E. B. Folse, Jr.

Mrs. Gilbert Elmer and Miss Winnifred Folse, maids, wore stunning models of orchid crepe with silver cloth and purple velvet sashes. Juliette caps of silver and purple added a distinctive note. They carried arm bouquets of golden colored chrysanthemums tied with purple tulle.

Mrs. James Willsey Pride, matron of honor, wore a beautiful silver and orchid model with sash of purple velvet. A Juliette cap of silver was worn and a sheave of glorious yellow chrysanthemums carried in her arms.

The junior bridesmaid, Miss Elizabeth Folse, wore a lovely yellow crepe model trimmed in gold metal cloth with a gold Juliette cap. An arm bouquet of bronze colored chrysanthemums completed the harmonious ensemble.

Mr. Gilbert Elmer of Houston, Texas, acted as best man for his brother.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Mr. E. B. Folse, wore a picturesque wedding gown of white nun's veiling fashioned along conventional lines with long tight-fitting sleeves and high neckline. Considerable sentiment was woven into the fashioning of this gown that boasted handsome Brussell's lace sent to the bride from her uncle and aunt, Reverend and Mrs. Paul Bowden. The wedding veil of tulle was worn by the bride's sister, Mrs. J. W. Pride, on her wedding day. Lace applique on the veil from the wedding veil of the bridegroom's great, great grandmother created additional sentiment.

The beautiful tiara which held the veil in place was made of pearls from the wedding dress of the groom's mother, Mrs. C. O. Elmer. The wreath of orange blossoms which encircled her head was worn by her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Pennington D. Bowden and her own mother.

Following the dictates of tradition, that every bride should wear "something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue," three handkerchiefs were used. Her own of Brussells lace, her mother's of rose point lace and one from the wedding chest of the groom's aunt, Mrs. Lewis Brown. A bouquet of white roses and valley lilies tide with wide satin ribbon which fell to the hem of her skirt, was carried.

After the wedding ceremony, a reception was held at the family residence. Misses Ellie and May Traylor greeted the guests and ushered them into the reception suit, decorated in chrysanthemums, evergreens and ferns. Receiving with Mr. and Mrs. Folse were Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Elmer, parents of the groom and members of the wedding party. Mrs. Folse wore a handsome blue velvet gown and Mrs. Elmer wore a charming black crepe model.

Punch and dainty cakes were served in the dining room. The table was covered with a handsome Irish lace cloth. At either end white tapers burned in silver candelabra. The bride's bouquet was placed under a white wedding bell for central ornamentation. Upon a handsome silver tray was the wedding cake, a beautiful three tiered confection. The base of the cake was surrounded by white japonicas, a gift from friends in St. Francisville.

Miss Lucile Huffman in crimson velvet, presided at the punch bowl. Miss Ada Mott in white velvet and Mrs. T. H. B. Rankin of Mer Rouge, in king's blue, assisted in serving.

The many beautiful gifts were on display in the living room. Conspicuous among them was a service in flat silver, crystal, china and linens. The bride's book, in which the guests were privileged to register was in Miss Nettie Traylor's keeping. The bride changed her wedding raiment for a smart tailleur of blue.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer will be at home to their many friends at Plaquemine, where they will reside. Mrs. Elmer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Folse. She is a graduate of S. Sophie Newcomb college, a member of Alpha Omicron Pi fraternity and also a charter member of the Gen. William Carroll chapter, D. A. R. Mr. Elmer is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Elmer of New Orleans and is prominent among the young business men of south Louisiana. He holds a responsible position with the Standard Oil company.

Among the out-of-town guests who attended the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. H. Tyson Marshal, Miss Ethel Bowden and Mr. Leonard B. Folse of Washington, D. C.; Rev. and Mrs. Paul D. Bowden of Warrenton, Va.; John D. Bowden of Palacious, Texas; K. Douglas Bowden, Falfurrias, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Elmer, New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Elmer, Houston, Texas; Mrs. Lewis Brown, Alexandria; Miss Winnifred Folse, Belton, Texas; Mr. Charles Elmer, New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Pride, Madison, Ala.; Mr. Charles Heath, Scottsboro, Ala.

Tells Of Pulitzer

Mrs. Cecil H. Tait spoke at length on the subject of "Pulitzer and the Pulitzer Prizes" before members of the Altrurian Book club in the home of Mrs. J. H. Watkins.

Mrs. Tait held the undivided interest of the assemblage throughout her talk. She said in part:

"Joseph Pulitzer was born in Mako, Germany, April 10, 1847. His father a Jew and his mother an Austro-German, he was the second of four children. Mako was a thriving town with around 35,000 population. It was a grain and cattle center, inhabited by intelligent people. A Calvinist college and several good schools made it an educational center. His family was one of standing in the community—father and mother having means as well as being educated. In 1853, Mr. Pulitzer's father moved the family to Budapest, having sufficient wealth to retire. It wasn't but just a very few years until the father developed heart trouble—was an invalid for several years. When he died the family fortune, though not exhausted, was impaired to such an extent that it would not permit permanent idleness on the part of the sons. The mother in a few years married again. In 1864, Joseph Pulitzer, aged 17, applied for a commission in the Austrian army, but he failed to receive it due to weak eyes and unpromising physique. Determined upon a military career, he found his way to Paris, hoping to join the foreign legion of service in Mexico, but failed for the same reason that he did in his own country. He next went to London, hoping to get in the British forces for service in India. Again he was unsuccessful. At this time Europe was swarming with agents seeking recruits for the Union army in the Civil war. This was 1864. He was only 17 but gave his age as 18.

"When he was mustered out, he went directly to New York to find something to do. The city swarmed with ex-soldiers in the same predicament. I would say Pulitzer's predicament was even worse, as he spoke German only and it was hard to be understood. He went to New Bedford hunting work, but of no avail. Disgusted and discouraged, he returned to New York, and it was then that he realized that his lack of the English language was his greatest drawback; he determined to learn it. A man jokingly told him there were no Germans in St. Louis, so he set out, thinking that he would come nearer learning the English language if he could go some place where he would have no occasion to speak German. He was astonished to find it overwhelmingly German. He did various things—care-taker for 16 mules, waiter in a restaurant, drove a livery hack, fireman on a ferry, before he ever landed a job that was at all steady. When he wasn't working or hunting a job, he would go to the Mercantile library. As I have said before, he read omnivoxously. One of the librarians and he became close friends and perhaps it was through this librarian that he became connected with a number of lawyers having offices in the building at the corner of Fifth (now Broadway) and Market. They gave him much aid and were always his steadfast backers.

"His entry into journalism began as a reporter for the Westliche Post, owned and operated by one of those German friends he had recently made. He stopped at nothing in his eagerness to excel. News, politics, public opinion, he grasped them all, both as a reporter and interpreter. He awed the establishment by his prodigious efforts and made at once a large place for himself in the life of the town, becoming conspicuous and establishing himself as a force in politics.

"As he progressed on the Westliche Post, Mr. Pulitzer became more and more a figure in St. Louis. He had become a stockholder in the Westliche Post and in 1871 sold out for $30,000, went back to Hungary to visit his old home and relatives. In 1872 the St. Louis Globe was forced into receivership, and a new company was incorporated with $500,000 capital. Mr. Pulitzer returned from his trip just at the time the newspaper business was on the rocks. He bought one of the German dailies for a song, ran it one day and sold it to the Globe for $20,000. In the year 1876 the Globe and St. Louis Democrat were consolidated.

"Mr. Pulitzer purchased two newspapers, the Post and the Dispatch, each very cheaply. He united these and called it the Post-Dispatch. The principals on which he ran his papers were those of true, genuine, real democracy. By 1881 the profits ran from $40,000 to $85,000 yearly.

"In New York Jay Gould owned the World. This newspaper was not a paying proposition. After due consideration, Mr. Pulitzer made an appointment with Mr. Jay Gould and it is said they were not long in reaching an agreement. Mr. Pulitzer paid $346,000 for the World, to be paid in installments. It began making money almost from the hour Mr. Pulitzer took hold. When the World passed 100,000 in circulation, 100 guns were fired in City Hall park and every employe received a tall silk hat. Christmas and Thanksgiving brought turkeys for all. In one of Mr. Pulitzer's letters he wrote: "God grant that the World may forever strive toward the highest ideals—be both a daily schoolhouse and a daily forum—both a daily teacher and a daily tribune—an instrument of justice, a terror to crime—an aid to education—an exponent of true Americanism." On October 17, 1890, when Mr. Pulitzer retired from active management of the World it had long ceased to have a New York rival except the Herald."

Buttons Carry Perfume

PARIS, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Perfumed bracelets, buttons and hatpins were shown as new gadgets in Schiaparelli's latest style show, indicating the mid-season mode will be fragrant as well as chic.

The jewels were made of filigree gold metal set with blue stones and punctured with small perforations through which perfume could be pored into an absorbent substance retaining the scent. Filigree metal dress clips, hatpins worn in the back, and buttons for day clothes were perfumed in the same way.

Hairnets accompanied every type of costume from sports to evening clothes. Worn cupped over the entire back of the head, they appeared in felt mesh with ski clothes, in heavy silk net caught caught by three gardenias at the nape of the neck under brimmed, straw, spring hats, and in ruched tulle or gold mesh for evening wear. The night nets were held in place by beaded coronets or jeweled, feather-shaped combs poised on the side of the head like the wings of Mercury.

As far as silhouette was concerned, the most striking news appeared in evening clothes, designed on such slender close-fitting lines that they semed just one long streak. New dull "suavity" satins in purple, dark red and brown; gunmetal and gold moire lames and white and yellow artificial silk mixtures were cut on those slim lines which closely molded the bust and every other curve in the figure.

Gold kid belts cut in the form of twining leaves embroidered with simulated pearls and emeralds finished some of the sheath gowns, which were designed both with and without trains. Virtually all the silhouette accent, however, appeared below the knees in gathered hem flounces lined with bright contrasting color or low draperies marked by deep slits.

"Blotting paper" wool in the blues and pinks which the name suggests made short, fitted jackets to wear with some of the frocks.

Two unusual prints appeared in evening and Palm Beach clothes. A "wild horse" print (white and bright rose colored horses on a black ground) made slender evening frocks whose skirts were slit in front to reveal black pantelettes beneath. Resort dresses were fashioned of new "music" prints (pastel colored silks printed with black bars of music) and belted with black suede treble clefs.

Cake And Coffee Sale Planned For Tuesday

Money To Be Devoted To Building Of Archway At Tuberculosis Hospital; One Project Completed, Others Under Way

Society's pattern for existence at the present moment gleams with the gold and silver threads of sweet charity. Almost every member of society is stepping into the front ranks and doing her bit for the cause.

One benefit in particular that gleams with unusual luster is the cake and coffee sale at the Baer building on St. John street all day Tuesday. It is sponsored by the women of this city whose interests are centered in the new tuberculosis sanatorium soon to be erected.

In planning the building, funds were not included for the archway over the entrance to the grounds. To render the entrance dignified and imposing, it is necessary that funds be obtained for this important feature of architecture. Progressive, civic-spirited women of this city conceived the idea of arranging a series of cake and coffee sales to be held at regular intervals until sufficient funds are secured.

When shopping on Tuesday, you are invited to drop in at the I. Baer building and treat yourself to a generous piece of delicious home-made cake and coffee. The fee is small but the cause is great, so kindly keep this in mind.

Another project that is keeping the women of this city busily engaged is the Christmas toy shop, where miracles happen daily. Under the auspices of the Monroe recreation department, the work of making new toys out of old, discarded ones goes merrily on day after day. Dolls that have met a rather ignominious death at the hands of some careless little girl are being brought back to life and will smile again into the face of a child who has been praying nightly to Santa Claus for a doll for her very own. Toy soldiers, minus a leg or an arm and with uniform spotted and covered with dust, will again march proudly in the Christmas parade. Mechanical toys, thrown into the discard by the owners are being covered with shining new paint, and, with the assistance of a few screws and tacks, will again perform for some happy child on Christmas morning. Members of society have found particular joy in aiding the toy shop. The reason perhaps is that they can visualize the happiness in homes where these toys find their way.

Another affair for sweet charity, sponsored by the Junior Charity league, took place Saturday night at Lakeside Country club, where a carnival attracted society en masse. Money flowed into the coffers from each concession, as every one seemed intent upon contributing to the worthy cause in this manner.

The Good Fellows have been with us so long and their activities so well known to every man, woman and child, there is little need of repeating their good deeds, year after year. Many a home circle has been warmed by gifts from the Good Fellows fund, as you well know.

With the genial flame of charity leaping higher in the hearts of Monroe people this year than ever before, we find life nearer than ever to the heart's desire.

Club Lively Place

Country club life is at its richest and best these first cool days of early winter, when the spirit of conviviality is abroad in the land.

Lakeside Country club, society's rendezvous on Wednesday, was swarming with beautifully-frocked women during the luncheon hour and later for the afternoon of bridge.

The event was unusually interesting, as several feminine members of the Shreveport Country club motored over for the day and were guests of the club. Noted among them were Mrs. Edna Saenger, Mrs. Alry Cahn, Mrs. Harry Morgan, Mrs. M. L. Bath, Mrs. T. E. Trigg, Mrs. Hal Lewis, Mrs. J. V. Hendricks and Mrs. C. B. Williams. One guest from Arcadia, Mrs. L. V. Stabler, was also present.

The vivid colors of autumn marched proudly up and down the dining room table, where beautiful chrysanthemums reflected the bronze, yellow, crimson and purple tints. A luscious three-course luncheon was served and was followed by rubber bridge in the lounge, where the hearth fire burned cozily. Decks of bridge cards were awarded for high score at each table.

A golf tournament, enjoyed by several foursomes, resulted in Mrs. Frederick Millsaps' capturing the trophy for low net score. Mrs. Carl McHenry took the prize for second low net score and Mrs. T. E. Trigg of Shreveport, the trophy for low putting score.

Noted among those present were: Mrs. F. B. Winberry, Mrs. George Weaks, Mrs. Henry Bernstein, Mrs. G. B. Cooley, Mrs. H. Reardon, Mrs. C. S. Foster, Mrs. M. W. Sykes, Mrs. Ray Wise, Mrs. M. A. Lovett, Jr., Mrs. W. P. Henderson, Mrs. W. D. King, Mrs. F. P. Stubbs, Mrs. Frank Farmer, Mrs. J. B. Vaughan, Mrs. Gladys Sperry, Mrs. Arthur Dryburgh, Mrs. Ben Downing, Mrs. Harry St. John, Mrs. O. R. Lewis, Mrs. H. Roemer, Mrs. Charles Read, Mrs. R. R. Beaman, Mrs. E. M. Eckhart, Mrs. Owight Harris, Mrs. Bessie Lee Atkins, Mrs. B. Beasley, Mrs. Arthur Long, Mrs. John Breard, Mrs. A. R. Preparedness

Is Theme Of "With Pershing In Mexico," By Col. H. A. Toulmin.

A prodigious quantity of paper and ink has been used in the last 19 years in telling the story of the United States military expedition into Mexico in 1916-17 under General John J. Pershing, but probably nothing in the entire bibliography of that historic episode has there appeared anything of greater informative importance than the compact little volume, "With Pershing in Mexico," written by Colonel H. A. Toulmin, Jr., D. S. M., recently published by the Military Service Publishing Co., Harrisburg.

Here is a book that the non-military public, interested in the facts of history-making events, may well take a special delight in. The book has a purpose—to "popularize the principal guardian of our constitutional government, the regular army"—and the author has done a neat and efficient literary job in furthering his design. With a military mind that concentrates on essentials rather than a lot of cluttering details, he has succeeded in presenting a cameo-like picture of the whole Mexican incident which is dramatic in the terse quality of the recital and highly illuminating in its factual presentation.

Which is to say that Colonel Toulmin tells the whole story without unnecessary embellishment but with a clarity that can readily be understood and appreciated by the layman, for whom it is primarily written and who ought to read it if he cares to understand some of the poignant lessons that were taught by the Mexican campaign.

Those lessons, Colonel Toulmin shows, are startling. "It was splendid clinical example," he says, "of how lack of preparedness imposed upon an army can handicap even the most competent command. The integrity, professional skill and loyal devotion to our government of the regular army officers can never be a substitute for the adequate physical equipment and extended study that is necessary for the preparation of any army to take the field."

From that standpoint, if no other, the book is a valuable handbook for the American taxpayer who pays the bills for our military establishment, and who ought to know what is necessary if that establishment is to function effectively and efficiently. The Mexican campaign was the first in which the American troops had extended use of modern equipment—the airplane and motorized truck columns. Historically "it was the first real blend of the new devices of the new army and the best devices and equipment of the old army." It was also a careful demonstration of the fact that the army must always be prepared, in view of the nature of the countries beyond our borders, to campaign with the old equipment of the horse as well as with the new equipment of the motor car.

"Complete motorization and mechanization," Colonel Toulmin shows, "may be just as disastrous as none at all." He concludes that the day of the horse is not over, in spite of a general impression to the contrary. "The horse is still a vital and important military factor," he says. "The horse column can live off the country. That is not true in most territories of the mechanized force. The horse has no limit save complete destruction of his endurance—that is not true of the machine in which some infinitesimal part may break down and render the entire apparatus ineffective."

These conclusions are emphasized in the story of the campaign itself, the recital of which is the tribute of a trained military observer to the courage, resourcefulness and dependability of the American soldier operating under the most unfavorable physical conditions and faced with the anomalous task of fighting not only a wily enemy but also an unfriendly ally.

Colonel Toulmin's book is worthy of a high place in the military writings of the country.

To Be Guest Speaker

Mrs. Elizabeth Van Horn Kramer, who comes to Monroe on the evening of November 30, meeting with the representative business and professional women in the interest of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs as their special representative, will be the guest speaker at the annual banquet of the local club. On this occasion, in addition to all members of the local club members from the Ruston club will be in attendance, to avail themselves of the opportunity to hear the national federation's field representative.

Mrs. Kramer is a professional woman as well as a business executive. She was a voice teacher as well as a speaker and is particularly well known in Ohio and West Virginia, where for five years she worked with the Redpath bureau, placing many prominent speakers and singers in colleges and clubs. She has been active in the work of the General Federation of Women's clubs in Ohio, was elected a trustee of the Ohio Public Health association and is northwest vice-president of the Ohio Parent-Teacher association.

Mrs. Kramer is particularly interested in the federation work along the line of employment for women. "Through our own program of occupational round tables, held in Seattle on 'Changing Patterns in Women's Occupations'," she said, "I have been glad to learn that a more wholesome attitude toward competition and even toward discriminations is apparent; women must meet competition and even discrimination by increased efficiency through better special training, a more general education and a greater readiness to take increased responsibility."

Anne Lindbergh Praised

Anne Morrow Lindbergh has been pointed to as the ideal American type of woman.

A prominent club woman, addressing a group of literary women recently on the subject of "What Makes an American," made the sweep of history impersonal by tracing family histories and backgrounds by examples of recent novels that picture experiences common to the lives of American men and women. The speaker said those who conquered the frontiers were men and women who ran away from the social and economic situations they found at home to make a new world.

"Today there are no more frontiers, so we must face what we have," she said. "We cannot run away as did the Pilgrims or the disgruntled New Englanders to western reserves in 1840, to Missouri, on to California, and to Cuba, the Philippines, and finally to Alaska."

As all Americans are products of frontiers, the speaker gave the sordid as well as the glorious side of the influences that made their lives. The pioneer was concerned with making money, and material success became the yardstick of this country, she said. Moral failure was condoned if the man had money.

The better side includes the pioneer woman. Every man had his dream and room to expand and realize it in part, she said, and every pioneer woman had a vital part in making it come true. The pioneer woman sparkled with vitality. She was a planner and had her hand on the pulse of life about her. She learned early what women of today know only from books on applied psychology, that tragedy and happiness both come from within one's self. They knew effort and expectation and the joys of a busy life.

The woman who typifies the American woman at her best, according to the speaker, is Anne Lindbergh.

"Here is a woman who is a pioneer in flying, in wifehood, and with a modesty and intelligence that is a heritage beyond price," she said. "Her book shows that she has spiritual value, delicacy of feeling and love of humanity. The marriage of this child of an inspiring home to the hero of his age, has all the romance of any story ever written. American women may point to Anne Morrow Lindbergh, and take heart that frontier backgrounds flower in great beauty."

Auxiliary Hears Talk

Of outstanding interest in Presbyterian circles was the visit of Miss Irene Hope Hudson of Richmond, Va., field secretary of Christian education and ministerial relief on Tuesday afternoon at the inspirational meeting of the Presbyterian auxiliary at the First Presbyterian church.

The Sunday school rooms were florally adorned with lovely bronze and yellow chrysanthemums, ferns placed at vantage points formed a background.

Miss Hudson was introduced by Mrs. C. A. Nenney, local auxiliary president in a few well chosen words.

Miss Hudson, a most interesting speaker, presented every phase of the cause she represents in a most appealing and convincing manner.

At the close of the program, the assemblage was invited into the dining room of the church, where the tea table, overlaid with a handsome lace cloth over yellow satin, centered with a golden cornacopia overflowing with luscious fruits, formed the central decoration.

Dainty petit fours, sustaining the yellow color scheme, and coffee were served to the honor guest, Miss Hudson, and visitors from Alto, Rayville, Archibald, Winnsboro and Delhi by members of the auxiliary.

Mrs. Kate Allison, secretary of social activities of the local auxiliary, was responsible for the delightful social hour that permitted those present to meet Miss Hudson personally.

Money To Be Devoted To Building Of Archway At Tuberculosis Hospital; One Project Completed, Others Under Way

Society's pattern for existence at the present moment gleams with the gold and silver threads of sweet charity. Almost every member of society is stepping into the front ranks and doing her bit for the cause.

One benefit in particular that gleams with unusual luster is the cake and coffee sale at the Baer building on St. John street all day Tuesday. It is sponsored by the women of this city whose interests are centered in the new tuberculosis sanatorium soon to be erected.

In planning the building, funds were not included for the archway over the entrance to the grounds. To render the entrance dignified and imposing, it is necessary that funds be obtained for this important feature of architecture. Progressive, civic-spirited women of this city conceived the idea of arranging a series of cake and coffee sales to be held at regular intervals until sufficient funds are secured.

When shopping on Tuesday, you are invited to drop in at the I. Baer building and treat yourself to a generous piece of delicious home-made cake and coffee. The fee is small but the cause is great, so kindly keep this in mind.

Another project that is keeping the women of this city busily engaged is the Christmas toy shop, where miracles happen daily. Under the auspices of the Monroe recreation department, the work of making new toys out of old, discarded ones goes merrily on day after day. Dolls that have met a rather ignominious death at the hands of some careless little girl are being brought back to life and will smile again into the face of a child who has been praying nightly to Santa Claus for a doll for her very own. Toy soldiers, minus a leg or an arm and with uniform spotted and covered with dust, will again march proudly in the Christmas parade. Mechanical toys, thrown into the discard by the owners are being covered with shining new paint, and, with the assistance of a few screws and tacks, will again perform for some happy child on Christmas morning. Members of society have found particular joy in aiding the toy shop. The reason perhaps is that they can visualize the happiness in homes where these toys find their way.

Another affair for sweet charity, sponsored by the Junior Charity league, took place Saturday night at Lakeside Country club, where a carnival attracted society en masse. Money flowed into the coffers from each concession, as every one seemed intent upon contributing to the worthy cause in this manner.

The Good Fellows have been with us so long and their activities so well known to every man, woman and child, there is little need of repeating their good deeds, year after year. Many a home circle has been warmed by gifts from the Good Fellows fund, as you well know.

With the genial flame of charity leaping higher in the hearts of Monroe people this year than ever before, we find life nearer than ever to the heart's desire.

Club Lively Place

Country club life is at its richest and best these first cool days of early winter, when the spirit of conviviality is abroad in the land.

Lakeside Country club, society's rendezvous on Wednesday, was swarming with beautifully-frocked women during the luncheon hour and later for the afternoon of bridge.

The event was unusually interesting, as several feminine members of the Shreveport Country club motored over for the day and were guests of the club. Noted among them were Mrs. Edna Saenger, Mrs. Alry Cahn, Mrs. Harry Morgan, Mrs. M. L. Bath, Mrs. T. E. Trigg, Mrs. Hal Lewis, Mrs. J. V. Hendricks and Mrs. C. B. Williams. One guest from Arcadia, Mrs. L. V. Stabler, was also present.

The vivid colors of autumn marched proudly up and down the dining room table, where beautiful chrysanthemums reflected the bronze, yellow, crimson and purple tints. A luscious three-course luncheon was served and was followed by rubber bridge in the lounge, where the hearth fire burned cozily. Decks of bridge cards were awarded for high score at each table.

A golf tournament, enjoyed by several foursomes, resulted in Mrs. Frederick Millsaps' capturing the trophy for low net score. Mrs. Carl McHenry took the prize for second low net score and Mrs. T. E. Trigg of Shreveport, the trophy for low putting score.

Noted among those present were: Mrs. F. B. Winberry, Mrs. George Weaks, Mrs. Henry Bernstein, Mrs. G. B. Cooley, Mrs. H. Reardon, Mrs. C. S. Foster, Mrs. M. W. Sykes, Mrs. Ray Wise, Mrs. M. A. Lovett, Jr., Mrs. W. P. Henderson, Mrs. W. D. King, Mrs. F. P. Stubbs, Mrs. Frank Farmer, Mrs. J. B. Vaughan, Mrs. Gladys Sperry, Mrs. Arthur Dryburgh, Mrs. Ben Downing, Mrs. Harry St. John, Mrs. O. Auxiliary Hears Talk

Of outstanding interest in Presbyterian circles was the visit of Miss Irene Hope Hudson of Richmond, Va., field secretary of Christian education and ministerial relief on Tuesday afternoon at the inspirational meeting of the Presbyterian auxiliary at the First Presbyterian church.

The Sunday school rooms were florally adorned with lovely bronze and yellow chrysanthemums, ferns placed at vantage points formed a background.

Miss Hudson was introduced by Mrs. C. A. Nenney, local auxiliary president in a few well chosen words.

Miss Hudson, a most interesting speaker, presented every phase of the cause she represents in a most appealing and convincing manner.

At the close of the program, the assemblage was invited into the dining room of the church, where the tea table, overlaid with a handsome lace cloth over yellow satin, centered with a golden cornacopia overflowing with luscious fruits, formed the central decoration.

Dainty petit fours, sustaining the yellow color scheme, and coffee were served to the honor guest, Miss Hudson, and visitors from Alto, Rayville, Archibald, Winnsboro and Delhi by members of the auxiliary.

Mrs. Kate Allison, secretary of social activities of the local auxiliary, was responsible for the delightful social hour that permitted those present to meet Miss Hudson personally.

Safeguarding Children Stressed By Georgia Tucker P.-T. A.

Association Addressed By Judge Of City Court

Rules For Teaching Safety In Walking, In Riding Bicycles, In Roller Skating Are Given By Speaker

An address by W. M. Harper, judge of the Monroe city court, on "Safeguarding Childhood, a talk by Mrs. Carl McHenry on "Geography as a Basis for World Citizenship," reading of messages from the national and state P.-T. A. presidents and reports marked the November meeting of the Georgia Tucker school Parent-Teacher Association of the Louisiana Congress of Parents and Teachers.

The protection of children from accident hazards in the street, school and home is a matter of constant vigilance, admonition and elimination of dangers at the source, the judge said.

Rules for teaching children safety in walking, in riding bicycles, in roller skating and in crossing streets and driveways were given by the speaker.

Five thousand children were killed in the United States last year by motor vehicles, Judge Harper declared, taking occasion to score reckless driving, especially in the vicinity of schools. However, he observed that Monroe had an excellent record as to traffic accidents near educational institutions.

Bringing out that 98 per cent of automobile accidents occur at intersections, Judge Harper advocated special care on the part of drivers at street crossings.

Turning from motor hazards, the speaker condemned the use by children of air rifles, small caliber rifles and sling shots.

Many danger points in presumably safe homes were mentioned by the judge: Matches, gasoline, natural gas fires, obstacles likely to cause falls, loose shells and cartridges.

In speaking on her topic, Mrs. McHenry said the proper study of geography should bring better understanding parallel between the history and geography of the world, showing how one influenced the other.

In summing up, Mrs. McHenry said a knowledge of geography undoubtedly would help in bringing about world citizenship and world peace. She pointed out, however, that the goal would never be reached until the spirit of greed had been abolished from the life of nations.

The monthly messages from the national and state P.-T. A. presidents were read by Mrs. J. G. Durrett, president of the Georgia Tucker unit. Mrs. Durrett also spoke on the requirements necessary to make the group a standard association. She requested the cooperation of every member toward that end.

Reports were given by Mrs. Paul Newman, secretary, and Mrs. W. M. Greenwell, treasurer. Mrs. Marvyn Johnson, chairman of program committee, asked for suggestions for programs. Mrs. Elmer Richards, finance chairman, announced plans rapidly nearing completion for the annual carnival, December 6. Mrs. L. B. Chambers, publicity chairman, called attention to the Parent-Teacher page every Sunday in the combined World and News-Star. Mrs. Floyd Taylor, social service committee, reported cash donations from Mrs. Sam Kaplan, Louis Masur, the People's Homestead and Savings association, Sam Rubin and Ike Dembenski. Mrs. D. M. Daugherty of the study group told of the interesting study of "The Progressive Home" by this group.

It was announced that Miss Annie Windes' room won the prize for most mothers in attendance last meeting.

The December meeting will be held the third Thursday, instead of the fourth, on account of the Christmas holidays.

Barkdull Faulk Group

The relation of the home to civic life and the management of the home will be studied by the study club of the Barkdull Faulk School Parent-Teacher association during the year.

The lesson at the November meeting of the group was presented by Mrs. Virginia Newman. She spoke on factors necessary in developing the right kind of attitudes in children, saying in part:

"Parents sometimes leave to school and Sunday school teachers the task of teaching their children important facts that they should teach them at home. Parents should not neglect their plain duty, for as the home is, so is the child, and as the children are, so is the country.

"Parents are after all the greatest educators we have, because they have the children in the formative age, and home influence is the strongest in the life of the child.

"Some of the things we can teach them at home are respect for law and order, harmonious home atmosphere. See that their attitudes toward people are right. Teach them the ability to meet new conditions without fear. Teach them poise. Give them well defined habits and teach them respect for time and orderliness."

Sherrouse P.-T. A.

Fathers were honor guests at the November meeting or the Sherrouse school P.-T. A. of the Louisiana Congress of Parents and Teachers. They were served a delicious chicken spaghetti supper.

Mrs. John McCarthy, membership chairman, reported a 100 per cent membership. This committee visited nearly every home represented in the school in obtaining members.

Mrs. H. M. Harrell was asked to plan the Christmas party given the children of the school annually by the P.-T. A.

In presenting the program, "Geography as a Basis for World Citizenship," several fourth grade pupils under Miss Edwards gave a geography lesson. Questions were asked and answered. Then Edward Brown made a splendid talk on how geographical conditions have been the causes of wars. Economic conditions as well, he showed, have caused several of the later wars.

A vote of thanks was given for a first aid kit donated by Mrs. D. R. Teel, for a picture painted by Mrs. H. M. James and for a wool comfort made by Mrs. Fred Wetzel to be auctioned in the near future for the benefit of the school.

Miss Edwards' room was given a book for having the largest number of parents present at the meeting.

The year books prepared by the program chairman, Mrs. H. M. Linquist, ably assisted by Mr. Linquist, "a real P.-T. A. father," were distributed.

Mrs. Sam Adler added several points of interest about motion pictures in the Alexandria schools.

The Georgia Tucker child study group will meet again on the second Thursday in December at 2 p.m. in the kindergarten room of the school.

Turkey Still Thanksgiving Favorite, But Its Stuffing Varies With Locale

By Louise Bennett Weaver
(Author of "Helping the Homemaker")

The Thanksgiving dinner in American homes may be a streamlined version of the bulky banquet of grandmother's time, but turkey and stuffing remain the people's No. 1 choice for the great feast day.

Stuffing is almost as sacred to the Thanksgiving tradition as turkey and cranberries. The New Englander may call for chestnuts in his stuffing, the Texan may demand cornbread, the Minnesotan wild rice, but stuffing of one variety or another is a time-honored feature of the feast.

The stuffing should be packed loosely in the fowl to prevent sogginess and allow for expansion during roasting. This makes a light and fluffy food.

Separate Table For Children

Many share the gala spirit of the day with friends as well as family. Possibly a combination meal can be planned which will lessen cost and preparation effort.

A separate table for the children frequently adds to their comfort and enjoyment of the meal as well as the pleasure of the adults.

The employed housewife will profit by looking over her grocery store's shelves where she can procure delectable canned and packaged foods from canapes to date puddings. They are quite reasonable in price and will save time and labor.

The repast may be bountiful. Yet a simpler feast will be no less festive and commemorate the true spirit of this Thanksgiving day.

Recipes follow:

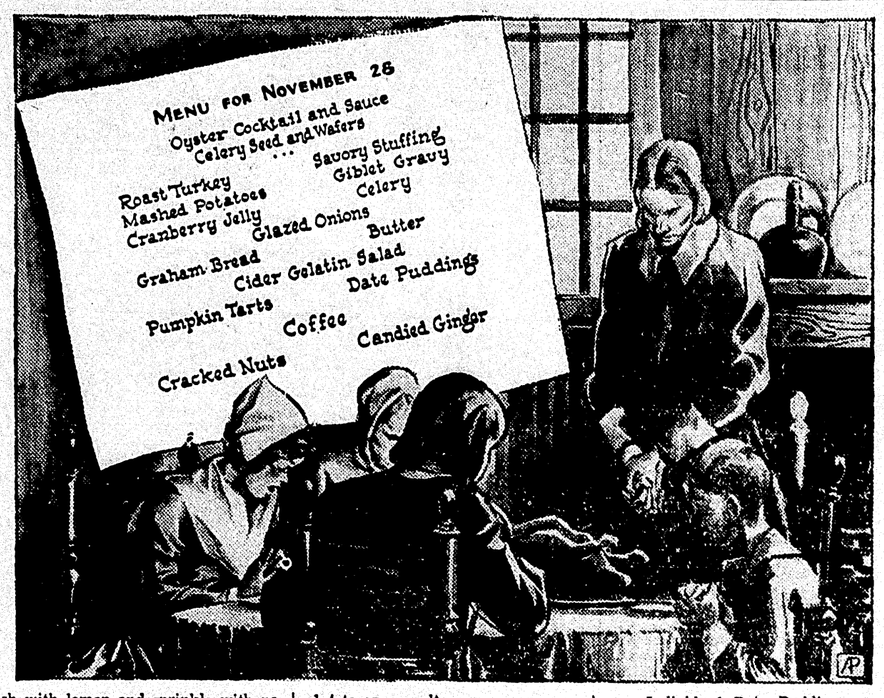
Oyster Cocktail

1 1-2 pints small oysters
Lettuce
8 lemon quarters
Paprika

Carefully look over oysters and remove all shell bits. Chill. Line small cups with lettuce. Add oysters, garnish with lemon and sprinkle with paprika. The sauce can be passed or small portions added just before oysters are served.

Sauce

1-2 cup chilli sauce
2 tablespoons catsup
1 tablespoon horseradish
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1-4 teaspoon paprika



Spring Styles Shown

By Adlaide Kerr
(Associated Press Fashions Editor)

PARIS, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Flowers bloomed again in the Paris fashion field when Patou launched his new mid-season mode for advance spring wear.

Flower printed cire satins and taffetas fashioned some of the frocks which will be seen at evening parties and big bright twin flowers gave a springlike accent to dinner and dance frocks.

Black cire satins splashed with white, rose and fuchsia flowers and taffetas printed with multicolored blooms were designed with skirts which were almost tube slender in front and had all the fullness thrust to the back. Their decolletes, which plunged low in the back, were fashioned with two tapering shoulder straps of velvet recalling one color in the flower print. Flower trims on other frocks were designed to give a bold accent, as two brilliant orange flowers caught at the waistline base of a black crepe gown.

Drapery seen in plain crepes and printed georgettes was a much simpler affair than the complicated swathings shown earlier in the season. New evening gowns confined their drapes to horizontal, body-molding shirrings around the hips or bodice or to long twin panels drawn from the hemline back to the shoulders.

Night time tailleurs, sleek and slim as a greyhound, were an important item in the collection, indicating this type of costume is finding increasing favor both with dressmakers and their clienteles for theater and restaurant dinner wear.

Patou launched them in black lace, crepe and cire satin with sheath instep-length skirts as slender as a reed and short fitted jackets. Their blouses were big sleeved designs of black chiffon or silver threaded black organza having big bishop sleeves, or models of shimmering shell pink bugle beads with brief cap sleeves. Some were worn with toques of dull braided straw finished with brief visor brims and standing feather trims.

Hats for advance spring daytime wear were pert straw toques or big straws with low crowns and wide brims which curled up at the side back or all around. Most of their trims were simple ribbon cockades.

2-3 cup nuts, broken
1 1-2 teaspoons vanilla

2 cups milk
3 eggs, beaten

Mix pumpkin with sugar, spices, salt, vanilla, butter and milk. Add eggs and beat well. Pour into tart cases. Bake in hot oven 10 minutes, lower fire and bake 25 minutes in moderately slow oven.

Fashion Dictates Cap

Girls who would like to be flagged from the stag line at dances this winter must wear, according to the dictates of fashion, a Juliet cap of pearls or a snood of interlaced black velvet or gold mesh. Flowers are also being worn. The natural flower may be chosen for its color accents and any flower that accents the costume, be it a marigold or a few beige-brown button chrysanthemums, may grace the head that has sense enough to choose to wear it with a luscious brown velvet with gold incrustations and bronze slippers.

For evening it's velvet taffeta or satin, with accordion pleated chiffon to make a goddess of the girl who never studied Greek. This is the year when all gorgeous color has come to give a lift to those who have had inhibitions about the shades they longed to wear.

The taffeta dress is one that interests both the maid and the matron. It may have a laced bodice, peasant style, but the skirt will fly out in an enormous sail in the back, or it may widen from the hip line into a vast cone. Satin will almost stand alone this season, slipper satin leading. The dark reds may be garnet, dubonnet or wine, for it is up to your style sense to choose the combination. Deep red shades combined with rich shell pink or deep rose shade in satin are among the seasons delights.

Wine red velvet capes worn over pink taffeta dresses or pale pink satins are another combination few can resist. Taffeta, too, is sturdy enough to upholster a chair, for it is winter-weight taffeta. The long scarf which may be looped about the arm, thrown over the shoulder to make hem-touching streamers, or wound about the shoulder as if to avoid a draft, is a feature of both velvet and chiffon dresses.

Barkdull Faulk Group

The relation of the home to civic life and the management of the home will be studied by the study club of the Barkdull Faulk School Parent-Teacher association during the year.

The lesson at the November meeting of the group was presented by Mrs. Virginia Newman. She spoke on factors necessary in developing the right kind of attitudes in children, saying in part:

"Parents sometimes leave to school and Sunday school teachers the task of teaching their children important facts that they should teach them at home. Parents should not neglect their plain duty, for as the home is, so is the child, and as the children are, so is the country.

"Parents are after all the greatest educators we have, because they have the children in the formative age, and home influence is the strongest in the life of the child.

"Some of the things we can teach them at home are respect for law and order, harmonious home atmosphere. See that their attitudes toward people are right. Teach them the ability to meet new conditions without fear. Teach them poise. Give them well defined habits and teach them respect for time and orderliness."

Sherrouse P.-T. A.

Fathers were honor guests at the November meeting or the Sherrouse school P.-T. A. of the Louisiana Congress of Parents and Teachers. They were served a delicious chicken spaghetti supper.

Mrs. John McCarthy, membership chairman, reported a 100 per cent membership. This committee visited nearly every home represented in the school in obtaining members.

Mrs. H. M. Harrell was asked to plan the Christmas party given the children of the school annually by the P.-T. A.

In presenting the program, "Geography as a Basis for World Citizenship," several fourth grade pupils under Miss Edwards gave a geography lesson. Questions were asked and answered. Then Edward Brown made a splendid talk on how geographical conditions have been the causes of wars. Economic conditions as well, he showed, have caused several of the later wars.

A vote of thanks was given for a first aid kit donated by Mrs. D. R. Teel, for a picture painted by Mrs. H. M. James and for a wool comfort made by Mrs. Fred Wetzel to be auctioned in the near future for the benefit of the school.

Miss Edwards' room was given a book for having the largest number of parents present at the meeting.

The year books prepared by the program chairman, Mrs. H. M. Linquist, ably assisted by Mr. Linquist, "a real P.-T. A. father," were distributed.

Mrs. V. Newman stressed the influence of an intelligently planned home in a community.

Mrs. J. G. Durrett introduced the subject of the motion picture machine in the modern school. A number of mothers responded with interesting illustrations of marked advancement noted in their children's school work since visual education has been made a part of Georgia Tucker school curriculum. Mrs. Sam Adler added several points of interest about motion pictures in the Alexandria schools.

The Georgia Tucker child study group will meet again on the second Thursday in December at 2 p.m. in the kindergarten room of the school.

Turkey Still Thanksgiving Favorite, But Its Stuffing Varies With Locale

By Louise Bennett Weaver
(Author of "Helping the Homemaker")

The Thanksgiving dinner in American homes may be a streamlined version of the bulky banquet of grandmother's time, but turkey and stuffing remain the people's No. 1 choice for the great feast day.

Stuffing is almost as sacred to the Thanksgiving tradition as turkey and cranberries. The New Englander may call for chestnuts in his stuffing, the Texan may demand cornbread, the Minnesotan wild rice, but stuffing of one variety or another is a time-honored feature of the feast.

The stuffing should be packed loosely in the fowl to prevent sogginess and allow for expansion during roasting. This makes a light and fluffy food.

Separate Table For Children

Many share the gala spirit of the day with friends as well as family. Possibly a combination meal can be planned which will lessen cost and preparation effort.

A separate table for the children frequently adds to their comfort and enjoyment of the meal as well as the pleasure of the adults.

The employed housewife will profit by looking over her grocery store's shelves where she can procure delectable canned and packaged foods from canapes to date puddings. They are quite reasonable in price and will save time and labor.

The repast may be bountiful. Yet a simpler feast will be no less festive and commemorate the true spirit of this Thanksgiving day.

Recipes follow:

Oyster Cocktail

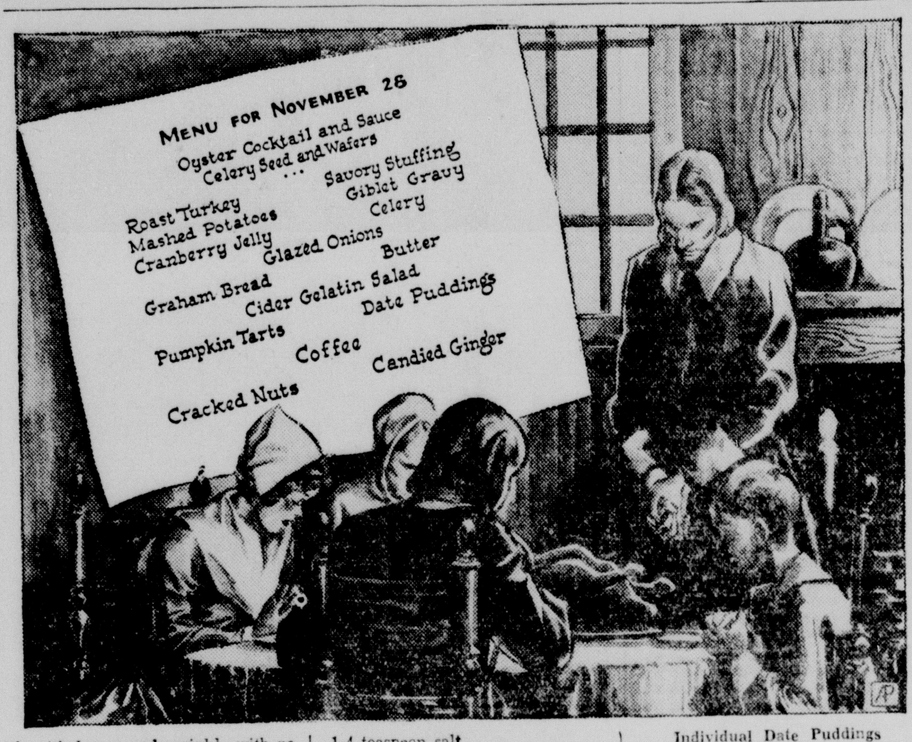
1 1-2 pints small oysters
Lettuce
8 lemon quarters
Paprika

Carefully look over oysters and remove all shell bits. Chill. Line small cups with lettuce. Add oysters, garnish with lemon and sprinkle with paprika. The sauce can be passed or small portions added just before oysters are served.

Sauce

1-2 cup chilli sauce
2 tablespoons catsup
1 tablespoon horseradish
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1-4 teaspoon paprika
1-4 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon sugar

Mix and chill ingredients and serve in small glass dish.



Glazed Onions

12 medium sized onions
2 quarts water
2 tablspoons butter
1-4 cup boiling water
1 tablespoon sugar
1-4 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon pepper

Peel onions, add to water. Slowly bring to boil, drain and cover by 3 inches with cold water. Bring to boil again and repeat draining. Cover again with cold water. Boil 15 minutes. Drain well and add rest of ingredients. Simmer 5 minutes, stirring constantly.

Onions cooked in this way will have much of the "strong flavor" removed.

Cider Gelatin Salad

1 package orange flavored gelatin mixture
1-2 cup pineapple juice
1 1-2 cups cider
1-2 cup diced pineapple
1-2 cup diced celery
1-4 cup almonds
1-8 teaspoon salt

Heat pineapple juice until boiling, add gelatin mixture and stir until dissolved. Cool, add rest of ingredients. Pour into individual molds and chill until stiff. Unmold on lettuce and top with salad dressing.

Individual Date Puddings

1 1-2 cups sugar
1-2 cup flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
4 egg yolks
1 1-2 cups chopped dates
2-3 cup nuts, broken
1 1-2 teaspoons vanilla
1-2 teaspoon lemon extract
1-4 teaspoon salt
4 egg whites, beaten

Blend sugar with flour, baking powder and yolks. Add rest of ingredients, mixing lightly. Fill buttered molds, such as baking dishes or custard cups. Set in pan and add 2-3 inch water. Bake 40 minutes in moderately slow oven. Cool and unmold.

Pumpkin Tarts

8 unbaked tart cases
2 cups cooked pumpkin
1 1-3 cups sugar
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon cloves
1-2 teaspoon nutmeg
2-3 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon butter, melted
2 cups milk
3 eggs, beaten

Mix pumpkin with sugar, spices, salt, vanilla, butter and milk. Add eggs and beat well. Pour into tart cases. Bake in hot oven 10 minutes, lower fire and bake 25 minutes in moderately slow oven.

Spring Styles Shown

By Adlaide Kerr
(Associated Press Fashions Editor)

PARIS, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Flowers bloomed again in the Paris fashion field when Patou launched his new mid-season mode for advance spring wear.

Flower printed cire satins and taffetas fashioned some of the frocks which will be seen at evening parties and big bright twin flowers gave a springlike accent to dinner and dance frocks.

Black cire satins splashed with white, rose and fuchsia flowers and taffetas printed with multicolored blooms were designed with skirts which were almost tube slender in front and had all the fullness thrust to the back. Their decolletes, which plunged low in the back, were fashioned with two tapering shoulder straps of velvet recalling one color in the flower print. Flower trims on other frocks were designed to give a bold accent, as two brilliant orange flowers caught at the waistline base of a black crepe gown.

Drapery seen in plain crepes and printed georgettes was a much simpler affair than the complicated swathings shown earlier in the season. New evening gowns confined their drapes to horizontal, body-molding shirrings around the hips or bodice or to long twin panels drawn from the hemline back to the shoulders.

Night time tailleurs, sleek and slim as a greyhound, were an important item in the collection, indicating this type of costume is finding increasing favor both with dressmakers and their clienteles for theater and restaurant dinner wear.

Patou launched them in black lace, crepe and cire satin with sheath instep-length skirts as slender as a reed and short fitted jackets. Their blouses were big sleeved designs of black chiffon or silver threaded black organza having big bishop sleeves, or models of shimmering shell pink bugle beads with brief cap sleeves. Some were worn with toques of dull braided straw finished with brief visor brims and standing feather trims.

Hats for advance spring daytime wear were pert straw toques or big straws with low crowns and wide brims which curled up at the side back or all around. Most of their trims were simple ribbon cockades.

Mrs. Ted Mahr, Mrs. Lizzie Morris and Mrs. F. X. Shaughnessy motored over to Vicksburg, Miss., to attend the funeral services of the late Mr. J. J. Mulverhill, father of Mrs. John Devereaux of this city.

Fashion Dictates Cap

Girls who would like to be flagged from the stag line at dances this winter must wear, according to the dictates of fashion, a Juliet cap of pearls or a snood of interlaced black velvet or gold mesh. Flowers are also being worn. The natural flower may be chosen for its color accents and any flower that accents the costume, be it a marigold or a few beige-brown button chrysanthemums, may grace the head that has sense enough to choose to wear it with a luscious brown velvet with gold incrustations and bronze slippers.

For evening it's velvet taffeta or satin, with accordion pleated chiffon to make a goddess of the girl who never studied Greek. This is the year when all gorgeous color has come to give a lift to those who have had inhibitions about the shades they longed to wear.

The taffeta dress is one that interests both the maid and the matron. It may have a laced bodice, peasant style, but the skirt will fly out in an enormous sail in the back, or it may widen from the hip line into a vast cone. Satin will almost stand alone this season, slipper satin leading. The dark reds may be garnet, dubonnet or wine, for it is up to your style sense to choose the combination. Deep red shades combined with rich shell pink or deep rose shade in satin are among the seasons delights.

Wine red velvet capes worn over pink taffeta dresses or pale pink satins are another combination few can resist. Taffeta, too, is sturdy enough to upholster a chair, for it is winter-weight taffeta. The long scarf which may be looped about the arm, thrown over the shoulder to make hem-touching streamers, or wound about the shoulder as if to avoid a draft, is a feature of both velvet and chiffon dresses.

Musical Coterie To Give Christmas Concert December 8

Bach, Handel Numbers To Be On Rich Program

ocal Organization Sponsors Noteworthy Contribution To The Festival Spirit Of Yuletide

Candles pricking the twilight of a December Sabbath—sublime organ music rich in warm emotional melodies—figured in crimson vestments—voices lifted in songs set to the glorious music of Bach and Handel—violin sonatas, pulsating with Bach's early and vivid imagination—such is the appeal of the twilight musical to be presented by members of the Musical Coterie Sunday afternoon, December the eighth, at four o'clock at Grace church.

Musicians disagree in most matters concerning music, but regarding the supreme greatness of Bach they are unanimous. This is one of the reasons why members of the Musical Coterie decided to observe the 250th anniversary of the birth of Bach and Handel with a twilight musical hour as part of their annual contribution toward appreciation of good music.

With the spring's beginning, March 21, 1685, Bach came int othe world and brought to it a newer, richer spring of music than it had ever known. The singing of Bach's music is becoming increasingly popular in this country, and especially at this season of the year when thoughts are of tenderness and peace.

Members of the Musical Coterie are striving to inject a spiritual influence in music and that led them straight to Bach. Most of his music breathes devotional fervor derived from unbounded religious faith. The glory of God, the majesty of death have never been more plausible to the mind of man than in some eight or sixteen measures of a Bach chorale. According to one music enthusiast, "Bach's music breathes immortal life and lifts us from out the narrowing conceptions of space and time."

No greater contribution to the music of the Christmas season will be made than the hour devoted to Bach and Handel at Grace church on the eighth of December. A cordial welcome is extended the public generally to be the guests of the Musical Coterie.

CHAPTER VIII

Mr. Lewis, like his wife seemed to be of a friendly disposition. He was gently jocose with Jean, assuring her that Sandy had been able neither to sleep nor eat properly since he had met her.

"All I've heard," he said, "since that other night, has been a lot of stuff about some beautiful mama with golden hair."

He sat slumped down in his chair and looked at Jean with sly impudence.

"Is that right, Sandy?" she asked.

"It's been worse than that," said Sandy lugubriously. "It's getting me down. I'm wasting away to a shadow."

"Too bad about you," she said lightly. "You look healthy enough."

The music stopped, and Bobby and Eve came back to the table. Bobby was duly introduced to Mr. Lewis, and as they sat down Jean discovered that her conscience was trying to make itself heard again.

"There you go," said Conscience. "You're egging him on."

"I'm not," said Jean indignantly. "Can't I say anything to him?"

"You were jealous when you saw Sandy with Eve, but you weren't jealous a bit when Bobby danced with her," said Conscience.

"I won't listen to you any longer," said Jean firmly.

A ripple of laughter greeted her as she emerged from this bit of self-communion. Bobby had just told some funny incident or other that had occurred that afternoon while he tried to sell an automobile to a pompous dowager.

"She said, 'Only twenty-five hundred? That isn't nearly enough!'" he repeated.

Mr. Lewis looked at him with interest.

"So you sell autos, do you?" he asked.

"Well, I try to."

"Mmm. Who you with?"

"State Auto Sales, Incorporated."

"Uh. That's Mark Hopkins' agency, isn't it?"

"Yeah."

"Who's Mark Hopkins, dear?" asked Eve.

"Oh," said her husband, "he's quite a guy. He runs this big auto agency here, and he's a sort of a sport promoter on the side. I guess he's in politics some, too, isn't he?"

"I guess so,' said Bobby.

Lewis stared at the drink which the waiter put in front of him, and held the glass cupped in his hand for a long time, studying it intently.

"Listen," he said to Bobby at last. "You and I might be able to do some business, one of these days."

Bobby leaned forward eagerly.

"Yeah," went on Lewis. "I'm going to be needing a new car. Might as well let you sell it to me, I guess."

He yawned lazily.

"That'd be swell," said Bobby.

Lewis continued to look at his glass.

"Trouble is," he said, "I got a little deal to put over, first."

Bobby looked at him expectantly. Eve also turned to her husband.

"Now, listen," she said, "let's not talk business here. We're supposed to be here for recreation tonight. Besides . . . " Her voice trailed off uncertainly.

"Okay," said Lewis, good-naturedly. "Tell you what; when we're ready to leave, let's all buzz out to our place for a coupla minutes. Then you girls can fix up a little midnight lunch, and while you do Mr. Wallace and I can talk business. How about it?"

It was agreed, and the subject was dropped. There was more dancing, much gay conversation and joking, and at last Eve yawned elaborately and announced that it was getting late. It was 10 o'clock. They left the night club and walked half a block to where a large, expensive sedan was parked by the curb. Lewis unlocked it and slipped in behind the wheel; and Jean wondered, vaguely, why he should be wanting a new car when he already owned such a fine one.

Fifteen minutes later they drew up before an ornate apartment hotel on the western side of town. He left the car at the curb, ushered them into the lobby and conducted them up to a sixth-floor suite.

They entered a roomy, well-furnished living room. Eve sank into an overstuffed chair and announced, "I'm too full to want any midnight lunch, and I bet all the rest of you are, too. Go ahead and talk business, if you want to."

Bobby found himself seated on a couch beside Lewis. Lewis lighted a cigar and said, "Well, it's like this. Your boss, Hopkins, has got a special job out there I want. It's a sedan, and he wants $10,000 for it."

Bobby gaped at him.

"I didn't know we had any jobs out there that cost that much," he said.

"This is a special job, I said," said Lewis. "Custom-built, and all. Anyhow, that's the car I want. Now listen."

He crossed the room suddenly, went to a desk, unlocked a drawer and took out a long, bulky envelope. He brought this back and resumed his seat on the couch.

"In here," he said, hefting the envelope meditatively. "I've got some bonds. They have a face value of $14,000, and they're good as old wheat in the bin. But I've got to be careful what I do with 'em."

He looked at Bobby.

"I got these," he said, "from a friend of mine in Chicago, in settlement for a debt. As I say, they're worth a hundred cents on the dollar, anywhere. But here's the catch. This friend of mine is in politics, out in Chi, and he got the bonds from a bird who runs a string of dog-racing tracks and such around that neck of the woods.

"The deal was perfectly o. k., but since then the dog track man has got into a jam with the county grand jury and they're investigating all of his deals. Now, the trouble is this: those bonds are registered, and if they once turn up anywhere they can be traced right back to him. And you see, it would look bad for this politician friend of mine if it should become known that he had got them from this bird who is in such a jam."

He tapped Bobby's knee with the envelope.

"You know how it is," he said. "Everything was all right—only it would look bad. It'd be poison, in fact, plain poison, as far as my friend is concerned. He just don't dare have these bonds come to light until this blows over. That's why he let 'em go to me at a discount, and that's why I've got to do the same thing, because I don't want to market them at a bank or broker's office in the regular way."

He paused again, and looked at Bobby fixedly.

"Now then," he went on. "I want a car that costs ten grand. I got these bonds that are worth fourteen and a half—if a fellow can hold 'em a year or two. I'd be willing to let 'em go for the price of the car, if I could find a fellow that'd take 'em off my hands that way. See?"

"But listen," said Bobby, slightly confused, "I haven't got the capital to swing a deal like that. I can't buy your bonds and hold 'em a year."

"No, no, of course not," said Lewis smoothly. "But look; suppose you or the young lady here"—he gestured toward Jean—"suppose you happen to know somebody that can. You sell them to him. You can get more than ten grand for 'em. You could probably shove 'em for twelve, without trouble. That way you make a nice cut for yourself. See what I mean?"

Bobby leaned back and wrinkled his brows. "You mean," he said slowly, "that it would amount to my buying them from you for ten, selling them for twelve, and pocketing the difference?"

"That's it. Only you wouldn't have to put up any cash yourself."

Bobby meditated.

"The only trouble is that I don't believe I know anybody that could swing it," he said.

"I bet Daddy would do it," said Jean suddenly. They looked at her. Lewis laughed and shook his head.

"No, sister," he said. "Your dad's a banker. We could sell them to any banker. What we want to do is place them with somebody that'd be willing to keep them in a safety deposit box for a year before he either sold them or clipped the coupons."

Jean sat with her hands clasped about her knees. Bobby was slowly shaking his head.

"It's just no use, I guess," he said. "Gee, I'm sorry. I could use that dough." He looked wistfully at Jean.

"Well," said Lewis. "Think it over. And there's this, too; I buy that car from your agency, and you're the salesman on the deal, so you get your commission there as well."

"That'd be swell," said Bobby.

"Think it over," said Lewis. "Listen—give me your phone number. I'll give you a buzz in a day or so—huh?"

Bobby agreed; and later—after Sandy had driven him home, dropping Jean at her apartment en route—he sat long in thought over this peculiar, but dazzling, proposition.

"If I could make two thousand dollars," he said suddenly, "I could ask Jean to marry me. She would marry me, then—she's practically said so. Oh, doggone it, who do I know that's got money, anyhow?"

He smoked two cigarets while he thought futilely over this problem; then, at last, an inspiration struck him. He reached for his telephone and called up Jean. After a long wait her sleepy voice answered.

"Jean honey—listen," he said. "You know what we were talking about tonight—about those bonds?"

"Yes," she said sleepily.

"I bet I know who'd buy them," he said. "Will you introduce me to him, so I can try to sell them to him?"

"Who is it?"

"Your boss—Mr. Montague!"

Musical Coterie To Give Christmas Concert December 8

Bach, Handel Numbers To Be On Rich Program

Local Organization Sponsors Noteworthy Contribution To The Festival Spirit Of Yuletide

Candles pricking the twilight of a December Sabbath—sublime organ music rich in warm emotional melodies—figured in crimson vestments—voices lifted in songs set to the glorious music of Bach and Handel—violin sonatas, pulsating with Bach's early and vivid imagination—such is the appeal of the twilight musical to be presented by members of the Musical Coterie Sunday afternoon, December the eighth, at four o'clock at Grace church.

Musicians disagree in most matters concerning music, but regarding the supreme greatness of Bach they are unanimous. This is one of the reasons why members of the Musical Coterie decided to observe the 250th anniversary of the birth of Bach and Handel with a twilight musical hour as part of their annual contribution toward appreciation of good music.

With the spring's beginning, March 21, 1685, Bach came int othe world and brought to it a newer, richer spring of music than it had ever known. The singing of Bach's music is becoming increasingly popular in this country, and especially at this season of the year when thoughts are of tenderness and peace.

Members of the Musical Coterie are striving to inject a spiritual influence in music and that led them straight to Bach. Most of his music breathes devotional fervor derived from unbounded religious faith. The glory of God, the majesty of death have never been more plausible to the mind of man than in some eight or sixteen measures of a Bach chorale. According to one music enthusiast, "Bach's music breathes immortal life and lifts us from out the narrowing conceptions of space and time."

No greater contribution to the music of the Christmas season will be made than the hour devoted to Bach and Handel at Grace church on the eighth of December. A cordial welcome is extended the public generally to be the guests of the Musical Coterie.

CHAPTER VIII

Mr. Lewis, like his wife seemed to be of a friendly disposition. He was gently jocose with Jean, assuring her that Sandy had been able neither to sleep nor eat properly since he had met her.

"All I've heard," he said, "since that other night, has been a lot of stuff about some beautiful mama with golden hair."

He sat slumped down in his chair and looked at Jean with sly impudence.

"Is that right, Sandy?" she asked.

"It's been worse than that," said Sandy lugubriously. "It's getting me down. I'm wasting away to a shadow."

"Too bad about you," she said lightly. "You look healthy enough."

The music stopped, and Bobby and Eve came back to the table. Bobby was duly introduced to Mr. Lewis, and as they sat down Jean discovered that her conscience was trying to make itself heard again.

"There you go," said Conscience. "You're egging him on."

"I'm not," said Jean indignantly. "Can't I say anything to him?"

"You were jealous when you saw Sandy with Eve, but you weren't jealous a bit when Bobby danced with her," said Conscience.

"I won't listen to you any longer," said Jean firmly.

A ripple of laughter greeted her as she emerged from this bit of self-communion. Bobby had just told some funny incident or other that had occurred that afternoon while he tried to sell an automobile to a pompous dowager.

"She said, 'Only twenty-five hundred? That isn't nearly enough!' " he repeated.

Mr. Lewis looked at him with interest.

"So you sell autos, do you?" he asked.

"Well, I try to."

"Mmm. Who you with?"

"State Auto Sales, Incorporated."

"Uh. That's Mark Hopkins' agency, isn't it?"

"Yeah."

"Who's Mark Hopkins, dear?" asked Eve.

"Oh," said her husband, "he's quite a guy. He runs this big auto agency here, and he's a sort of a sport promoter on the side. I guess he's in politics some, too, isn't he?"

"I guess so,' 'said Bobby.

Lewis stared at the drink which the waiter put in front of him, and held the glass cupped in his hand for a long time, studying it intently.

"Listen," he said to Bobby at last. "You and I might be able to do some business, one of these days."

Bobby leaned forward eagerly.

"Yeah," went on Lewis, "I'm going to be needing a new car. Might as well let you sell it to me, I guess."

He yawned lazily.

"That'd be swell," said Bobby.

Lewis continued to look at his glass.

"Trouble is," he said, "I got a little deal to put over, first."

Bobby looked at him expectantly. Eve also turned to her husband.

"Now, listen," she said, "let's not talk business here. We're supposed to be here for recreation tonight. Besides . . . " Her voice trailed off uncertainly.

Chef Who Cooks F. D. R.'s Turkey Tells Thanksgiving Menu For 1935

(President Roosevelt will have turkey, pumpkin pie, and plum pudding for his Thanksgiving dinner at Georgia Warm Springs foundation this year. C. M. Stephens, foundation chef, describes how the President's meal is prepared and gives information on how you can cook your bird and make the stuffing and salad.)

By C. M. Stephens
(Chef, Georgia Warm Springs Foundation)
(Written for Associated Press)

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 23.—Just like most average American citizens, President Roosevelt will sit down to a table ladened with turkey, plum pudding and pumpkin pie when he eats his Thanksgiving day dinner here.

Following his usual custom, the president will be at the foundation for his Thanksgiving feast. And, to suit his usual appetite, these three dishes—turkey, plum pudding and pumpkin pie—again will be the main part of the meal.

I have prepared the following menu:

Menu For F. D. R.

Toasted Salted Georgia Pecans
Crisp Hearts of Celery
Assorted Olives
Fruit Cocktail
Roast Sliced Turkey Sage Dressing
Cranberry Sauce
Gravy Hot Rolls
Creamed Parsley Botato Balls
English Peas in Patty Shell
Julienne Carrots
Harvester Salad
Plum Pudding Hard Sauce
Pumpkin Pie Demi Tasse

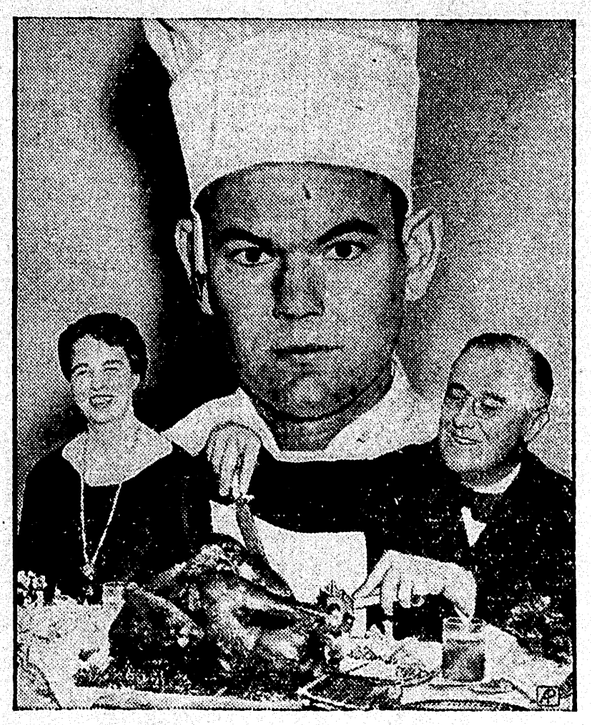
The turkey, of course, is the main part of the Thanksgiving dinner. A 10-pound bird is ideal for 6 or 8 persons. When the turkey is ready to cook, rub the inside of the bird with 1 tablespoon of salt, and stuff.

Making The Stuffing

In making the sage stuffing for a 10-pound turkey, use six medium-size onions, chopped. Cut the fowl's liver in small cubes. Soak five cups of bread crumbs in cold water and squeeze dry. Salt and pepper to suit taste. Then add three tablespoons of butter to the frying pan and when melted and hot, add the chopped onions and liver and fry until tender. Add crumbs, salt and pepper, a little powdered sage and chopped parsley, and add garlic chopped, if desired. Then let it all cook, constantly stirring until almost dry. Then the stuffing is ready.

To stuff and truss the bird, begin by placing spoonsful of stuffing in the neck end, using enough to fill the skin. Fold the wings close to the body and hold them by inserting two skewers through the wing, body and wing on the opposite side. Fasten the thighs in the same way with one skewer. Cross the drumsticks and tie with a cord fastened to the tail with a skewer. Draw the skin over the neck and fasten to back with skewer. Rub the outside of the bird with 1 1-2 tablespoons of salt, 5 tablespoons of fat, and 2 tablespoons of flour mixed together.

Lay the turkey, breast down, in an open roasting pan and place in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.). When brown, turn the fowl on its back, basting every 15 or 20 minutes with 3-4 cup water and 1-2 cup melted butter. Cook for 20 to 25 minutes to the pound, depending on the age of the bird.



Harvester Salad

Harvester salad, which will be placed before President Roosevelt this Thanksgiving, can be prepared for six persons as follows:

1½ cups red apples, cored, peeled and diced
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1½ cups bleached celery, diced
1½ cups dates, chopped
¾ cup mayonnaise
Dash salt

Combine the apples with the lemon juice. Blend the apples, celery, dates and salt with the mayonnaise. Serve on crisp lettuce.

All members of the class planned the affair, and the following girls served as committee chairmen: Marie Bruce, invitations; Myrtis Bullock, decoration; Dorothy Mae Denham, refreshments; Loreta Gilliland, recreation. Favors were pinned on the children as they entered and a number of games and contests were held. Ada Andrews told a Thanksgiving story and Miss DeLoney entertained with a negro reading. Clarks

Mr. and Mrs. Durwood Pettijohn celebrated the seventh birthday of their son, Billy Gilbert, by giving a Thanksgiving party for him.

Children's games, indoors and on the lawn, provided entertainment. An interesting feature was pinning the donkey's tail on, at which Clyde Allen, Jr., was most successful, and received the prize.

But all other pleasures were overshadowed when the guests were invited to the dining room for the refreshment course. The table linens carried out the Thanksgiving color scheme. In the center of the table was a large glass bowl overflowing with packages for each guest. They were wrapped in myriad colored tissues and tied with ribbons that extended to each place card. When drawn, each revealed a fortune and colored candies. An attractive background for the table was formed with colored balloons and yellow cosmos lavishly used.

The large white birthday cake was baked by Mrs. S. G. Hines, grandmother of the little honoree. It was beautifully embossed in white, ornately trimmed in pink and white frosting, with "Happy Birthday" and seven candles arranged on the top. After the party sang "Happy Birthday," the candles were blown out, and the cake cut and served with hot chocolate. The balloons were given each child as a party favor.

The young host was presented with many nice gifts from the following: Mrs. Delbert Rogers, Ethel Rose Rogers, Mrs. U. N. Bradford, Gloria Ann Bradford, Mrs. W. S. Howell, Mrs. L. L. (Written for Associated Press)

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 23.—Just like most average American citizens, President Roosevelt will sit down to a table ladened with turkey, plum pudding and pumpkin pie when he eats his Thanksgiving day dinner here.

Following his usual custom, the president will be at the foundation for his Thanksgiving feast. And, to suit his usual appetite, these three dishes—turkey, plum pudding and pumpkin pie—again will be the main part of the meal.

I have prepared the following menu:

Menu For F. D. R.

Toasted Salted Georgia Pecans
Crisp Hearts of Celery
Assorted Olives
Fruit Cocktail
Roast Sliced Turkey Sage Dressing
Cranberry Sauce
Gravy Hot Rolls
Creamed Parsley Botato Balls
English Peas in Patty Shell
Julienne Carrots
Harvester Salad
Plum Pudding Hard Sauce
Pumpkin Pie Demi Tasse

The turkey, of course, is the main part of the Thanksgiving dinner. A 10-pound bird is ideal for 6 or 8 persons. When the turkey is ready to cook, rub the inside of the bird with 1 tablespoon of salt, and stuff.

Making The Stuffing

In making the sage stuffing for a 10-pound turkey, use six medium-size onions, chopped. Cut the fowl's liver in small cubes. Soak five cups of bread crumbs in cold water and squeeze dry. Salt and pepper to suit taste. Then add three tablespoons of butter to the frying pan and when melted and hot, add the chopped onions and liver and fry until tender. Add crumbs, salt and pepper, a little powdered sage and chopped parsley, and add garlic chopped, if desired. Then let it all cook, constantly stirring until almost dry. Then the stuffing is ready.

To stuff and truss the bird, begin by placing spoonsful of stuffing in the neck end, using enough to fill the skin. Fold the wings close to the body and hold them by inserting two skewers through the wing, body and wing on the opposite side. Fasten the thighs in the same way with one skewer. Cross the drumsticks and tie with a cord fastened to the tail with a skewer. Draw the skin over the neck and fasten to back with skewer. Rub the outside of the bird with 1 1-2 tablespoons of salt, 5 tablespoons of fat, and 2 tablespoons of flour mixed together.

Lay the turkey, breast down, in an open roasting pan and place in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.). When brown, turn the fowl on its back, basting every 15 or 20 minutes with 3-4 cup water and 1-2 cup melted butter. Cook for 20 to 25 minutes to the pound, depending on the age of the bird.

Harvester Salad

Harvester salad, which will be placed before President Roosevelt this Thanksgiving, can be prepared for six persons as follows:

1½ cups red apples, cored, peeled and diced
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1½ cups bleached celery, diced
1½ cups dates, chopped
¾ cup mayonnaise
Dash salt

Combine the apples with the lemon juice. Blend the apples, celery, dates and salt with the mayonnaise. Serve on crisp lettuce.

Children's games, indoors and on the lawn, provided entertainment. An interesting feature was pinning the donkey's tail on, at which Clyde Allen, Jr., was most successful, and received the prize.

But all other pleasures were overshadowed when the guests were invited to the dining room for the refreshment course. The table linens carried out the Thanksgiving color scheme. In the center of the table was a large glass bowl overflowing with packages for each guest. They were wrapped in myriad colored tissues and tied with ribbons that extended to each place card. When drawn, each revealed a fortune and colored candies. An attractive background for the table was formed with colored balloons and yellow cosmos lavishly used.

The large white birthday cake was baked by Mrs. S. G. Hines, grandmother of the little honoree. It was beautifully embossed in white, ornately trimmed in pink and white frosting, with "Happy Birthday" and seven candles arranged on the top. After the party sang "Happy Birthday," the candles were blown out, and the cake cut and served with hot chocolate. The balloons were given each child as a party favor.

Laughton And Gable Head Cast In 'Mutiny On The Bounty'

Sea Drama Playing At Paramount

Spectacular Film Shows Notable Chapter Of Maritime History

MUTINY on the Bounty! Four words that paint in the minds of every lover of sea adventure vivid pictures of life on the bounding main, the whine of a bos'n's "cat" on a seaman's back, th crackle of billowed sails, paradise in the South Seas, hardships, the stern arm of the law of the set—but above all adventure.

"Mutiny on the Bounty," which opened yesterday at the Paramount theater, cannot be compared to any other film achievement. It stands alone and far above anything of its kind that has ever been filmed or which may be filmed for years to come.

Resulted in Reform

It is sea drama as it actually took place a hundred and fifty years ago, a true chapter from maritime history that resulted in a great reform among all ships of the sea and which eliminated for all time the brutal treatment men who go to sea expected and suffered.

"Mutiny on the Bounty" has been faithfully reproduced from the sensational book by James Norman Hall and Charles Nordhoff, in so far as the medium of motion pictures permits. It tells the story as Hall and Nordhoff told it.

The little square-rigger, H. M. S. Bounty, sails for the South Seas on a scientific mission to transplant breadfruit to the West Indies. Her crew is a motley one of convicts and bewildered wretches "pressed" into service. Her skipper is tyrannical Captain Bligh, who knows only one law—the merciless law of the sea and an almost fanatical loyalty to the navy and the crown.

Captain Bligh is relived in "Mutiny on the Bounty" by Clark Laughton, who makes of the character a ruthless and harsh disciplinarian. In truth, it is the greatest performance Laughton has ever contributed to the screen.

Gable's Greatest Role

Fletcher Christian, the Master's Mate, comes to use in Clark Gable's finest role. Those throughout the world who have read the book will agree that Gable as Christian, leader of the mutineers, could not have been a better choice.

Quickly the true story of the Bounty progresses—a grumbling crew lashed by interminable storms that lengthened the voyage; living on scant and rotten rations because the captain took the better food; a snarling Captain Bligh raging incessantly at his embittered crew; floggings, death and scurvy. Then the halcyon days that followed when H. M. S. Bounty reaches Tahiti; the soothing influence of native women, fresh food, happiness.

As quickly, it unfolds the start of the return voyage, with Bligh's tyranny driving his men to mutiny, to put him over the side in an open boat.

Adventure after adventure follows the mutiny which has no parallel in naval history—the dogged pursuit of the mutineers years later, the capture of some and their finish on the gallows, the escape of others to Pitcairn Island, where 200 of their descendants live to this day.

Cast Is Impressive

"Mutiny on the Bounty" is a he-man's picture, but a he-man's picture that women, as well, will thrill over. Space forbids the praise deserved by the huge cast—Franchot Tone, as Byam; Dudley Digges, as Bacchus; Herbert Mundin, Donald Crisp, Eddie Quillan, Stanley Fields, Ian Wolfe, Ivan Simpson, DeWitt Jennings, even Mamo and Maria, the native girls, and the fifty more who make up the impressive cast.

Director Frank Lloyd, who will be remembered for his "Cavalcade," has reached the pinnacle of his fame by his direction of "Mutiny on the Bounty."

Cedar rust is a parasite of the cedars, but, due to its peculiar life cycle, it will die out unless there are trees of the apple family nearby, where its spores can alight and develop through each alternate year.

Sylvia Sydney as Mary Burns, in Paramount's great dramatic smash "Mary Burns, Fugitive," the attraction playing the Paramount theater Tuesday and Wednesday. Melvyn Douglas, Alan Baxter, Pert Kelton, Wallace Ford, and Brywn Donlevy are in the notable supporting cast. Here is a dramatic story of a girl who was branded because she once loved a criminal.

Edward G. Robinson, Miriam Hopkins and Joel McCrea in a scene from Samuel Goldwyn's most talked about picture "Barbary Coast," a story of San Francisco's last frontier of untamed emotions, where they took the law in their own hands in the toughest town on earth. Here are Franchot Tone and Charles Laughton in a scene from Metro's two million dollar production "Mutiny on the Bounty," the attraction playing at the Paramount theater today and Monday. Zane Grey Film Plays At Capitol

George O'Brien Heads Cast Of 'Thunder Mountain,' New Western

FROM the exciting opening scenes in the Idaho gold rush right down to the crashing climax, Fox Film's "Thunder Mountain," now at the Capitol theater, carries its star, George O'Brien, through as stirring a series of adventures—softened by a tender romance—as the screen has recorded in many a day.

"Thunder Mountain" is the picturization of Zane Grey's new and popular novel. Its story, plot ramifications, characterizations bear the stamp of Zane Grey's authenticity, the irresistible lure of his outdoor action pictures.

Two women, Barbara Fritchie and Frances Grant, play important roles in the life of George O'Brien, who in this picture is cast as a virile, two-fisted mining prospector.

O'Brien's opponents in the picture are a gang of villainous claim-jumpers, led by Morgan Wallace. After O'Brien has discovered the richest strike in the country and returned to bring Barbara Fritchie and her father to the mine, Wallace's men attack Dean Benton, O'Brien's pal and steal his mine.

His misfortune serves a purpose, however, for it reveals the true nature of Miss Fritchie who now turns to Wallace. One girl, Frances Grant, remains true to O'Brien, attempts to aid him.

As the conflict between the two enemies grows, Benton is killed. O'Brien vows vengeance, but before he can act Wallace has killed one of his own henchmen in an argument and fled the town.

The climax of the picture is devoted to the wild and perilous pursuit. When O'Brien and Wallace meet, a terrific battle ensues and then nature intervenes in a strange and terrible manner, which we are bound not to reveal, to settle the fight.

O'Brien's acting is superlative in a tailor-made role. The surprise performance is that of Frances Grant, a comparative newcomer to the screen. While Barbara Fritchie is excellent as the other woman, and Morgan Wallace is an impressive and credible villain.

HOLLYWOOD.—Edgar Guest, author of some 25,000 poems — or "rhymed philosophies" if you prefer —is an optimist even where a Hollywood shooting schedule is concerned.

Guest arrived to make his picture last month. Now in November, with the starting date not yet set, he expects to be back home in Detroit by Christmas. "Oh, I've got to be home for Christmas," he insists. Which makes him Hollywood's "innocent guest" for sure, film starting dates being the chameleons they are.

This newspaper man who made his fortune writing simple things wants to make his film debut, naturally, in "something simple." He thinks many movies are too complex, that often magnificent settings overshadow story and actors.

'Just A-Visitin' Here'

"If you have a crowd in an art gallery and suddenly two men start a fight, how many people are going to keep looking at the pictures?" he illustrates. "I have an idea that action should overshadow everything else on the screen—but, say! what do I know about all this anyway? I'm just a-visitin' here, after all!"

The "something simple" is being concocted by Scenarist Malcolm Stuart Boylan, but Edgar Guest's dialogue will be by Edgar Guest. It's to be a picture about what it takes a heap o' livin' in, etc.

However the public may receive it (and Universal thinks it will be as popular as its star's writings), Guest himself is now the most liked actor on his lot. He has the sort of gentle, friendly, glad-to-see-you personality that makes friends. He likes people and interviews interviewers.

Lucky Co-Ed

Merrilyn Hartley, a co-ed at the University of California at Los Angeles, was called before the student body "court" for failing to participate in some sort of homecoming exercises for old grads, and that put her picture in the papers.

Which now puts her moving picture on the screen, Columbia studios advise. Marion Gering, director, saw the newsphoto, picked her as a screenable from the several companions in "crime" sharing the photo, and gave her a little role with Ruth Chatterton in "No More Yesterdays."

That "all-Chinese cast" for "The Good Earth" seems to have simmered down now, as far as the leads are concerned, to those stolid Orientals, Paul (Scarface) Muni and Luise (Escapade) Rainier.

While the screen gives forth grand opera, trust Mae West to keep her feet on the ground. Her favorite tune still is 'Frankie and Johnny."

Laughton And Gable Head Cast In 'Mutiny On The Bounty'

Spectacular Film Shows Notable Chapter Of Maritime History

MUTINY on the Bounty! Four words that paint in the minds of every lover of sea adventure vivid pictures of life on the bounding main, the whine of a bos'n's "cat" on a seaman's back, th crackle of billowed sails, paradise in the South Seas, hardships, the stern arm of the law of the set—but above all adventure.

"Mutiny on the Bounty," which opened yesterday at the Paramount theater, cannot be compared to any other film achievement. It stands alone and far above anything of its kind that has ever been filmed or which may be filmed for years to come.

Resulted in Reform

It is sea drama as it actually took place a hundred and fifty years ago, a true chapter from maritime history that resulted in a great reform among all ships of the sea and which eliminated for all time the brutal treatment men who go to sea expected and suffered.

"Mutiny on the Bounty" has been faithfully reproduced from the sensational book by James Norman Hall and Charles Nordhoff, in so far as the medium of motion pictures permits. It tells the story as Hall and Nordhoff told it.

The little square-rigger, H. M. S. Bounty, sails for the South Seas on a scientific mission to transplant breadfruit to the West Indies. Her crew is a motley one of convicts and bewildered wretches "pressed" into service. Her skipper is tyrannical Captain Bligh, who knows only one law—the merciless law of the sea and an almost fanatical loyalty to the navy and the crown.

Captain Bligh is relived in "Mutiny on the Bounty" by Clark Laughton, who makes of the character a ruthless and harsh disciplinarian. In truth, it is the greatest performance Laughton has ever contributed to the screen.

Gable's Greatest Role

Fletcher Christian, the Master's Mate, comes to use in Clark Gable's finest role. Those throughout the world who have read the book will agree that Gable as Christian, leader of the mutineers, could not have been a better choice.

Quickly the true story of the Bounty progresses—a grumbling crew lashed by interminable storms that lengthened the voyage; living on scant and rotten rations because the captain took the better food; a snarling Captain Bligh raging incessantly at his embittered crew; floggings, death and scurvy. Then the halcyon days that followed when H. M. S. Bounty reaches Tahiti; the soothing influence of native women, fresh food, happiness.

As quickly, it unfolds the start of the return voyage, with Bligh's tyranny driving his men to mutiny, to put him over the side in an open boat.

Adventure after adventure follows the mutiny which has no parallel in naval history—the dogged pursuit of the mutineers years later, the capture of some and their finish on the gallows, the escape of others to Pitcairn Island, where 200 of their descendants live to this day.

Cast Is Impressive

"Mutiny on the Bounty" is a he-man's picture, but a he-man's picture that women, as well, will thrill over. Space forbids the praise deserved by the huge cast—Franchot Tone, as Byam; Dudley Digges, as Bacchus; Herbert Mundin, Donald Crisp, Eddie Quillan, Stanley Fields, Ian Wolfe, Ivan Simpson, DeWitt Jennings, even Mamo and Maria, the native girls, and the fifty more who make up the impressive cast.

Director Frank Lloyd, who will be remembered for his "Cavalcade," has reached the pinnacle of his fame by his direction of "Mutiny on the Bounty."

Cedar rust is a parasite of the cedars, but, due to its peculiar life cycle, it will die out unless there are trees of the apple family nearby, where its spores can alight and develop through each alternate year.

Sylvia Sydney as Mary Burns, in Paramount's great dramatic smash "Mary Burns, Fugitive," the attraction playing the Paramount theater Tuesday and Wednesday. Melvyn Douglas, Alan Baxter, Pert Kelton, Wallace Ford, and Brywn Donlevy are in the notable supporting cast. Here is a dramatic story of a girl who was branded because she once loved a criminal.

Edward G. Robinson, Miriam Hopkins and Joel McCrea in a scene from Samuel Goldwyn's most talked about picture "Barbary Coast," a story of San Francisco's last frontier of untamed emotions, where they took the law in their own hands in the toughest town on earth. It is the attraction playing at the Paramount theater Friday and Saturday.

THEATER PLANS FOR OPEN HOUSE

Innovation Will Be Tried Out; Two Plays Are Announced

The Monroe Little theater announces its first annual "open house" program to be held at the Central Grammar school auditorium Friday night at 8 p.m.

While the program is not yet complete, an interesting part of the night's entertainment will be the presentation of "The Pot Boiler," a one-act play under the direction of Miss Sue Hefley, librarian at Northeast Center of Louisiana State university.

"The Pot Boiler" is a comedy-farce based on the production of a play by a group of old-time "meller-dramatic" players, and is the first "workshop" play of the season. Those taking part are Marion Gilliland, Thomas Davenport, Melvin Annish, Howard Willard, Louise Wood, Mrs. D. L. Harris and H. Chapman.

The Little theater is establishing a precedent this season by having an "open house" and inviting all citizens of Monroe and vicinity to attend. There will be no admission charged for the entertainment, and in keeping with the custom, coffee will be served after the presentation of the play.

Work on the first major production, under the direction of Mrs. Blanche Oliver, is progressing rapidly and the date has been set for December 12, at the Central Grammar school at 8 p.m. This production, "The Dover Road," promises to be the most entertaining and enterprising show yet presented in Monroe by a group of amateurs. Despite numerous setbacks and handicaps, the players, under Mrs. Oliver's supervision, have succeeded in reaching a point nearing perfection, with two weeks left for rehearsals.

The board of directors has this year decided not to have a campaign for membership but to sell season tickets at the plays given. On the night of the "open house," season tickets will be on sale and also at the time of the holding of the major production, "The Dover Road."

William Henry Harrison and his wife did not see each other during the time he was president of the United States. Mrs. Harrison was ill at the time of his inauguration and never reached the White House. Harrison died one month after taking office.

SAFETY BAND TO GIVE BROADCAST

Brown Paper Mill Musicians Will Appear In Program At Fort Worth

The Brown Paper mill's famous "Safety Harmonica band," a group of 18 boys, sons of mill employes, will go to Fort Worth, Texas, next Friday to give a concert over the air. It will be the second time that such an organization has ever taken part in a radio broadcast. The first occasion was when the Brown Safety band gave a concert over station KWKH in Shreveport several months ago.

The 18 members of the band with their director, Philip Bernhardt, and the technical instructor, Lawrence Wilson, will leave Monroe Friday morning, arriving at Fort Worth late in the afternoon. The broadcast will be given from 10:30 to 10:45 p. m. over station WBAP, said to be the most powerful station in the south. Reception can be obtained in virtually every part of the United States.

The following program will be given:

"Blue Moon."
"St. Louis Blues."
"Skirts."
"Among My Souvenirs."
"Old Faithful."
"Loveless Love."

The "Skirts" and "Old Faithful" numbers are vocal selections, featuring "Red" Harmon.

The several numbers will be interwoven with a "floating melody," something like a theme song, a technical feature that gives the program the effect of a continuous presentation from beginning to end.

The Brown Safety Harmonica band is one of eight similar organizations in the United States. It has achieved widespread fame in musical circles throughout the country. None of the other harmonica bands is so fully equipped with musical instruments as the local organization.

A recent acquisition to the instrumental equipment was a chord harmonica, the largest instrument of its kind in this country. It will be played by Malcolm Stone. It is said that not more than six or eight of these instruments are in use in the United States. The chord harmonica is 23 inches long. It is built in two tiers, each tier containing 24 chords. Each chord is equipped with eight reeds, or a total of 384 reeds in all. The purpose of the instrument is to increase the volume efficiency of the ensemble.

The members of the Brown Safety Harmonica band, who will take part in the Fort Worth broadcast are:

Solo harmonicas: "Red" Harmon, Durwood Frank, G. B. Simmons, Sidney Stone, Joseph Butler, Jack Sanford.

Chord harmonica: Malcolm Stone.

Harmony harmonica: Lloyd Leonard, Lawrence Wilson, Lynwood Sanford.

Alto harmonicas: Willie Singleton, Wilfred May, Robert Robinson, Eugene Darden, Frank Whitlock.

Bass harmonicas: William Caldwell, L. C. Jackson.

Vocalists: Rex Harmon, L. C. Jackson.

CAMP OUACHITA OPEN TO PUBLIC

The formal opening of Camp Ouachita, of the CCC, located near Calhoun, took place on Friday, and the numerous visitors were well pleased with the place and its complete equipment.

Broad sidewalks, well flanked with native rocks, placed on edge in a substantial and artistic manner extend through the grounds and are said to be approximately one-half mile in length.

The landscaping is such as to attract favorable comment and the entrance has a rustic setting which causes immediate attention.

A friendly atmosphere permeates the camp, and the young men who are attached to it extended courtesies to the visitors, making them feel pleased with the new camp which contains 55 acres including four large barracks, bath house, mess hall, and other quarters. Many visitors attended the modern terrace construction demonstration with tractor and grader.

As the closing number on the day's program was a talk by Congressman Riley J. Wilson who praised the work of the camp and placed emphasis on the soil erosion branch of conservation.

POSTAL RECEIPTS CLIMB

DELHI, La., Nov. 23.—(Special)—J. W. Stegall, Delhi postmaster, stated that business at the local postoffice was far in excess of that done during the entire year of 1934. He said that more individual money orders had been issued to date in 1935 than were issued in 1934. It is the opinion of the postmaster that the total receipts in stamp sales will show an increase of 10 per cent over 1934, at the close of the present year.

SNIPERS KEEP ETHIOPIAN HORDES AT BAY

The marksmanship of Italy's snipers commands respect of the natives in the militarized zone, for those who ignore regulations have felt the sting of the conqueror's bullets. Here, Ray Roussean, NEA Service staff cameraman, pictures snipers on duty in a rock-fortified outpost on a hillside, eyes trained on the brush for snooping natives.

PHYSICIANS ARE COMING TO CITY

Noted Specialists Will Attend Meeting Of Local Society

Unusual interest in the medical world of north Louisiana attaches to the meeting on December 6 of the Fifth District Medical society due to the fact that men of nation-wide fame are to attend and take active part on the program.

Dr. Paul A. O'Leary, of the Mayo clinic, at Rochester, Minn., will address the meeting. He is a specialist of wide fame and his talk will be received with much interest.

But there will be still other famed physicians on the day's program. They are Dr. James S. McLester, of Birmingham, Ala., president of the American Medical society; Dr. Howard Mahorner, of New Orleans, assistant professor of surgery at Tulane university, and Dr. E. Stanley Peterman of Crowley.

There will be an afternoon program to be followed by a night banquet at one of the local hotels, and it is expected that as many as several hundred physicians will attend.

FRESHMEN AT COLLEGE ARE GIVEN 'EXAMS'

All freshmen of Northeast Center of Louisiana State university were given special examinations the past week through the testing bureau of the lower division of Louisiana State university to determine their capabilities in English and social science. Each examination lasted for an hour and was regarded as such as to disclose important data for later use.

Similar tests will be given at the end of the semester for all members of the freshmen class.

Miss E. J. Brown is instructor in social science and F. F. Smith and Mrs. G. R. Younse are instructors in English at Northeast Center.

TOYS COLLECTED

HOMER, La., Nov. 23.—(Special)—Through the cooperation of the Homer Lions club and the administration of the CCC camp here, an effort is being made to collect all discarded toys in and around Homer, for the purpose of repairing them and distributing them to the poor children of the parish. The work will be done in the CCC camp. Committees are making a canvass of the various communities and it is hoped that the supply of broken toys will be large enough to take care of many underprivileged children.

EAST, WEST CARROLL OIL DEALERS UNITE TO FORM NEW GROUP

The East and West Carroll Parish Oil Dealers' association was formed at Lake Providence Friday night, with Monroe and other representatives of the petroleum industry attending. The following officers were elected: L. L. Kilpatrick, chairman; H. Guenard, W. D. Edward, J. L. Johnson, vice-chairmen; W. C. Roberts, secretary.

Harry D. Smith, secretary of the Louisiana Petroleum industries committee, addressed the assemblage. He said in part:

"The main objective in asking that you organize yourselves into a committee to be known as the East and West Carroll Parish Oil Dealers association is to relieve and protect the petroleum industry and allied industries and their customers—the motorists—from unreasonable taxation and restricted legislation.

"The petroleum industry, with its allied interests, automotive, tire, accessories, etc., ranks first among the industries in the United States.

"Let us join hands with our competitors and employes, our customers and associated industries, and with the aid of the public press, put a stop to the tax and legislative injustices from which we have been suffering. All of us have a common interest in fairer laws and more reasonable regulations."

STOLEN ARTICLES ARE RECOVERED BY POLICE

Monroe police reported yesterday that a watch and pistol stolen from the residence of Ed Trout about two weeks ago had been returned to the owner.

A suit of clothes, reported stolen from a car owned by L. Rosenbaum, Clarksdale, Miss., salesman, was returned to their owner by the police. The stolen suit was recognized by Officer Lee Parker, and was in the possession of a negro who, when about to be questioned by the officer, dropped the clothes and ran away.

CLARKSON HEADS SEAL SALE DRIVE

Well Known Civic Leader Will Be Chairman For Ouachita Parish

A. B. Clarkson, well known civic worker, has accepted the chairmanship of the annual Christmas seal sale sponsored by the Ouachita Tuberculosis and Public Health association. Announcement of the appointment of various committees will be made by Mr. Clarkson Monday.

The seal sale will start on Thanksgiving day and will be continued to Christmas. It is hoped to raise a larger sum than ever this year. Added interest attaches to the fact that tomorrow the first cement will be poured at Pine Top, near Bayou D'Arbonne, for the construction of the new tuberculosis sanatorium which has long been the dream of a group headed by Capt. G. B. Cooley. This building will be made possible through aid of the government in a WPA project.

On December 1, all pastors in the city and parish will preach sermons on tuberculosis, which is in accord with a nation-wide observance of the day proposed.

People regarded the telephone as a curiosity when it was first invented. Bell educated them to use it by giving a series of lectures and entertainments by telephone.

SAFETY BAND TO GIVE BROADCAST

Brown Paper Mill Musicians Will Appear In Program At Fort Worth

The Brown Paper mill's famous "Safety Harmonica band," a group of 18 boys, sons of mill employes, will go to Fort Worth, Texas, next Friday to give a concert over the air. It will be the second time that such an organization has ever taken part in a radio broadcast. The first occasion was when the Brown Safety band gave a concert over station KWKH in Shreveport several months ago.

The 18 members of the band with their director, Philip Bernhardt, and the technical instructor, Lawrence Wilson, will leave Monroe Friday morning, arriving at Fort Worth late in the afternoon. The broadcast will be given from 10:30 to 10:45 p. m. over station WBAP, said to be the most powerful station in the south. Reception can be obtained in virtually every part of the United States.

The following program will be given:

"Blue Moon."
"St. Louis Blues."
"Skirts."
"Among My Souvenirs."
"Old Faithful."
"Loveless Love."

The "Skirts" and "Old Faithful" numbers are vocal selections, featuring "Red" Harmon.

The several numbers will be interwoven with a "floating melody," something like a theme song, a technical feature that gives the program the effect of a continuous presentation from beginning to end.

The Brown Safety Harmonica band is one of eight similar organizations in the United States. It has achieved widespread fame in musical circles throughout the country. None of the other harmonica bands is so fully equipped with musical instruments as the local organization.

A recent acquisition to the instrumental equipment was a chord harmonica, the largest instrument of its kind in this country. It will be played by Malcolm Stone. It is said that not more than six or eight of these instruments are in use in the United States. The chord harmonica is 23 inches long. It is built in two tiers, each tier containing 24 chords. Each chord is equipped with eight reeds, or a total of 384 reeds in all. The purpose of the instrument is to increase the volume efficiency of the ensemble.

The members of the Brown Safety Harmonica band, who will take part in the Fort Worth broadcast are:

Solo harmonicas: "Red" Harmon, Durwood Frank, G. B. Simmons, Sidney Stone, Joseph Butler, Jack Sanford.

Chord harmonica: Malcolm Stone.

Harmony harmonica: Lloyd Leonard, Lawrence Wilson, Lynwood Sanford.

Alto harmonicas: Willie Singleton, Wilfred May, Robert Robinson, Eugene Darden, Frank Whitlock.

Bass harmonicas: William Caldwell, L. C. Jackson.

Vocalists: Rex Harmon, L. C. Jackson.

CAMP OUACHITA OPEN TO PUBLIC

The formal opening of Camp Ouachita, of the CCC, located near Calhoun, took place on Friday, and the numerous visitors were well pleased with the place and its complete equipment.

Broad sidewalks, well flanked with native rocks, placed on edge in a substantial and artistic manner extend through the grounds and are said to be approximately one-half mile in length.

The landscaping is such as to attract favorable comment and the entrance has a rustic setting which causes immediate attention.

A friendly atmosphere permeates the camp, and the young men who are attached to it extended courtesies to the visitors, making them feel pleased with the new camp which contains 55 acres including four large barracks, bath house, mess hall, and other quarters. Many visitors attended the modern terrace construction demonstration with tractor and grader.

As the closing number on the day's program was a talk by Congressman Riley J. Wilson who praised the work of the camp and placed emphasis on the soil erosion branch of conservation.

POSTAL RECEIPTS CLIMB

DELHI, La., Nov. 23.—(Special)—J. W. Stegall, Delhi postmaster, stated that business at the local postoffice was far in excess of that done during the entire year of 1934. He said that more individual money orders had been issued to date in 1935 than were issued in 1934. It is the opinion of the postmaster that the total receipts in stamp sales will show an increase of 10 per cent over 1934, at the close of the present year.

SNIPERS KEEP ETHIOPIAN HORDES AT BAY

The marksmanship of Italy's snipers commands respect of the natives in the militarized zone, for those who ignore regulations have felt the sting of the conqueror's bullets. Here Ray Roussean, NEA Service staff cameraman, pictures snipers on duty in a rock-fortified outpost on a hillside, eyes trained on the brush for snooping natives.

PHYSICIANS ARE COMING TO CITY

Noted Specialists Will Attend Meeting Of Local Society

Unusual interest in the medical world of north Louisiana attaches to the meeting on December 6 of the Fifth District Medical society due to the fact that men of nation-wide fame are to attend and take active part on the program.

Dr. Paul A. O'Leary, of the Mayo clinic, at Rochester, Minn., will address the meeting. He is a specialist of wide fame and his talk will be received with much interest.

But there will be still other famed physicians on the day's program. They are Dr. James S. McLester, of Birmingham, Ala., president of the American Medical society; Dr. Howard Mahorner, of New Orleans, assistant professor of surgery at Tulane university, and Dr. E. Stanley Peterman of Crowley.

There will be an afternoon program to be followed by a night banquet at one of the local hotels, and it is expected that as many as several hundred physicians will attend.

FRESHMEN AT COLLEGE ARE GIVEN 'EXAMS'

All freshmen of Northeast Center of Louisiana State university were given special examinations the past week through the testing bureau of the lower division of Louisiana State university to determine their capabilities in English and social science. Each examination lasted for an hour and was regarded as such as to disclose important data for later use.

Similar tests will be given at the end of the semester for all members of the freshmen class.

Miss E. J. Brown is instructor in social science and F. F. Smith and Mrs. G. R. Younse are instructors in English at Northeast Center.

TOYS COLLECTED

HOMER, La., Nov. 23.—(Special)—Through the cooperation of the Homer Lions club and the administration of the CCC camp here, an effort is being made to collect all discarded toys in and around Homer, for the purpose of repairing them and distributing them to the poor children of the parish. The work will be done in the CCC camp. Committees are making a canvass of the various communities and it is hoped that the supply of broken toys will be large enough to take care of many underprivileged children.

EAST, WEST CARROLL OIL DEALERS UNITE TO FORM NEW GROUP

The East and West Carroll Parish Oil Dealers' association was formed at Lake Providence Friday night, with Monroe and other representatives of the petroleum industry attending. The following officers were elected: L. L. Kilpatrick, chairman; H. Guenard, W. D. Edward, J. L. Johnson, vice-chairmen; W. C. Roberts, secretary.

Harry D. Smith, secretary of the Louisiana Petroleum industries committee, addressed the assemblage. He said in part:

"The main objective in asking that you organize yourselves into a committee to be known as the East and West Carroll Parish Oil Dealers association is to relieve and protect the petroleum industry and allied industries and their customers—the motorists—from unreasonable taxation and restricted legislation.

"The petroleum industry, with its allied interests, automotive, tire, accessories, etc., ranks first among the industries in the United States.

"Let us join hands with our competitors and employes, our customers and associated industries, and with the aid of the public press, put a stop to the tax and legislative injustices from which we have been suffering. All of us have a common interest in fairer laws and more reasonable regulations."

STOLEN ARTICLES ARE RECOVERED BY POLICE

Monroe police reported yesterday that a watch and pistol stolen from the residence of Ed Trout about two weeks ago had been returned to the owner.

A suit of clothes, reported stolen from a car owned by L. Rosenbaum, Clarksdale, Miss., salesman, was returned to their owner by the police. The stolen suit was recognized by Officer Lee Parker, and was in the possession of a negro who, when about to be questioned by the officer, dropped the clothes and ran away.

CLARKSON HEADS SEAL SALE DRIVE

Well Known Civic Leader Will Be Chairman For Ouachita Parish

A. B. Clarkson, well known civic worker, has accepted the chairmanship of the annual Christmas seal sale sponsored by the Ouachita Tuberculosis and Public Health association. Announcement of the appointment of various committees will be made by Mr. Clarkson Monday.

The seal sale will start on Thanksgiving day and will be continued to Christmas. It is hoped to raise a larger sum than ever this year. Added interest attaches to the fact that tomorrow the first cement will be poured at Pine Top, near Bayou D'Arbonne, for the construction of the new tuberculosis sanatorium which has long been the dream of a group headed by Capt. G. B. Cooley. This building will be made possible through aid of the government in a WPA project.

On December 1, all pastors in the city and parish will preach sermons on tuberculosis, which is in accord with a nation-wide observance of the day proposed.

People regarded the telephone as a curiosity when it was first invented. Bell educated them to use it by giving a series of lectures and entertainments by telephone.

CAGED FURY

ROARING WITH RAGE, THE CAPTOR LIONS CLAWED VICIOUSLY AT THE CAGES IN WHICH TARZAN AND SIGREDA HAD SOUGHT REFUGE.

FROM THE CANNIBALS ROSE GREAT HOWLS OF FIENDISH MIRTH AT THE PLIGHT OF THE CAPTIVES.

AND MENGO COMMANDED HIS WARRIORS: "GO TO THE REAR OF THE CAGES AND DRIVE TARZAN INTO THE ARENA!"

BUT THE APE-MAN NEEDED NO PRODDING, FOR HIS HEART RAGED NOW WITH THE FURY OF BATTLE. HE OPENED THE CAGE DOOR!

WITH A HUNGRY SNARL, ONE OF THE LIONS PLUNGED IN, AND TARZAN JERKED THE DOOR SHUT.

THEN THE FURIOUS BATTLE WAS JOINED BETWEEN BEAST AND MAN-BEAST IN THE CLOSE QUARTERS OF THE CAGE.

THE SWIRL OF TALONS MINGLED WITH THE FLASH OF TARZAN'S KNIFE; FOR THE APE-MAN WAS NO LESS AGILE THAN HIS BRUTE FOE.

FINALLY, EMBRACING THE BEAST, THE JUNGLE LORD DROVE THE BLADE INTO ITS THROAT.

AS THE CARNIVORE DIED, SIGREDA THRILLED AT THE HEROIC VICTORY OF THE MAN SHE LOVED.

NOW TARZAN LEAPED OUT OF THE CAGE TO ENTER ANOTHER, TO PURSUE THE SAME STRATEGY OF KILLING ONE LION AT A TIME.

HE ELUDED THE SWIFT BEASTS AND DARTED TOWARD AN OPEN DOOR, BUT HE CAME TO A SUDDEN STOP.

I'm A BUM!

MRS. FINNIGAN- NOT FLANNIGAN- IS OUR NEW NEIGHBOR'S NAME-

THE WIDOW'S NAME IS FLANNIGAN. I'LL BET YOU THAT CLOCK AGAINST YOUR HAT IT IS.

FINNIGAN'S HER NAME. WHY?

TSK-TSK-AMBROSE, THERE IS A GREAT DEAL OF SENTIMENTAL VALUE ATTACHED TO THAT CLOCK— AND I WISH YOU WOULDN'T-

WELL, I'LL BE TAKING IT ALONG. I JUST FEEL LIKE A GOOD CRY.

HUH?

I SAID, "MOONSHINE, WOULD YOU KINDLY DO ME A FAVOR AND GIVE ME A SMART CRACK ON MY HEAD"— GO ON! DO AS I SAY!

OKAY- I'M ALWAYS WILLIN' TO DO A PAL A FAVOR!

ON MY HEAD I SAID. NOT MY EYE, IDIOT!

WELL, WHAT UNDER THE SUN?

BURGLARS, MY DEAR! I PUT UP A BRAVE BATTLE, BUT ONE OF THE BOUNDERS HIT ME FROM THE REAR AND MADE AWAY WITH THAT BEAUTIFUL CLOCK I GAVE YOU LAST CHRISTMAS.

NOW THAT I'VE NOTIFIED THE POLICE— I'LL RUN OVER AND SEE IF THAT WIDOW WOMAN HAS A PIECE OF STEAK I CAN BORROW TO PUT ON THAT EYE.

NO-I HAVEN'T ANY STEAK, DEARIE- BUT I HAVE SOME LOVELY SAUSAGES.

WELL MY HEAVENLY DAYS!

SAY, SISTER- COME BACK HERE WITH THAT CLOCK!

HALP! THIEF!!

YOU'RE A THIEF!

POK!

WHOP!

NICE WORK, EMMY! KEEP LEADIN' WITH YER LEFT!

OH BOY! OH BOY! OH BOY! YOU MISSED THE SWELLEST FIGHT BETWEEN YOUR WIFE AND THE LADY NEXT DOOR, AND TH' COPS BUTTED IN ABOUT TH' THIRD ROUND AND TOOK 'EM TO TH' STATION IN TH' WAGON.

MY WORD! LADY PLUSHBOTTOM FIGHTING!

YEH- OVER A CLOCK- SHE CLAIMED YOU GIVE IT TO HER LAST CHRISTMAS- THEN MRS. FINNIGAN SAID EMMY'S UNCLE AMBROSE GIVE IT TO HER FOR HER BIRTHDAY- AND GUESS WHO TH' JUDGE GIVE TH' CLOCK TO?

LADY PLUSHBOTTOM?

NAW- HE GIVE HER EIGHT DAYS!

I DON'T DISLIKE HIM. I HATE HIM— BUT HE WRITES ME THAT HE'S MOVED INTO A THIRTY STORY BUILDING.

MAH LAN! DON'T TELL ME YO' WANTS TO PUSH HIM OFF A THUTTY STORY BUILDIN', CHILE.

NO, I'D LOVE TO SLIDE DOWN THE BANNISTERS!

IN THE ENEMY CAPITOL:

YOUR MAJESTY, NIKKATEENA BEGS FOR PEACE. THEIR AMMUNITION IS EXHAUSTED.

HUMPH! DO WE HAVE PLENTY?

PLENTY, YOUR MAJESTY.

THEN LET OUR ANSWER BE THE ROAR OF CANNON! CRUSH THE DOGS! WIPE THEM OFF THE EARTH!

SUDDENLY, EASY APPEARS OVER THE ENEMY'S INDUSTRIAL DISTRICT.

BOOM! BLOOM! WOW! WHAM! BANG! ZOOM!

GLORY BE! WE GOT OUT JUST IN TIME.

JUMP, YOU FOOL! HE'S DIVING AT US!

BAH-ROOM!

BRING HIM DOWN! 10,000 RUBLES TO THE MAN WHO GETS HIM!

WUP! ANTI-AIRCRAFT! MUST BE SOMETHING UNDER THOSE SHEDS THAT THEY DON'T WANT ME TO HIT.

PLOP!

PLOP!

AH HA! JUST AS I THOUGHT!

BLOOEY!

AN HOUR LATER.

GUESS VOT HAPPENED! DER ENEMY HASS AGREED TO PEACE!

NO SURPRISE TO ME, SUH. I FIGURED THAT SINCE WE CAN'T FIGHT WITHOUT GUNPOWDER, NEITHER CAN THE ENEMY.

R. Crane 11-24

SO I BLEW UP THEIR MUNITIONS FACTORY, A MUNITIONS DUMP, AND A MUNITIONS TRAIN. AND IF YOU DON'T MIND, SUH, I'LL HELP MYSELF TO A FEW O' THESE MEDALS, FOR SAVING THE DAY.

YOUR SECRETARY CALLED ME AND SAID YOU WERE COMING TO SEE ME.

MR. TRACY, IT'S A SHAME, A NASTY SHAME THAT THE CITY COUNCIL REFUSED TO APPROPRIATE MONEY FOR YOUR PLAYGROUND PROJECT FOR THE KIDS OF HOMEVILLE.

BUT IT'S EASY TO UNDERSTAND WHY THEY DID IT. YOU'VE TOUCHED THEM ON A SORE SPOT. YOU'VE DONE THINGS IN THIS TOWN. YOU'VE TAKEN THE SPECIAL PRIVILEGES OF THE BIG SHOTS AWAY AND THEY DON'T LIKE IT!

I'VE ONLY CARRIED OUT MY DUTY, MR. BASIL. I'VE TRIED TO MAKE THE POLICE DEPARTMENT OF THIS TOWN A RESPECTED, LAW ENFORCING BODY.

THIS IS HOW SURE I AM THAT THEY'RE BEHIND YOU. I'M WILLING TO LOAN YOU THE NECESSARY MONEY TO BUILD THAT PLAYGROUND ON YOUR OWN PERSONAL NOTE!

DO YOU MEAN THAT?

WHAT DO YOU THINK? I DON'T KNOW MUCH ABOUT YOU PERSONALLY, BUT I DO KNOW PLENTY ABOUT YOU BY REPUTATION. THAT BUNDLE ON THE TABLE REPRESENTS TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS. IS IT ENOUGH?
